DIFFERENT SYSTEMS OF FINANCE BLAMED

Detailed Figures Show Big Divergence in Expense of Householders.

EDITOR'S NOTE—This is the sixth of a series of stories appearing exclusively in The Washington Post and revealing conditions in the territory served with water by the Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission. Tomorrow's story will show a comparison of water rates in this territory with those in suburbs not served by the commission.

A computation of the water and sewer costs in the area served by the Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission on the basis of costs for simliar services in Washington shows Sanitary Commission customers pay $44.89 more than Washington property owners.

This comparison is on the assumption that the home-owner in the Sanitary district pays off his front-foot benefit charge in a lump sum, instead of making annual payments for 50 years. In Washington, the special assessments levied for water and sewer facilities correspond to the front-foot charge in the Sanitary area. The special assessments to the Washington home-owner are payable over a period of three years with a 6 per cent interest charge on deferred payments. The comparison assumes that this charge is also paid in a lump sum.

Comparison of Costs.

The following figures show the costs for water and sewer charges in Washington and the Sanitary district if the respective home-owner paid off his special assessments or front foot benefit charges in the first year of his occupancy of a home, having a 50-foot frontage, and using the average of 56,000 gallons of water a year, and having an assessed value of $4,000:

Costs in the Sanitary district:
General tax (7 cents per $100 assessed value)	$2.80
Front foot benefit charge (lump sum payment instead of 28 cents per front foot per year over a 50-year period. For both water and sewer.)	336.00
Water service charge	4.00
Water consumption charge (22 cents per 1,000 gallons for 56,000 gallons)	12.32
	$355.12
Costs in Washington:
*General tax (sewer only; 3.7 cents per $100 assessed valuation)	$1.48
Special assessments (lump sum payment instead of $150 each for water and sewer over three-year period with 6 per cent interest on deferred payments)	300.00
No water service charge
Water consumption charge, 56,000 gallons	8.75
	$310.23

*This figure is the approximate part of the District tax rate of $1.70 per

Roosevelt's Son Ordered to Bed

Taken Ill From Overwork on Way to Speak in Father's Behalf.

Little Boars Head, N. H., Sept. 8 (A.P.).—James Roosevelt, son of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, of New York, was put to bed tonight suffering from "complete exhaustion" and was under the care of a physician, members of the household said.

Young Roosevelt was scheduled to speak tonight in Brewer, Me. He was taken ill en route and was taken from the Pine Tree Express of the Boston & Maine Railroad to the summer home of his father-in-law, Dr. Harvey Cushing, noted Boston brain specialist.

Members of the family called a physician who diagnosed his illness as "complete exhaustion" and ordered him to bed.

Passengers Marooned After Steamer Crash

Manila (Friday), Sept. 9 (A.P.).—A radio message received at Iloilo, Panay Island, today said the inter-island steamer Misamis had been wrecked on Mindoro Island and that the passengers, although saved, were short of food and water.

A relief launch was dispatched from Manila and aid was offered by Red Cross officials.

Bahaman Hurricane Kills 10 and Hurts 30

200 Excursionists Safe at Atlantic City After Gale.

New York, Sept. 8 (U.P.).—A howling wind brushed the Atlantic seaboard today, plunging temperatures downward from mid-summer heat to early winter chill and kicking up a storm at sea which stranded 200 passengers for 13 hours on the excursion boat Steel Pier.

The gale, which buffeted many small boats along the coast and cost at least one life, threw the excursion vessel off its course at 4 a. m. and prevented it from docking at Atlantic City after a voyage from New York.

All day the captain and crew of 25 struggled against high waves and wind, vainly attempting to make port, while many of the passengers feared the boat was about to founder.

The passengers, weary after an all-night and day vigil, crowded along the rail while Coast Guard boats stood by. The Steel Pier fought on 200 Houses on Island Destroyed Monday; Relief Sent.

Nassau, Bahama Islands, Sept. 8 (U.P.).—Ten persons were killed and 30 injured when a hurricane struck Abaco Island on Monday, it was learned here tonight.

Communication with the island had been cut off since Monday when a tropical disturbance swept up from the south and spread alarm throughout the islands and along the east coast of Florida.

The Abaco Island referred to here is listed on maps as Great Abaco Island. Little Abaco Island is at the northern tip of the larger island, which is about 200 miles due east of Miami and Palm Beach, Fla. Abaco is 50 miles due north of New Providence Island, where Nassau is situated.

PAUL BERN'S SUICIDE REMAINS MYSTERY

Motive Is Hinted at Inquest as Worry Over Physical Deficiency.

Los Angeles, Sept. 8 (A.P.).—The secret behind the suicide of Paul Bern, husband of Jean Harlow, of the screen, remained unrevealed tonight after a coroner's jury had sifted the testimony of friends, professional associates and servants.

The motive, the verdict said, was undetermined.

There was testimony from Autopsy Surgeon Frank Webb that Bern, while free from disease, suffered from a "condition likely to produce melancholia," and others testified the motion picture executive was subject to attacks of gloom and often discussed suicide.

As arrangements went ahead for private funeral services tomorrow afternoon, authorities, still puzzled as to why Bern died from a self-inflicted bullet wound at the picturesque canyon home he gave his bride at their wedding last July 2, said they were considering the theory that a previous marriage or common law union may have contributed to his tragic decision.

Speculation remained as to the identity and whereabouts of the "red-haired woman" whose existence as a figure in Bern's past has been revealed by Bern's brother, Henry, and his secretary, Irene Harrison. Both promised statements later.

George Clarken, Los Angeles insurance man, said at Colorado Springs today that Bern was married ten years ago to a woman now confined in a New York sanatorium for the mentally incompetent and that he had placed a large sum with a New York trust company for her benefit. So far as he knew, Clarken was quoted as saying, Bern and the woman were never divorced.

From New York came a report that

Officer, Held in Death Of Prisoner, Gets Bail

Pekin, Ill., Sept. 8 (A.P.).—Deputy Sheriff C. O. Skinner, charged with murder of a prisoner found hanged in the county jail, was released today under $20,000 bond. County authorities indicated Skinner would be brought before the county grand jury next week.

CATALONIA GRANTED LIMITED AUTONOMY

Spain's Action Is Declared Step Toward Union of Federated States.

Madrid, Friday, Sept. 9 (A.P.).—Two projects affecting the future course of republican Spain became a reality early today when the Assembly put through the "agrarian reforms" and the statute granting limited autonomy to the rich province of Catalonia.

The agrarian measure in its final chapter, which was passed just after midnight, provides for distribution in community forms of hundreds of large estates held under former royal grants and other properties formerly held by the Spanish crown.

Conservative estimates said the law probably would affect nearly 52,000,000 acres, valued at $5,520,000,000, and provide land for about 100,000 persons.

The Catalonian statute, which has been bitterly assailed and enthusiastically defended for many months, allocates to the state government of Catalonia the right to employ the Catalonian tongue, the direction of Catalonia's educational, economic and social system, and the right to police its own territory.

Questions of foreign relations, naval and military protection are conceded to the national government.

Opponents have contended that the statute would weaken the republic, while advocates held it was not more than Catalonia's right.

In advocating the Catalonian statute, Premier Manuel Azana asserted the measure would eventually convert Spain into a union of federated states, similar to the United States,

London Crowds Cheer Mollison on Return

Southampton, England, Sept. 8 (A.P.).—Weeping skies but cheering throngs greeted Capt. J. A. Mollison, the airman who recently conquered the Atlantic from east to west, upon his arrival here aboard the Empress of Britain.

As five airplanes dipped in salute through the clouds, the airman and his wife, Amy Johnson, who had flown to meet him at Cherbourg, descended the gangplank amid the cheers of the crowd.

Germany to Put Airmail Station in South Atlantic

Liner Will Be Anchored Between Africa and Brazil With Alighting Platform to Facilitate Regular Europe-South America Aerial Contact.

Berlin, Sept. 8 (A.P.).—The North German Lloyd Co. today announced it had designated the liner Westfalen as a floating air-station in mid-Atlantic to facilitate the establishment of regular air mail between South America and Europe.

The liner will be equipped as a mother ship for transatlantic mail planes. This will include an alighting platform, stores of tools and spare parts, radio equipment and weather forecasting paraphernalia.

The liner will be permanently stationed midway between Bathurst, British Gambia, or a nearby point on the African coast, and Fernando Noronha.

The Lufthansa Air Service of Germany charted the position of the Westfalen with a view to establishing through air service between Germany, Cadiz, Spain; Las Palmas, Canary Islands, and Brazil.

The Westfalen is a liner of 5,124 gross tons, 409 feet long and 52 feet wide, and was built in 1906.

The recent International Aviation Congress at Rome revealed a race among Italy, France and Germany to be the first nation to establish a successful commercial air line to South America.

It was revealed that all three nations, especially France and Italy, had their plans well developed, even to time tables and cost figures. At that time it was expected the French would make the first move for a transatlantic service, beginning with monthly flights from Senegal, Africa, to Natal, Brazil.

Connecticut G. O. P. Again Names Seymour

Hartford, Conn., Sept. 8 (A.P.).—Col. Clarence W. Seymour, defeated two years ago by Representative Augustine Lonergan, Democrat, today was nominated for Congress by the First Connecticut District Republican convention.

TOKYO VICTORY IN MANCHURIAN INQUIRY IS SEEN

Japanese Leaders Claim Nation Favored in League Report.

ACCEPTANCE TERMED UNLIKELY, HOWEVER

Purported Recognition Given China's Sovereignty in Area Resented.

Tokyo, Friday, Sept. 9 (A.P.).—An arrangement recognizing China's sovereignty in Manchuria, but proposing the establishment of its autonomy under Japanese advisers, official sources here said today, was recommended in the report of the League of Nations inquiry commission, which is now filed with league headquarters at Geneva.

These sources said the information on the contents of the report, which the commission refused to reveal until it could be published from Geneva, came from Japanese representatives at Peiping, who transmitted what purported to be a resume of the report.

Plan for Government.

The plan for establishment of an autonomous government, the report said, was to be worked out in negotiations by China and Japan with representatives of Manchuria and observers representing the league, according to the recommendation.

The chapter entitled "Reelections," it said, give it as the opinion of the commission that a return to the status before the Japanese campaign which began on September 19, 1931, was impossible, as well as Japanese annexation of the territory or the establishment of a Japanese protectorate.

The report said it also recommended complete demilitarization of Manchuria and the establishment of a native police force under foreign supervision.

Japan Favored, Report.

It quoted one member of the commission as saying in effect that Japan won every point in the report as finally framed and that it was revised in many instances to take Japanese contentions into consideration.

The foreign office spokesman, however, when asked whether the purported report would be acceptable to Japan, replied that Japan's recognition of Manchukuo next week would be her answer to any proposals to restore Chinese sovereignty in Manchuria.

The foreign office instructed the Japanese representatives at Geneva to ask the league to withhold publication of the report until the Japanese government had studied it and prepared observations on it. This, it was said, would require from four to six weeks.

G. U. Voted Fidac Medal at Lisbon

Two Other American Institutions Also Get Similar Awards.

Indianapolis, Sept. 8 (A.P.).—American Legion national headquarters was informed today in a cablegram from Lisbon, Portugal, that Fidac medals for distinguished service in promoting world peace and understanding have been awarded to Georgetown University, Washington, D. C.; Carleton College, Northfield, Minn., and the University of Florida, Gainesville, Fla.

The award was made at the thirteenth international congress of the Fidac, interallied veterans' organization, composed of World War veterans in ten allied nations. The three educational institutions selected to receive the medals were picked by an American jury of award appointed by Henry L. Stevens, jr., national commander of the legion.

Eighty-five universities and colleges submitted reports to the jury on their courses of instruction in international relations and world politics and their various activities in the field of foreign relations.

3 Feared Dead and 20 Hurt As Pier Collapses

Opelousas, La., Sept. 8 (A.P.).—One man was injured fatally, two were believed to have drowned and 20 others were hurt today when 30 workmen were thrown into the swift current of the Atchafalaya River when a pier used in construction of a highway bridge at Krotz Springs collapsed.

E. J. Wade, of Morgan City, foreman, died late today after his right arm had been amputated in an effort to save his life.

Robbers Escape in Car Similar to One Used in Making Local Getaway.

A bold quartet of bandits who yesterday held up and robbed a loan office in Petersburg, Va., of $700, are believed by local authorities to have been a part of the same gang who last January robbed the Washington Mechanics Savings Bank's East Capitol street branch, escaping with $14,135.

By a singular coincidence, Detective Sergt. John W. Wise, of the Washington police hold-up squad, was in Petersburg, Va., yesterday and at the time of the robbery was within two blocks of the scene. Detective Wise was one of the chief investigators of the East Capitol street robbery.

The leader of the group which yesterday held up the American Small Loan Co. office in Petersburg, after tying up the manager and two women clerks, was described in terms closely tallying with the description of the leading participant in the local bank robbery January 16.

Description of Leader.

Only four men participated in the Petersburg affair, while five took part in the Washington Mechanics Savings Bank robbery. The leader in the hold-up last January was a man whose age was estimated at 50 years and he was of dignified appearance. This was the description of the chief of the group of bandits at Petersburg yesterday.

The leader of the group in Petersburg yesterday wore eyeglasses during the robbery. Another man, about 40 years old, roughly dressed, assisted him. The third man and a man who waited at the wheel of a machine outside are similar to descriptions given of participants in the East Capitol street holdup.

Employes Trussed.

The men escaped from the Petersburg loan office in a light sedan and are believed to be fleeing northward. They tied up the loan company employes with neckties and sealed their mouths with adhesive tape. It was fifteen minutes before the manager could free himself and give the alarm.

Detective Wise returned here last night and reported to Capt. Bernard W. Thompson, acting chief of detectives. He said he was sitting in a lunchroom at the noon hour about two blocks from the scene of the

Venizelos' Action To Resign Blocked

Royalist Party Attack Is Weathered by Veteran Greek Premier.

Athens, Sept. 8 (A.P.).—Premier Eleutherios Venizelos, who has been in and out of office numerous times during the last dozen years, weathered another political storm today by surrendering the premiership for a few hours.

In response to a demand by the Royalist party that he be removed from office, he presented his resignation to President Zaimis. The president refused to accept it, and thereupon M. Venizelos announced that things would go their normal course until the parliamentary elections September 25.

The attack on the premier was made by P. E. Tsaldaris, royalist leader, who accused him with working with a military group in his pre-election activities. On Tuesday M. Tsaldaris asked the president to appoint a premier who would insure uninfluenced voting. M. Venizelos was in Crete at the time and action was held up until his return.

Mrs. Sabin Will Speak In Democratic Campaign

New York, Sept. 8 (A.P.).—Mrs. Charles A. Sabin, who resigned as Republican national committeewoman from New York several years ago to work for prohibition reform, conferred today with leaders of the Roosevelt-Garner campaign.

After she had talked with James A. Farley, Democratic national chairman, he announced Mrs. Sabin would make at least one campaign speech stressing the Democratic prohibition plank.

COL. RAYMOND ROBINS, FRIEND OF PRESIDENT, FEARED THUGS' VICTIM

COL. RAYMOND ROBINS.

MRS. RAYMOND ROBINS.

Was Expected In Capital Tuesday.

WIFE FEARS HE IS SLAIN

(Associated Press.)

The strange disappearance of Col. Raymond Robins, outspoken prohibitionist, since he agreed last week in New York to see President Hoover here Tuesday, was disclosed yesterday at the White House and concern for his safety deepened when Mrs. Robins, in Maine, expressed fear her husband had been killed by Florida bootleggers.

Shortly after White House officials expressed concern—shared by President Hoover—at the failure of efforts to locate Col. Robins, the wife of the social economist and prominent prohibitionist telephoned the Associated Press here from Maine that he had received numerous threats of death unless he stopped his prohibition efforts.

A close friend of President Hoover, Col. Robins had accepted an invitation to call on the Chief Executive at the White House on Tuesday when he planned to come here from New York.

U. S. Agents on Case.

The invitation was extended through Walter H. Newton, one of the President's secretaries, who telephoned Robins at the City Club in New York from the White House on Friday.

When Robins failed to keep his engagement Tuesday the White House began making inquiries.

Federal investigators were placed on the case, but thus far have reported no tangible results. The inquiry is still proceeding quietly, with New York police also working on the case.

Chief W. H. Moran of the Secret Service said last night he had been requested to make "certain inquiries" and these had been made without result.

Friends Asked Inquiries.

"This concludes our part of the matter unless we are requested to make an investigation," Chief Moran said.

He added that friends of Col. Robins had asked that the inquiries be made.

Secretary Newton, in disclosing Robins' disappearance, said:

"Robins has been a warm friend of mine for 20 years and is a personal friend of the President.

"Last Friday night I talked with him by telephone in New York and when I found he was coming to the Capital on Tuesday I made an engagement for him to talk with Mr. Hoover.

"He did not appear on Tuesday or communicate with us. Yesterday I became concerned.

"By telephone inquiries I found out that he had checked out of the City Club in New York last Saturday afternoon and that they didn't know where he was except that his forwarding address was the Dodge Hotel in Washington.

"I feared that he might have been taken sick or affected by the heat. Since that time we have been able to find no trace of him and do not know where he is now."

At the Dodge Hotel here it was said Robins had no reservation and had not been there.

Mrs. Robins telephoned the Associated Press in Washington late yes-

LONERGAN IS CHOSEN AS SENATE NOMINEE

Gov. Cross Renominated as Connecticut Democrats Indorse Repeal.

Eastern Point, Conn., Sept. 8 (A.P.).—Gov. Wilbur L. Cross' executive secretary took personal control of a turbulent session of the Democratic State convention late today, guiding through an entire State ticket before he permitted the governor's renomination.

Representative Augustine Lonergan defeated Prof. Harry Morgan Ayres, of Columbia University, for the senatorial nomination, and William M. Citron was chosen nominee for representative at large before a deadlock was threatened over the lieutenant governorship.

Meanwhile, the convention adopted without debate a platform urging repeal of the eighteenth amendment and modification of the Volstead act. The Republican State convention went on record yesterday for repeal and modification.

The convention was orderly until nominations for governor were called for. Then Kenneth Wynne, secretary to the 70-year-old chief executive, asked that nomination for lieutenant governor be made first. Off the convention floor he said:

"I took this action because the governor did not want to take the nomination until he knew who was going to be on the ticket with him."

Thomas J. Spellacy, former national committeeman, who led the successful campaign to pledge Connecticut's delegates to the national convention

Air Liner and Searching Army Plane Missing

El Paso, Tex., Sept. 8 (U.P.).—The eastbound mail and passenger plane of the American Airways, which left here at 9 a. m. today, was missing tonight between Salt Flats, about 75 miles east of here, and Big Springs, Tex.

Aboard the plane were Pilot W. J. Robbins, Fort Worth, a copilot, and two passengers. The trimotored ship had not landed at any emergency airways field. Radio communication with it had ceased soon after it took off from here. An Army airplane, which left Midland to search for the missing ship, also was unreported from the same vicinity.

FRANCE NOT TO ADD TO DANUBE CREDITS

International Policy Revision Suggested at Italian Economic Parley.

Stresa, Italy, Sept. 8 (A.P.).—A suggestion of reversal of certain phases of French international policy was voiced today by Robert Coulondre, the French delegate to the economic conference in progress here.

He served notice his nation would not lend further money to the central European nations. He inferred that economic restoration must come in some other way. The conference was called here to consider the rehabilitation of the Danubian countries.

This was a day of forceful speaking, during which two plans, one French and the other Italian, emerged.

France offered a detailed scheme for agrarian relief through the institution of grain preferences by industrial countries and the creation of a special fund to assist in marketing. Importing nations would contribute proportionately with a mixed committee to administer funds and fix import quotas.

Italy proposed a scheme, termed temporary, rejecting preferences but also providing for organized marketing. In return was sought a general lowering of tariffs by the agrarian states.

Paris, Sept. 8 (A.P.).—Premier Edouard Herriot tonight decided to await the return of his personal representative, Marcel Ray, from London before calling the council of ministers together and dispatching a reply to the German demand for equality in armament.

Fire Routs Hundreds From Chicago Theater

Chicago, Sept. 8 (A.P.).—Fire tonight routed several hundred spectators from the Garrick Theater—in the heart of Randolph street rialto—and caused much damage to the showhouse.

Police said every one escaped without injury after the theater manager had passed quietly down the aisles, warning the audience to depart quickly. The rush of fire apparatus through the loop and its concentration at the corner of Clark and Randolph streets attracted thousands of theatergoers and strollers to the scene.

Rangers Called to Probe Double Slaying in Texas

San Marcos News, Unsatisfied With Verdict in Deaths of Two Brothers, 14 and 15, Makes Plea; Ax and Pistol Found.

San Marcos, Tex., Sept. 8 (A.P.).—Texas Rangers were called tonight to investigate the fatal shooting of Arthur Morton, 15, and Harry Morton, 14, sons of a wealthy rancher, at their summer home 10 miles north of San Marcos after a justice of the peace decided the youths met death accidentally.

Unsatisfied by the verdict of the justice, A. M. Ramsay, of the San Marcos News, asked Adj. Gen. W. W. Sterling to send the Rangers. F. W. Faris, manager of the News, said Sterling promised to do so.

The double shooting was discovered this morning. Harry was found fatally wounded on the ground about 25 yards from the building in which they had been sleeping. Suffering from three bullet wounds, he was rushed to a hospital, but died ten minutes after arrival there.

The body of Arthur, the elder brother, was in a sleeping room with a bullet wound in the head. A pistol with four cartridges discharged lay nearby. Both boys were clad in night clothing.

The boys were the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hunter Morton, of San Antonio. They were high school students, and had been spending the summer at the home near San Marcos.

Their sleeping quarters were about 75 yards from the $300,000 Morton summer home, which is on a 5,500-acre Hill County ranch.

The long screened sleeping porch in which Arthur's body was found was splotched with blood.

Investigators found a sheathed hand ax in the room. Its case was blood-stained and had been cut in one place. Three bullet holes were found in the screen above a cot on the porch.

The father of the boys was a former newspaperman. His wife was Miss Zilla Naylor, debutante a few years ago in San Antonio.

FARMERS OF WEST TO GET FIRST LOANS

Directors of Agriculture Credit Corporation to Be Listed Soon.

(Associated Press.)

The Reconstruction Corporation expects to have the 1932 relief act in full operation within the next fortnight.

The agricultural and self-liquidating loan sections are rapidly approaching completion with those in charge of the latter already examining a large group of proposed projects to create jobs.

The only thing now holding back the farm section is employment of personnel to handle the Agricultural Credit Corporations being established in ten Western and Southern land bank districts. These corporations are to finance farm products of all kinds with special reference at first to putting the live stock industry on a sound basis.

The self-liquidating loan section probably would have completed its first transaction this week, but for the fact that Pasadena (Calif.) officials withdrew a request that the corporation finance the new Pasadena water works. They found they could get financing at home.

The agricultural credit corporations are regarded by members of the directorate as one of the most important phases of their work. Wilson McCarthy, a director, has devoted most of his time for the last six weeks to organizing these institutions. Ten days ago he obtained the services of Ford Hovey, president of the Omaha Stock Yards and a banker, to organize and operate the regional corporations.

Directorate List Soon.

Hovey said yesterday he hoped shortly to be able to announce the directorates of the banks. Each will have a capital of at least $3,000,000 and one or more branches located in strategic centers.

The Western corporations will be first organized. This work is being pushed because live stock men have been urgently requesting loans to finance feeder cattle, sheep and hogs. The season when range cattle are brought to the large primary markets at Kansas City, Chicago and Omaha is now on. Large sums of money are necessary to finance the buyers who fatten these cattle for the final market.

Although live stock interests will be the first to get attention, this does not mean that the farmer who raises wheat, corn and other crops will be neglected. The regional corporations will make loans to finance all sorts of crops, taking over last year's seed loan appropriations remaining in the hands of the Secretary of Agriculture.

Studies Many Projects.

The self-liquidating loan section, operating under a board of engineers, is scanning a great number of projects which would supply thousands of jobs. Gardner Cowles, sr., spokesman for the board of directors, and Atlee Pomerene, chairman of the board, yesterday reiterated the stand of the corporation that the first consideration in making loans would be creation of jobs, and as many of them as possible.

Harvey C. Couch, another director, has been looking after organization of the self-liquidating section.

Cowles announced that the board of engineers had approved plans for the Los Angeles metropolitan water district to pipe water from the Colorado River above Hoover Dam. The district has asked a loan of $40,000,000 to finance the first two years' work on the project, which eventually will cost $220,000,000, take about eight years to complete and furnish employment for many thousands of men.

The corporation's experts have not yet completed examination of the financial aspects of this project.

Pinchot Assails R. F. C. "Red Tape"

Declares Delay on Loan Is Causing Thousands to Suffer.

Harrisburg, Pa., Sept. 8 (A.P.).—Gov. Pinchot today criticized as "cruel and unnecessary" the delay and "red tape" encountered by Pennsylvania in its effort to obtain a loan of $45,000,000 from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

The chief executive, who made his first appeal to the R. F. C. on July 18, attacked the policies of the Federal agency in a letter sent to Chairman Atlee Pomerene. The letter was approved by the Pennsylvania State Emergency Relief Board at a meeting today.

"While you ask us to answer elaborate questions, thousands of families of five persons, on relief in Pennsylvania, are living on from two to three dollars a week, or even less," the letter said. "Hundreds of thousands of children are going without milk, and malnutrition in the schools is growing by leaps and bounds."

"Other States have been granted loans for relief with no such delay and red tape as Pennsylvania is now asked to accept. * * * If this unreasonable and unnecessary delay goes on much longer, the sufferings of our people will leave me no choice but to appeal directly to the President of the United States."

New Uprising Plot Quashed in Brazil

Former State President Escapes, but Others Are Arrested.

Rio de Janeiro, Sept. 8 (A.P.).—The government announced tonight that Arthur Bernardes, accused as leader of a plot to overthrow the government of Minas Geraes, had escaped capture by fleeing from his residence in Vicoes. It said the plot, however, was quashed in every quarter.

The announcement said a quantity of arms was found in the home of Bernardes, former President of Minas Geraes.

The conspirators, it said, planned uprisings in several places northwest of South Minas, including the garrison at Juiz de Fora, drawing federal forces from the Sao Paulo front and permitting the Paulist rebels to invade southern Minas. Among the number arrested was Assis Chateaubriand, publisher of a chain of newspapers in Rio de Janeiro, Sao Paulo and elsewhere.

The government announced capture of twelve towns and 10,000 square miles in the States of Sao Paulo and Parana in operations against the Paulista forces.

The Business Upturn

(Associated Press.)

Business developments yesterday included:

New York—Officials of the Celanese Corporation of America announced that approximately 1,000 men have been added to full time work at its Cumberland, Md., plant because of an increase in demand for yarns and fabrics.

Chicago—A new high price for 1932 was set when a Chicago Stock Exchange seat was sold for $7,500. The amount was $1,500 more than the previous high for the year.

New York—Bradstreet's index for wholesale food prices for the week ended September 6 showed an increase of 2 cents, to $1.79. The index for the previous week was $1.77.

Chicago—Increases in freight car loadings for the week ended September 3 were reported today by many railroads, including the Illinois Central, Pennsylvania, New York Central, Missouri-Kansas-Texas, Wabash and St. Louis-San Francisco.

Youngstown, Ohio—Steel production here has moved up to about 20 per cent of capacity, as compared with a rate of about 18 per cent at the beginning of the week. The Republic Steel Corporation has increased its ingot production 8 per cent.

New York—General Motors Corporation reported that its August sales were nearly 500 units over the July sales, although the August figure was considerably below that of a year ago.

New York—The Federal Reserve Bank reported a gain of $5,026,000 in the Nation's monetary gold stocks, resulting from a net decrease of a corresponding amount in the total of gold held for foreign accounts.

New York—Dow, Jones & Co. reported that a noticeable increase in sales during August was experienced by the office appliance industry as compared with July.

Chicago—The Commonwealth Edison Co. declared that, although the electric output in the Chicago area is running below that of a year ago, a definite improvement has been noticed in the last three weeks and this week's output compares better with that of the corresponding week last year than any other week since April.

Chicago—The Lorenz Knitting Mills announced a 40 per cent increase in its working force and resumption of a 24-hour production schedule.

REQUESTS DELUGE HOME LOAN BOARD

(Associated Press.)

Chairman Franklin W. Fort, of the Home Loan Board, said yesterday the board had been informed that building and loan associations in eight States have specific permission under State laws to buy capital stock in the regional banks. Those States, he said, are Alabama, Arkansas, Illinois, Indiana, Louisiana, Michigan, New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

Opening of the twelve Home Loan Banks still is a month off, but already the Federal directing board is scanning thousands of applications for direct loans.

The volume of requests from home owners was described yesterday by Chairman Franklin W. Fort as a "deluge." But he said all are receiving attention, and where the mortgage collateral appears sound the board is endeavoring to arrange the desired refinancing before the scheduled opening of its regional banks, October 15.

The procedure is to forward such applications to lending organizations in the various States. They go to building and loan association clearing houses where these organizations exist, and the board is encouraging their creation throughout the country.

"When the regional banks open for business," Fort said, "those local financing institutions which have aided home owners in the interim may pledge these home mortgages as collateral to obtain funds to replace those thus used."

Fort explained that since banks, as a rule, lend less on homes than building and loan associations, their paper in many cases should be more easily refinanced.

R. F. C. Is Asked to Lend $750,000 to St. Louis

(Associated Press.)

The Reconstruction Finance Corporation yesterday was asked to lend $750,000 to St. Louis to take care of immediate needs of that city's unemployed.

E. G. Steger, director of relief for the St. Louis citizens' committee, and Charles C. Muench, city counselor, discussed the situation with Fred C. Croxton, assistant in charge of relief. The two men said they told Croxton that direct relief was necessary for approximately 100,000 persons until November. The city originally wanted $1,037,000, but Gov. Caulfield cut the figure to $750,000.

5,000 Firms Ready For Shorter Week

U. S. Chamber Committee Begins Study for Spreading Jobs.

(Associated Press.)

A special study of how to give jobs to more people by letting all work less time was begun yesterday by a committee for the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

Paul W. Litchfield, of Akron, Ohio, chairman, said he expected his group to have a preliminary report ready for the chamber's board of directors when they meet here September 23 and 24.

Litchfield said surveys showed about 5,000 companies in 21 branches of industry already have "placed in operation definite plans for spreading or increasing employment." Among the things his committee will consider, he added, are "reduced days per week, alternating individuals or shifts, reduced hours per day, rotation of days, or shortened shifts in continuous operation.

The chamber committee, Litchfield said, will cooperate with the group set up at the recent business conference called by President Hoover. Instead, however, of limiting its work to the present emergency, Litchfield's group will consider the effect of a possible long time change in working hours.

French Horsewoman Tries to End Own Life

Monte Carlo, Monaco, Sept. 4 (A.P.).—Mlle. Rachel Dorance, widely known French horsewoman, was reported in a serious condition at a hsopital today as a result of swallowing poison.

She took the poison in a hotel at Cannes, France, west of here, and the hotel proprietor drove her by automobile to her apartment here for medical attention. When her condition became worse she was moved to a hospital. Police said they found letters in her apartment saying she intended to take her own life because of private and financial troubles. They were addressed to a brother and her mother.

PUBLIC BUILDINGS PROGRAM DUE SOON

McCarl Likely to Reconsider Decision Cutting Amount by 10 Per Cent.

(Associated Press.)

Formal announcement of the huge public buildings program provided in the Garner-Wagner relief act will be made by President Hoover within a few days.

Treasury officials are busy completing details of the program, slashed from $100,000,000 to $90,000,000 under Comptroller General McCarl's interpretation of the economy act. However, they considered yesterday asking for a new decision to permit the use of the entire amount by cutting only the limit of cost on individual projects by 10 per cent, permitting the money saved to go toward other works.

At the comptroller's office it was said reconsideration of the decision probably would be given in view of the Treasury's opinion that Congress intended the entire $100,000,000 to be expended to increase employment.

Secretary Mills said announcement of the detailed program rested with President Hoover. He declined to say whether he had certified to the President that the undertaking was too large for the Treasury at this time. This is an alternative allowed him by the relief act.

While McCarl's ruling applied only to the $100,000,000 public building program, Mills said he was advised that the same ruling would apply for the entire $322,000,000 public works section of the relief act. This would slash $32,200,000 off the building, roads, flood control and other projects included in the whole program.

200 EXCURSIONISTS SAFE AFTER STORM

down the coast through high waves to Delaware Bay. Here it found calmer water and proceeded up the Delaware River to Camden, N. J.

At 4:50 p. m., the passengers landed, praising Miss Katherine Smith, the ship's hostess, and the leaders of the two orchestras aboard. At the height of the storm, Miss Smith and the musicians entertained the passengers and diverted their thoughts from the towering waves.

Among the passengers were a score of girls from the Cheerio Club, of Ventnor City. All were loaded on a train and headed for Atlantic City.

The Steel Pier was returning from a voyage which started at Atlantic City and took the excursionists up the Hudson River. It ran into a violent storm, apparently blowing up the coast from the Southern area where tropical winds have been threatening for a week.

Capt. Charles Lund was unable to dock at Atlantic City because of the storm and was proceeding south to Cape May. The storm continued and, plowing through high seas, the vessel went on down the coast to the Delaware Breakwater.

The first death in the storm was reported by the Coast Guard, which towed a small yawl into quarantine. It contained a drowned man, and two other men who had been rescued.

A sloop, carrying M. Wagner and his wife, also was taken in tow by Coast Guards after it had been blown about at sea all night. The oil barge Gotham was torn from its pier by winds and went on the rocks, but later was pulled off and went to its base at Staten Island.

John Wilson, chief boatswains mate, was swept off the stern of a Coast Guard cutter, which steamed on, the crew unaware of his plight. In full uniform he swam half an hour until picked up by a tug.

West Virginia Aid Sought of R. F. C.

Gov. Conley Confers With Croxton on Needs of State.

(Associated Press.)

Gov. William G. Conley of West Virginia and Capt. C. L. Estell, director of the State's department of public welfare, conferred yesterday with Fred C. Croxton at the Reconstruction Finance Corporation on the question of obtaining relief funds for West Virginia.

Gov. Conley is seeking funds to care for destitution relief in three counties in the mining district.

After the conference with Croxton, who handles relief matters, Gov. Conley said the unemployment situation in the section of the State for which relief is sought was discussed and information as to conditions given Croxton. He declined to discuss the conference further.

MARINES TO LEAVE HAITI GUARD IN 1935

Text of New Treaty Is Made Public; Waits Island Approval.

(Associated Press.)

The new treaty between the United States and Haiti provides for the withdrawal of United States Marine officers from the Haitian National Guard by 1935 and the early transfer to Haitians of civil functions now performed by Americans.

The text of the treaty, made public at the State Department yesterday, disclosed that it followed the general lines laid down in the recommendations of the Forbes Commission which made a study of Haitian problems more than a year ago. The document was signed September 3.

Another outstanding provision of the treaty provides for an established program for the amortization of the Haitian national debt under American supervision.

Before Haitian Congress.

The agreement which supersedes the 1915 treaty is now before the Haitian Congress.

It provides for withdrawal of the Marine brigade established at Port au Prince "as soon as may prove practicable" after the complete Haitianization of the national guard.

Provision is made in the treaty for supervision by an American fiscal representative of customs collections, and the allocation of receipts toward payment of the Haitian national debt. The internal revenue service would be placed under a Haitian director with exclusively Haitian personnel, unless the government desires to return to the services of foreign technical employes now directing this work.

May End in 1953.

If the national bond issues are paid at maturity, the American financial intervention in Haiti will end in 1953, or earlier if the Haitian government exercises its treaty right to retire the loans before their dates of maturity.

The Marine force in Haiti, now numbering about 800, is divided into the Port au Prince Brigade and the officer personnel serving with the national guard.

The latter group would be retired from the guard by December 31, 1934, while the former would be removed from Haiti soon thereafter and supplanted by an American military mission charged with the training and disciplining of the guard.

WATER COSTS HIGH IN CAPITAL SUBURBS

$100 which is expended for sewer maintenance and construction. The District water system is self-sustaining. All operating costs are included in the minimum consumption charge of $8.75 for approximately 56,000 gallons.

The front foot benefit charge levied by the Sanitary Commission is 28 cents per front foot for water and sewer benefits and on the average house this assessment is $14 a year.

The receipts from this tax are used for paying interest and a proportionate part of the principal of $8,000,000 in bonds outstanding is placed in the sinking fund. The proceeds from the bond sales were used in the construction of the sewer and water systems, and the condemnation of all property necessary to furnish the water supply and distribute it.

Small portions of other tax items on the water bills and county tax bills, such as the general tax, the water service charge and the consumption charge, are also applied to interest payments on the bonds and toward amortization of the bonded indebtedness.

In the District of Columbia the special assessments for water and sewer equal $6 per front foot—$3 for water and $3 for sewer—and the charge on a home with a 50-foot frontage would be $300. One-half of the receipts from this source—$150 for the water charge—go directly into the District water fund and are applied against general expenditures. This cost materially reduces the consumption rate to District users, because there are no bonds outstanding against the District water fund. The $150 for sewer goes into District revenues.

In the Sanitary district the average home owner pays $14 a year for 50 years, or $700 in all, for the front-foot benefit charge, or an aggregate cost of $14 for each front foot, over the 50-year period.

If the Washington home owner pays the assessment in three equal installments, plus 6 per cent for the unpaid balance, his total cost is $318, or $6.36 per front foot.

The Sanitary Commission has a plan whereby the average customer, paying $14 a year, may liquidate the entire balance by the payment of $336. Only a few customers have paid off the entire levy by this method according to the commission. The majority are paying $700 over a 50-year period for what Washington property owners pay $318.

Water Supply Meeting Is Called in County

Adverse publicity concerning the suburban water supply will be discussed at a meeting of the Silver Spring Chamber of Commerce, which has been called for Monday night at 5:15 o'clock by Maj. Phil D. Foston, president. The meeting will be held in the Silver Spring County Building.

Residents of the Silver Spring area have been invited to attend and tell their views on the water situation, and a representative of the Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission will be present to explain the commission's side.

Friend Says Robins Often Disappeared

New York, Sept. 8 (A.P.).—Dr. Fred B. Smith, a close friend of Col. Raymond Robins, said after a telephone conversation with the White House tonight that President Hoover was "quite worried" over the disappearance of the economist and prohibition worker, but that his own anxiety was lessened by his knowledge of Robins' habits.

Dr. Smith, at his White Plains residence, said Robins had dropped from sight temporarily on previous occasions in the course of business which he wanted to keep secret.

Diamonds Up 20 Per Cent.

New York, Sept. 8 (A.P.).—The National Jewelers Association has announced receipt of cable advices from London and Antwerp reporting an average rise of 20 per cent in the price of cut diamonds.

Cellmate Takes Place Of Sleeper and Is Free

Seattle, Sept. 8 (A.P.).—On this of all mornings, when he was due to be discharged from the county jail, Bob Patterson overslept.

So he didn't hear when Jailer J. E. Solberg approached the tank door and shouted, "Bob Patterson, going out!" at 7:20 a. m.

However, Vernon Hemme, 22, a fellow prisoner, did hear, answered the call and walked out a free man.

When Patterson awoke he demanded his release. Then police learned that Hemme, whose disorderly conduct sentence does not expire for two weeks, had taken his place.

ANTISALOON LEAGUE POLITICAL PLAN NEAR

(Associated Press.)

The executive committee of the Antisaloon League yesterday began formulating the position the league will take in the fall campaign and elections.

Dr. Arthur J. Barton, who, with Bishop James Cannon, jr., organized the anti-Smith movement in the South in 1928, said the stand of the league would be "clearly outlined" by a subcommittee appointed by him as chairman of the executive committee.

The subcommittee is composed of Bishops Cannon and W. N. Ainsworth, of the Methodist Episcopal Church South; Bishop E. H. Richardson, of the Methodist Episcopal Church; F. Scott McBride and Dr. Ernest H. Cherrington, of Washington; George H. Wilson, of Chicago, and Dr. Barton.

After hearing routine reports of officers of the league the executive committee late yesterday indulged in a lengthy discussion of the political situation. A decision was postponed until the subcommittee makes its report.

Dr. Barton said the treasurers' report indicated a renewed interest in the affairs of the league by friends of prohibition.

Although he declined to give any figures, he said the league was "well able to live and get along."

Other members of the committee said the report showed an increase in the number of small subscriptions since the two political conventions.

Wagner Raps Cut In Building Funds

McCarl's Ruling Slashing 10 Per Cent Off Relief Loans Scored.

New York, Sept. 8 (U.P.).—Senator Robert F. Wagner last night took issue with the ruling by Comptroller General J. R. McCarl at Washington indicating a slash in construction appropriations provided by the Garner-Wagner relief bill by more than $30,000,000.

McCarl informed the Secretary of the Treasury he interpreted the economy act as cutting by 10 per cent all appropriations for construction, despite the fact that the relief bill was passed after the retrenchment measure.

"If Comptroller General McCarl has been correctly reported, he is, in my judgment, in serious error," Wagner said.

Coast Trade Boom Continues.

San Francisco, Sept. 8 (A.P.).—The San Francisco Board of Trade reported after an extended survey it has found "a distinct improvement in wholesale trade of the San Francisco-Oakland district began about six weeks ago and is being maintained in September."

ROBINS INFLUENTIAL IN FLORIDA ELECTION

Backed New Slate in County; His Aid's Brother-in-Law Was Slain by Sheriff.

Brooksville, Fla., Sept. 8 (U.P.).—A law enforcement campaign in Hernando County's Democratic primary of last spring, in which Col. and Mrs. Raymond Robins, Republicans, backed a new slate of officials, results in ousting a sheriff of nearly 15 years service, and a county judge who had been in office nearly four years.

F. B. Coogler, Brooksville banker and legal adviser to Col. Robins, feared possibly kidnaped by angered rumrunners, told today of that campaign, and of the part the Robins took in it.

"They are Republicans, and have views on the prohibition question similar to mine," he said, "and their views are influential in the county because of their part-time residence here.

Took No Personal Part.

"Col. Robins took no personal part in that particular campaign, but Mrs. Robins made known her support of the antiadministration faction, and a new sheriff and a new county judge was the result. Nomination is equivalent to election down here, so the change will go into effect in November."

The new sheriff will be Neil P. Law, and the new county judge, Edward S. McKinzie. The present sheriff, in office virtually since the World War, in which Col. Robins played such a conspicuous part, is W. D. Cobb. The county judge is John Whitehurst.

Hernando County long has been regarded the scene of big distilling operations. Tampa prohibition officials admitted Col. Robins had given them several valuable tips on liquor activities in the county, but said they doubted Florida bootleggers had caused him any harm.

Made Enforcement Plea.

A plea for law enforcement was made by Col. Robins following the street assassination of City Attorney Herbert Smithson here several months ago. According to Coogler, however, Col. Robins made no especially vigorous public campaign against bootleggers.

There were three violent deaths in recent months in Hernando County, including that of Smithson. As outlined by State's Attorney Mannie Scofield, who personally weathered the last primary and will continue in office, they had the following sequence:

First, J. C. Rogers, brother-in-law of Coogler, Robins' personal representative here, was shot to death by Sheriff Cobb. A complaint against Rogers had been lodged with the sheriff by Mrs. Rogers, sister of Coogler, and the sheriff was asked to keep Rogers away from his wife. A physical combat between Rogers and the sheriff, who sought to arrest him, resulted in the sheriff slaying the man in self defense, Scofield said.

Two Judges Investigated.

Later, the State's attorney continued, Cobb shot and fatally wounded J. W. Springstead under virtually similar circumstances. Grown children of the slain man appealed to City Attorney Smithson to prosecute the sheriff on a charge of murder. The grand jury investigations resulted in no true bills, Scofield said.

Finally, Smithson was mysteriously assassinated on the streets of Brooksville. No solution of the murder has ever been reached.

Sheriff Cobb, Judge Whitehurst and the nominee for sheriff, Law, interviewed individually, were incredulous that Col. Robins' connection with affairs in Hernando County could have resulted in a bootleggers' kidnap plot against him.

"He is here only a short time," said the prospective sheriff, "I knew he was in favor of my candidacy, but he never came out publicly and indorsed me. Being a Republican, he could not vote in our primary. I ran on a law enforcement platform. My father was sheriff for twenty years before Cobb, who was appointed to the office and elected ever since."

Sheriff Cobb characterized conditions in the county as "quiet," and said he knew of no especial activity in illicit business.

COL. RAYMOND ROBINS, DRY, FEARED BOOTLEGGER VICTIM

Expressing alarm and disclosing that her husband had received threatening telephone calls on August 6 and 7, Mrs. Robins said she had been unable to find any trace of him since he was last seen Saturday afternoon at the City Club in New York.

The anonymous persons who threatened Col. Robins, she said, predicted serious consequences if he did not cease his prohibition efforts.

Mrs. Robins said her husband had been concerned about the threats.

"It is something we have got to face," she quoted him as saying at one time.

His knowledge of the menace, she said, had led him to take steps for the disposition of his property in the event of his death.

Mrs. Robins said she feared Florida bootleggers, working with bootleggers in New York, had done away with her husband.

Col. Robins, although spending much of his time in New York and Chicago and on lecture tours, had a residence near Brooksville, Fla.

He has been known widely as an advocate of world peace as well as prohibition and has made several world tours. Politically, he has been active in the Old Bull Moose and the Republican parties.

White House officials would not say whether the Justice Department had been asked to investigate, but it was indicated the department would act if it had not already done so.

Clews were few. Mrs. Robins said the last person known to have seen her husband was Alex Gumberg, a New York friend of his who was with him at the City Club Saturday afternoon.

Robins had been active against liquor violators in Orlando County, Fla.

Col. Robins was in the Klondyke gold rush in Alaska in 1898 and acquired a modest fortune there which made it possible for him to devote himself to religious and social betterment work.

His wife, who was Miss Margaret Dreier, is also a social economist who has devoted much of her life to the betterment of conditions among working women and children.

As head of the American Red Cross mission to Russia in 1917 and 1918, Robins became the friend of Lenin and Trotsky and tried to coordinate the efforts of the Bolshevist government with those of the allied forces. Upon his return to the United States he became an advocate of the recognition of Bolshevist Russia and later revisited Moscow to study conditions there.

Gumberg, a banker, is an old friend of Col. Robins. He was secretary to Robins in Russia and accompanied him back to this country.

New York, Sept. 8 (A.P.).—New York police have been asked to search for Col. Robins. Police refused to reveal any of the particulars of the case and at first declined to confirm the identification of Robins as the friend of President Hoover.

Two men believed to be Federal agents conferred with acting Capt. John Ayers, head of the missing persons bureau.

"Give us a little time and then you will know all," they said.

Robins' baggage still was in the check room of the City Club last night. Employes of the club said he stayed there for several days last week and checked his baggage Saturday afternoon, saying he was going to Washington.

Brooksville, Fla., Sept. 8 (A.P.).—S. D. Coogler, president of the First National Bank here, of which Col. Raymond Robins was chairman of the board, said Robins was expected here today or tomorrow, but he had not arrived.

Col. and Mrs. Robins were to have spent a few days here before the national campaign gets under full swing, but Mr. Coogler was advised today there would be a delay in their arrival. The New York office of Col. Robins did not say why, and Mr. Coogler was unaware the colonel was missing.

The time of Robins' departure from the club was fixed at between 4:50 and 5:00 p. m. by an employe who said he saw the economist walk out. He was described as a quiet man who rarely spoke to fellow members and usually entertained outside guests.

Detective Von Weisenstein, of the missing persons bureau, was assigned to take charge of the case for New York police. He was placed on the trail of Judge Joseph Crater, now missing more than two years.

Frozen Deposits Relief Is Backed by President

(Associated Press.)

Representative Bowman (Republican), West Virginia, said Wednesday that President Hoover had agreed to submit to the banking committee created by the recent business and industrial conference a proposal to free "frozen deposits" in banks now doing business.

Bowman, after a conference with the Chief Executive, estimates that approximately $5,000,000,000 in deposits had been "tied up" by banks in an effort to keep their own doors open. He said that such "frozen deposits" were proving "a structure on many West Virginia communities."

Portland, Oreg., Sept. 8 (A.P.).—The American Legion's own military police force, 250 strong, was organized today and detailed to the national convention here next week. Thomas A. Sweeney, head of the service committee, declared: "We simply want it understood that this is a convention of the American Legion; not a meeting of rowdies."

Tuscaloosa, Ala., Sept. 8 (A.P.).—Dr. George I. Adams, 61, head of the geology department at the University of Alabama, died at a hospital here today of heart trouble and a kidney ailment. A native of Illinois, Dr. Adams had been a member of the university faculty since 1920.

San Francisco, Sept. 8 (A.P.).—Imposition of life sentences upon Frank J Egan, former San Francisco public defender, and Albert Tinnin, convicted Tuesday of the murder of Mrs. Jessie Scott Hughes, was deferred today until Saturday at the request of the defense.

Parchman, Miss., Sept. 8 (A.P.).—Six convicts, including three serving life sentences, overpowered guards and escaped from the State prison farm here early today.

St. Paul Island, Alaska, Sept. 8 (A.P.).—Three Japanese airplanes will take off from Samushiro Beach, Japan, for San Francisco via Nome, Alaska, September 10, or as soon thereafter as weather conditions will permit, the naval radio station here was informed today. The message came from the director general of telegraphs in Tokyo who radioed the fliers would want meteorological reports from this station and from Nome while en route. The planes will be equipped with radio.

Ventura, Calif., Sept. 8 (A.P.).—An emergency call for additional firefighters was issued today by Fire Warden W. A. Forbes, who said a brush and timber fire in the Santa Barbara National Forest had burned over 25,000 acres and continued to spread despite the efforts of 500 men to check it.

St. Augustine, Fla., Sept. 8 (A.P.).—An atmosphere of old Spain prevailed here today as St. Augustine, oldest city in the United States, celebrated the 367th anniversary of its founding by Spanish explorers. The streets are bedecked in Spanish colors of red and yellow and a coffin said to have held the remains of Adelantado Menendez, one of the founders, is on display.

Boston, Sept. 8 (A.P.).—A search for George Upton, jr., and his brother, King, both Harvard students, ended today when their father, a wealthy Boston real estate trustee, was informed they had arrived safely aboard their 40-foot cruiser at the Raritan Canal, in New Jersey. They had been unreported since they passed through the Cape Cod Canal after leaving Marblehead Sunday for Yorktown, Va.

Cambridge, Mass., Sept. 8 (A.P.).—Resolutions asking the French government to dispatch a scientific expedition to North Africa to investigate a meteor there and asking the Russian government to conduct a thorough study of an important meteoric ball in Siberia in 1908 were among those adopted at a general session of the International Astronomical Union here today.

Richmond, Va., Sept. 8 (A.P.).—Criticisms of an airplane pilot who awakened West End residents by doing power dives Tuesday night turned to praise today when it was learned that the performer was Gene Brown, who flies the night mail between Richmond and Atlanta for Eastern Air Transport, and that he probably prevented a disastrous fire. A resident, going to a window to investigate saw flames shooting from a residence nearby and telephoned an alarm.

Cleveland, Sept. 8 (A.P.).—A tear gas bomb was thrown and one person was clubbed as police repulsed a mob of between 800 and 900 from rushing a branch office of the Associated Charities today. Police said leaders of the crowd were protesting what they claimed was inadequate relief.

HITLER WILL RENEW ATTACKS ON PAPEN

While Hindenburg Reassures Chancellor, Coalition Again Looms.

Berlin, Sept. 8 (A.P.).—While President von Hindenburg was assuring Chancellor Franz von Papen today that he would support the chancellor's government through thick and thin, Adolf Hitler, leader of the National Socialists, came back to Berlin to take personal charge of negotiations aimed at upsetting that government with a coalition of his Nazis and the Centrist party.

The chancellor visited the president, who has just returned to the capital from his East Prussian home, in preparation for Monday's session of the Reichstag, in which only a small group of members support the present government.

The aged field marshal was so determined in his policy of supporting the Von Papen ministry that one prominent member of the cabinet, who had hesitated about moving into his official residence in the Wilhelmstrasse on the theory that he might not be there long, made preparations to give up his present home upon hearing the outcome of the conference.

Members of the government took heart from a speech made in Munich yesterday by Hitler. The Nazi leader said in this address that he would proceed to reshape the constitution on a legal basis and that he cared nothing for titles or chancellorships so long as leadership was in his hands.

Government spokesmen interpreted these remarks as an indication that Hitler had relinquished all hope of becoming chancellor during the lifetime of President von Hindenburg.

These same commentators expressed the expectation that after the Reichstag has been dissolved and another election has been held the Fascists may be tractable enough to participate in the government in nonpivotal positions.

No Press Agent Stunt, Says Vallee's Lawyer

Newark, N. J., Sept. 8 (A.P.).—Rudy Vallee's New York lawyer said today the singing band leader never did want a divorce and that "everything is o. k. now" between Vallee and his bride of thirteen months.

Hyman Bushel, the lawyer, returned by plane from Reno, where he went with Fay Webb, Vallee's wife, and where the divorce plans were suddenly called off. Asked if it were a press agent stunt, Bushel replied, "That's a contemptible lie," and reached in his brief case to show a property settlement signed by Vallee September 1.

Foreign News in Brief

Braemar, Aberdeenshire, Scotland, Sept. 8 (A.P.).—The Duke and Duchess of York, with their two daughters and Prince Arthur of Connaught were welcomed here today in a drizzle by thousands of kilted highlanders on holiday for the annual royal Braemar games. The weather got worse as the day progressed and King George, who had come up with Queen Mary, did not attend the festivities on the advice of his doctor.

Montreal, Sept. 8 (A.P.).—Inazo Nitobe, member of the Japanese House of Peers, said today that Japan will feel impelled to withdraw from the League of Nations if the Lytton report on the Far Eastern situation is unfavorable to his country.

Brussels, Belgium, Sept. 8 (A.P.).—Coal miners who have been on strike for two months today accepted a government proposal for an increase in the minimum pay rate and a general review of wages and working conditions.

Manchester, England, Sept. 8 (A.P.).—Possible extension of labor trouble in the cotton industry was seen today in a vote by union spinners, who balloted 30,991 to 1,518 in favor of stopping work rather than to accept a wage cut proposed by the millowners.

Peiping, China, Sept. 8 (A.P.).—Chinese press reports said today that 20,000 Chinese Guerrillas hitherto operating independently in the provinces of Jehol and Chahar, have organized a joint military commission for common action against the Japanese in South Manchuria.

Helsingfors, Finland, Sept. 8 (A.P.).—A bill granting amnesty to about 20,000 prisoners, mostly violators of the prohibition laws which have been repealed, was introduced by the government in parliament today. Its object is to relieve congestion in the Finnish prisons.

Le Bourget, France, Sept. 8 (A.P.).—Jean Mermoz and Louis Mailleux, veteran long-distance fliers, took off today for Toulouse on the first stage of a projected flight to Buenos Aires. From Toulouse they will go to Istres, whence they will set out across the ocean for South America, hoping to set a new straight-line distance record.

Geneva, Sept. 8 (A.P.).—Mexico was regarded today as the probable successor to Peru in the League of Nations council when the election is held at the coming assembly session. Argentina's return to active membership at this session was regarded as improbable, although the authorities have not entirely abandoned hope that the government at Buenos Aires may make the necessary decision within the next two weeks.

Paris, Sept. 8 (A.P.).—Norman Armour, of Princeton, N. J., for four years counselor to the American Embassy here, was a guest of the American Club at luncheon today on the eve of his sailing for Haiti, where he has been appointed United States Minister.

Moscow, Sept. 8 (A.P.).—A week after food rations had been imposed upon foreign correspondents in Moscow, the store in which they buy supplies announced just as suddenly today that restrictions on purchases had been lifted. The manager of the store explained that there had been a mistake in imposing the ration regulations in the first place.

Stockholm, Sept. 8 (A.P.).—Crowds of bargain and souvenir hunters fought today over the kitchen pots and pans of Ivar Kreuger, the Swedish "match king" who committed suicide in Paris last spring. The crowds besieged the Kreuger flat where a sale of his possessions was under way. Police were called out to preserve order. The utensils brought extremely high prices.

Mexico City, Sept. 8 (A.P.).—Dispatches from Colima today said a strong earthquake shock was felt there last night. The quake was recorded on instruments here.

Prague, Czechoslovakia, Sept. 8 (A.P.).—The Czechoslovakian government has granted permission to Leon Trotzky, exiled Soviet Russian leader, to come here for his health on condition he refrains from political activity during his stay. Trotzky, who now lives near Istanbul, has been assured by the Turkish government that he may return there after his stay in Czechoslovakia is ended.

Yorkton, Sask., Sept. 8 (A.P.).—It has been learned here on high authority that Peter Verigin, Doukhobor leader now serving an 18-month term in Prince Albert Jail following a conviction for perjury, has been served with deportation papers by the warden on behalf of the department of immigration.

PARAGUAY-BOLIVIA WAR SEEMS NEARER

Mobilization Order Issued in Asuncion Following Clash in Chaco.

Asuncion, Paraguay, Sept. 8 (U.P.).—Capture of a Paraguayan fort in the Gran Chaco by Bolivian troops appeared likely today to furnish the spark which will set the two nations against each other in a bitter war.

Both in Asuncion and in the Bolivian capital, La Paz, official announcements were issued telling that Fort Rojas Silva has been seized by Bolivian soldiers.

In Asuncion the streets rang with the cry: "Viva Paraguay! Muera el Bolivia!" Crowds gathered as soon as it became known that the fort had been taken and the Paraguayan government decreed mobilization of all citizens between 33 and 40 years of age. This mobilization will be subject to congressional sanction, but such approval is expected without opposition.

President Eusebio Ayala told the United Press that the capture of the fort signifies the beginning of an offensive, and the newspaper La Critica published a large headline saying: "Cannons Now Have the Word."

Buenos Aires, Sept. 8 (A.P.).—The Argentine government was investigating a report tonight that farmers in Argentine territory at Rioteuco were ordered to join the Bolivian army in its campaign against Paraguayan forces.

If the report is confirmed it was understood the government would call upon Bolivia for an explanation.

Santiago, Chile, Sept. 8 (A.P.).—The foreign office today denied reports published here that Argentina, Brazil, Peru and Chile were considering effecting an economic blockade against Paraguay and Bolivia.

It was said represe tatives of the A. B. C. powers and Peru were considering only measures which might end peacefully the controversy between Paraguay and Bolivia over the Gran Craco territory.

Bus Company Asks Lease Be Canceled

Great Eastern Stages Cites Its Eviction in Plea to Equity Court.

The aid of the District Equity Court was sought yesterday by the Great Eastern Stages, Inc., bus operators, to cancel a five-year lease the company holds on the premises at 1349 E street northwest, from which it was evicted by order of the Public Utilities Commission.

The company claims that by the terms of its lease it can not sublet to any firm not desirable by the owners, and with that as a handicap is unable to complete negotiations for renting the property. Through Attorneys Conrad H. Syme and Sam Syme, the court was told that the Equity Court has jurisdiction to cancel the lease.

The lease was signed in November, 1930, and after that date the Public Utilities Commission ordered all bus lines to vacate the congested area. The Great Eastern was compelled to move to the Metropolitan Hotel, where it has temporary quarters. It is now paying $625 a month for the quarters it was forced to vacate and it will have to pay that for many years unless the courts intervene. The company will lose $25,000 through failure to cancel the lease.

BRITAIN TO PASS UP ASKING DEBT DELAY

Neglect Is Considered Move to Seek Concessions From U. S.

London, Sept. 8 (U.P.).—Hopeful the United States will offer some manner of compromise—perhaps another moratorium—Great Britain has decided to pass up her opportunity, on September 15, to notify Washington she intends to postpone payment of the war debt annuity due December 15, it was reliably reported today.

Under the agreement all the debtor nations must file notice of such postponement 90 days before the annuities are due. If all the ten European countries which owe her war debts were suddenly to exercise their option of postponing payments, the United States would have to go without about $70,000,000, according to a compilation made today.

The war debt experts who have been stewing over columns of figures the past few weeks in London are confident the United States will, at the propitious moment, offer Great Britain some readjustment or a further moratorium.

30 Days' Notice Possible.

It is understood, further, that the United States Treasury would be satisfied with 30 days' notice of intention to postpone payment, recognizing President Hoover's recent declaration in which he placed a ban on war debt discussions until after the November election.

Britain, by traditional policy, occupies a position of leadership in movements for cancellation or revision of war debts, and the other nations of Europe usually watch her movements sharply before proceeding with their own affairs. Thus the stand London is taking is viewed as having an important bearing on the approaching negotiations.

The compilation made today shows that $254,729,000 is due to be paid this year into Washington's pocket. Under the various debt-funding agreements, and in view of the 90-day notice of postponement clause, which only permits postponements of payments toward principal, the United States still would receive $185,408,000.

Trade Adjustment Likely.

This is assuming, of course, that the Washington Government would not inaugurate another moratorium, that no individual readjustments would be made, or that none of the ten debtor nations would default.

While these various contingencies stand in the way of direct action at the present time, the British experts are studying what special advantages Britain could extend to United States trade in the event a debt readjustment is refused on any other basis.

Observers at first were doubtful that Britain, after the Ottawa conference, would be able to concede United States trade any substantial concession. Subsequently however, several experts began delving into Anglo-American trade statistics. They reached an early conclusion that considerable advantage could be offered if Britain chose to do so.

Elkton Kiwanians Get Capital Cup

Westminster Club Group Makes Presentation at Fellowship Session.

A Kiwanis fellowship meeting was held at Elkton, Md., last night to welcome the Capital District Loving Cup which was delivered to the Elkton Club by a delegation from the Westminster, Md., Club.

Clubs represented at the meeting included Wilmington, Rehoboth Beach and Seaford, Del., Baltimore, Towson and Havre de Grace, Md., and Washington.

Dr. J. Leroy Trone, president of the Elkton Club, received the cup from J. Albert Mitten, president of the Westminster group. Featuring the program was group singing led by William R. Schmucker, of the Washington Club.

REICH STAND'S PERIL SEEN BY HENDERSON

British Labor Chief Predicts Revival of Arms Race If Threat Made Good.

Newcastle, England, Sept. 8 (A.P.).—Arthur Henderson, British labor leader and president of the Geneva Arms Conference, declared today that if Germany carries out her threat to withdraw from the conference the nations of the world will be plunged again into the same old race for armaments.

Mr. Henderson, making his first public pronouncement on the arms issue since the adjournment of the Geneva parley, asserted the results of that meeting were far from what he had expected. He spoke before the Trades Union Congress in session here.

At the conclusion of his speech the congress adopted a resolution demanding drastic arms cuts the world over and expressing regret that the Geneva conference had concluded its first phase without agreement on any effective measures.

The resolution urged that the British government seek the full application of President Hoover's proposals for a blanket cut of approximately one-third in all arms. This was set up as the minimum to be desired.

The resolution was adopted unanimously, although a delegate representing the South Wales Miners Union attacked the Hoover scheme with the assertion the President is "the archangel of capitalism."

Preliminary Plans For Park Approved

Cabin John Creek Unit Comes Under Provisions of Cramton Act.

Preliminary plans for the first unit of the proposed Cabin John Creek Park were approved yesterday by the Maryland National Capital Park and Planning Commission at its meeting in the Tower Building. The plans now will go to the National Park and Planning Commission for its approval.

If the two commissions agree on the plans, they will be used as the basis for acquisition of land for the unit. The unit begins at Conduit road and Cabin John Bridge and extends northward for seven-tenths of a mile. It will be developed under terms of the Cramton act providing for Federal aid in such parkland development in counties contiguous to Washington.

This will be the third park project started by the Maryland park and planning body under provisions of the Cramton act. Work on the first units of the Sligo Creek and Rock Creek parks has progressed to a large extent. The proposed unit is rich in historic lore and in rugged natural beauty.

PAUL BERN'S SUICIDE REMAINS MYSTERY

Attorney Henry Uttal had said he had on file in his office a will signed by Bern August 30, 1920, leaving virtually all his estate to "my wife, Dorothy Millette."

In Los Angeles Attorney Oscar Cummins said Bern had made a will since his marriage to Miss Harlow, but the lawyer refused to discuss it except to say that it was drafted and signed "very recently."

The Los Angeles Examiner said that from other sources it had learned the new will left Bern's estate to Miss Harlow.

Miss Harlow Absent.

Miss Harlow, certified by her physician to be in a state of nervous collapse, did not appear at the inquest.

A large throng was disappointed, but listened eagerly as the witnesses described Bern as a man beloved in the motion picture world, a highly nervous man who let trifles worry him, who appeared completely happy in his home, but who sometimes spoke so morosely that his Negro chauffeur sought to cheer him and convince him life wasn't hard, after all.

He was a man, testified the autopsy surgeon, who "might have been suffering from a nervous complex, which could, especially after marriage, have created a disturbing condition, causing moroseness and melancholia."

All the witnesses denied they knew of any difficulty between Bern and his wife.

"They were kissing all the time," said Harold Garrison, the chauffeur.

Mario Bello, Miss Harlow's stepfather, testified that a few weeks ago he noticed a change of mood in Bern, but no indication of definite unhappiness.

"I don't know why he shot himself," Bello testified.

Thalberg Quizzed.

Other witnesses—Irving Thalberg, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer executive; Milton E. Greenwood, studio official; Clifton Davis, the Bern gardener; John Carmichael, the butler; Blanche Williams, Miss Harlow's maid—all joined in an expression of mystification.

Coroner Frank Nance questioned Thalberg closely as to why, when Thalberg and David O. Selznick, film executive, were called to the house after the finding of the body shortly before noon last Monday, police were not summoned for a considerable time.

Thalberg said he and Selznick reached the house about 1 p. m.

"Did you call the police at once?"

"Within a few minutes," said Thalberg. "I hadn't even gone upstairs. There was a good deal of delay, reaching everyone. Finally I reached the chief of detectives and asked him to send some one out as quietly as possible."

Thalberg denied he saw any note except the farewell message addressed to "Dearest Dear," and reading, "Unfortunately this is the only way to make good the frightful wrong I have done you and to wipe out my abject humiliation."

One Woman Prior to Actress.

Hollywood, Sept. 8 (U.P.).—There was only one woman in the life of Paul Bern before he married Jean Harlow, the United Press was informed tonight by Irene Harrison, secretary to the dead picture producer.

"Current reports that Bern was associated with two or more women are wrong," Miss Harrison declared. "My position with Mr. Bern prevents my saying more than this."

The secretary refused to disclose the name of this "one woman."

"It has been quite some time since I sent her a check, and I have no notion where she can be found now," she added.

Walsh Flays Rule On Jobless Voting

Senator Declares Action at Lewiston Will Work to Advantage of President

(Associated Press.)

Senator Walsh (Democrat), Massachusetts, in a statement issued through the Democratic national committee last night, said it would "work to President Hoover's advantage in the coming election if the jobless army is deprived of the privileges of voting."

Senator Walsh commented on reports that unemployed persons in Lewiston, Me., had been deprived of their right to vote because they accepted State or municipal relief, under a 101-year-old law invoked by the chairman of the Republican city committee.

Blaming the economic difficulties on the administration, Senator Walsh said "there have been many ghastly things done in the name of politics, but never in our history was there a cheaper or meaner expedient than the precedent that has been set by the Maine authorities."

CLARK TRIAL CHANGE OF VENUE IS DENIED

Three Judges Deliberate for Two Hours on Plea of State's Attorney.

Berry E. Clark, former clerk to the Montgomery County commissioners, will be tried on embezzlement charges in his own county, a full bench of judges decided yesterday after hearing arguments on the motion of State's Attorney Stedman Prescott for a change of venue in circuit court at Rockville, Md.

A total of 97 indictments was returned against Clark by the county grand jury charging embezzlement of county funds. A jury in circuit court last June failed to agree on the trial of the first indictment and was dismissed. Shortly afterward State's Attorney Prescott filed the motion for a change in venue, with affidavits from more than 30 citizens stating that they did not believe a fair trial could be obtained by the State in Rockville.

The three judges, Chief Judge Hammond Urner and Associate Judges Robert B. Peter and Arthur D. Willard, deliberated two hours after the close of arguments before returning their decision. It is believed they were largely influenced by the defense plea that Clark is penniless and dependent upon his Spanish-American War pension of $35 a month and unable to finance a change of venue.

State's Attorney Prescott charged that the State could not obtain a fair and impartial trial in Montgomery County because of critical differences arising from the bitter Democratic primary fight in the county election two years ago which he alleged has not died down. He called Attorney Kenneth Lyddane, of Rockville, to the stand to testify that political bitterness still existed and had a part in the trial of Clark the first time and in his opinion would have a bearing on subsequent trials.

Trio in Atlanta Holdup Jailed on West Coast

San Francisco, Sept. 8 (A.P.).—Three young men who officials said admitted robbing the Atlanta Journal of $1,500 on August 21 were arrested here today by Department of Justice agents and San Francisco police and booked for return to Georgia. A girl companion also was arrested.

The prisoners are: Sam Sims, 32, alias Sam Hinds; Jim Backus, 24, said to have a wife and two children in Atlanta; Garret Pope, 26, and Mary Savage, 22. The girl joined the trio in New Orleans and accompanied them to the Pacific Coast in an automobile stolen in Atlanta, officers said.

CATALONIA GRANTED LIMITED AUTONOMY

except that they would be under complete control of the national government.

Catalonia, in northeastern Spain, is a former division of the country and comprises the provinces of Barcelona, Gerona, Lerida and Tarragona. Barcelona is the principal city.

The premier foresaw various autonomous statutes for which the Catalonian statue would set a precedent, and declared these regions would become more than ever Spanish because they would be contented.

The Congress, which passed the agrarian measure chapter by chapter, is expected formally to approve it in totality later today or tomorrow, and immediately thereafter it will be published in the official gazette.

The law will set up an agrarian institute to be entrusted with enforcement of the new regulations. Proprietors affected will be asked to begin registration of their land within 30 days or be subject to a fine equal to 20 per cent of the value of their estates. A complete inventory must be terminated within a year.

Approximately 8,000 landholders and several hundred families or noble antecedents as well as 20 former royal estates will be involved in the great experiment of community farming.

By the time all registration has been completed and the agrarian measure has been carried to saturation, it is estimated that the 100,000 persons initially benefited will have swelled to more than 1,000,000.

The drastic plan will cost the Government about $4,000,000 annually. The poor and large families will be preferred, with the Government subsidizing settlers while developing their allotment to the extent of not less than 4 per cent of the agrarian institute's former valuation of the land.

Cooperative associations for cultivation, machinery, marketing and other operations are provided, and it will be optional whether land is cultivated in communities or individually.

CAROLINA SCHOOLS' "PAGANISM" RAPPED

Gov. Gardner Is Petitioned to Censor Teachings in Tarheel Institutions.

Raleigh, N. C., Sept. 8 (A.P.).—Gov. Gardner today was asked to don the toga of censorship and purge North Carolina's educational institutions of alleged pagan and communistic atmosphere.

Nearly 300 Tarheel citizens presented a petition to the chief executive entreating him to "take the initiative" and, "in heaven's name, save our State from further predatory acts by these so-called modern educators against 'things of the spirit.'"

The plea was signed by Representative mayors of the State, including Mayor Charles Lambeth of Charlotte; by leading churchmen and ministers, headed by Bishop J. Kenneth Pfohl, of Winston-Salem, head of the southern province of the Moravian Church; by newspapermen, among whom was Col. Wade H. Harris, editor of the Charlotte Observer; by business men, county officials and others.

Gov. Gardner received the petition, refused to "take the initiative" and said he likely would lay it before the executive committee of the board of trustees of the University of North Carolina, which was one of the institutions scored by the 8-page brochure.

Dr. Frank Graham, president of the university, likewise was silent on the matter. He said, "I presume the matter will be placed before the board of trustees."

Condemning the type of speakers who have appeared at institutions of learning in the State, the petition assailed utterances of Bertrand Russell, philosopher, and Langston Hughes, Negro poet.

Publications at the university, long heralded as the center of liberalism among colleges and universities, were pointed to as "straws that show whither the wind is blowing—toward Moscow—and whence it is coming—the classrooms of the university."

Moses B. Eiseman Dies in Baltimore

Manufacturer of Clothing Opened Stores Here and in Atlanta Also.

Baltimore, Sept 8. (A.P.).—Moses B. Eiseman, for many years a leading clothing manufacturer of Baltimore, Washington and Atlanta, died late today at his home here.

Born December 15, 1846, at Binan, Germany, he accompanied his parents and two brothers, Gerson and Jacob, to Baltimore in 1852 and received his education in the public schools here. At the close of the Civil War, he and his brothers went to Atlanta where they founded a clothing business. Later they opened a similar establishment in Washington, and inaugurated a wholesale clothing manufacturing plant in Baltimore.

Mr. Eiseman was prominent in Baltimore's civic and philanthropic activities. He married Miss Eugenie Lobe, who died in July, 1930. He is survived by two sons.

VIRGINIA RAID LINKED TO D. C. BANK THEFT

holdup when it occurred. The local detective was said to have been in the Virginia city with regard to a recent check swindle here.

The bandits are believed to have escaped in a stolen machine, one similar in type to that used in the getaway after the robbery here. This machine was found abandoned a few hours after the robbery.

Kidnap Scare.

In the excitement occasioned by the holdup a theory developed that the automobile of a Richmond man was stolen by the bandits who for a time were believed to have taken with them the 12-year-old son of the car's owner and a youthful friend.

What had happened was that boys, while waiting outside of a store for the Richmond man, decided to take a little ride. When he emerged and found them gone and heard of the description of the bandits' getaway machine, he and police concluded that it was his car and that the bandits had forced the boys to accompany them.

The Richmond man, a Mr. Lennet, helped search for the boys and then left for Richmond with Detective Wise. Later in the afternoon the boys were found searching for their father in Petersburg, thus exploding the kidnaping theory.

HORSE SHOW OPENS AT FAIRFAX TODAY

Record Number of Entries Are Listed for Annual Meeting.

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST.
P. O. Box 245, Fairfax, Va.
Phone Fairfax 166.

The nineteenth annual Fairfax County Horse Show will open today in the fair grounds at Fairfax, Va. Secretary Robert D. Graham has announced a record list of entries. Exhibitors from all sections of northern Virginia, Washington and Maryland have entered horses in the events to be staged this afternoon and tomorrow. Arrangements have been made to take care of a record-breaking crowd.

One of the most popular events in this year's show will be the family class tomorrow afternoon. Approximately fifteen families have listed their entries. Cash prizes, trophies and ribbons will be awarded the winners in each of the events.

A. Smith Bowman, president of the Fairfax Hunt Club, has offered a silver trophy for the Fairfax hunt class, open to members of the club and residents of Fairfax County only. Other outstanding prizes include the King Joy Purse, given annually by Ray Norton, of Washington, and trophies for the pony classes donated by Capt. John Galt, of Washington, and Dr. Frederick Reuter, of Aldie, Va.

Luncheon for Exhibitors.

This afternoon a luncheon will be served on the show grounds to exhibitors and a number of guests by the women of the horse show committee, headed by Mrs. Estler M. Palmer, of Bancroft, and Mrs. Robert D. Graham, of Fairfax, assisted by Mrs. Frederick Dawson Richardson and Mrs. William E. Earle, of Fairfax, and Mrs. A. Smith Bowman, of Sunset Hills, Va.

Among the guests will be Representative Howard W. Smith, of Alexandria; Mrs. Allen Potts, of Gordonsville, Va.; Mrs. T. H. Somerville, of Montpelier; Dr. C. T. Price, of Richmond; Dr. L. M. Allen, of Winchester; Dr. and Mrs. Robert Humphrey, of Mountville; Mrs. William Gaines, of Warrenton, and Edward Barnes, of Richmond.

Among the exhibitors of the 300 entries are Miss Katrinka McCormick, of Middleburg; Dr. and Mrs. Robert Perneyhough, of Warrenton; Melvin C. Hazen, Miss Nancy P. Hannah, John A. McDonald, Vernon G. Owen, Ray H. Norton and Capt. C. R. T. Rodgers, of Washington; Miss Elliewood Paige Keith, of Charlottesville, Va.; Dr. Frederick Reuter, of Aldie; Mrs. D. N. Lee, of Middleburg; Capt. B. R. Whitthome, of Fort Humphreys; Stanley Green 2d, of Leesburg.

Others to Show Horses.

Others are J. W. Tomlinson, of Pleasant Valley; Mrs. Stewart Preece, of Fairfax; Mrs. Allen Potts, of Gordonsville; Mrs. William G. Hill, of Bethesda, Md.; Robert D. Graham, Mrs. W. E. Earle and Miss Ann Farr and Miss Edith Farr, of Fairfax; Robert Palmer and Meade Palmer, of Barcroft; W. T. Carrico, of Annandale; Mrs. Paul Abbott and Ernest Redman, of Middleburg; Frost Anderson, of McLean; Emily Norris King, of Warrenton; James N. Andrews, of Somerset, Md., and the Headquarters Troop of the Third Cavalry of Fort Myer, Va.

The box holders at the show will be Mrs. Anna B. Wicks, of Mount Vernon; Mr. and Mrs. A. Smith Bowman, of Sunset Hills; Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Miller, of Washington; Mrs. John Enochs and Mrs. A. P. Davidson, of Accotink; Mrs. Mattie Porter, of Washington; Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Preece, of Fairfax; Ernest May, of Washington; Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Richardson and Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Graham, of Fairfax; Mr and Mrs. E. M. Palmer, of Barcroft; Mr. and Mrs. Harley Peyton Wilson, of Hollin Hall; Mr. and Mrs. John S. Barbour and Mr. and Mrs. Wilson M. Farr, of Fairfax.

Democrats Will Open Clarendon Headquarters

Democratic headquarters will be opened in the Reese Building at Clarendon tomorrow according to county chairman William L. Bragg. This is the first presidential campaign in which the party has opened official headquarters, but everything possible is going to be done during this campaign to put Arlington County back in the Democratic column.

He stated that both the women's and men's club are most active and much good work is being accomplished by these two independent organizations which will be largely responsible for the success of the party at the polls in November. A special committee from the two clubs is now cooperating with the county committee for the purpose of planning for the holding of a series of mass meetings. The dates of these, together with speakers, will be announced within the next few days.

Ritchie Refuses To Mix in Snarl

Capitol Heights Citizens Are Told They Must Paddle Own Canoe.

Citizens of Capitol Heights, Md., were told to paddle their own canoe yesterday in a letter received from Gov. Albert C. Ritchie. The governor wrote in response to a letter sent him asking intervention in the muddled municipal affairs of the town.

The letter, addressed to Herbert Davis, secretary of the Capitol Heights Citizens Association, said: "I am not sufficiently familiar with the facts to fully understand. When such conditions occur they usually have to be settled by sensible thinking people on the spot."

Three councilmen have resigned, but a committee of citizens has been appointed to ask at least one of them to remain so that a quorum could be maintained for the transaction of town business. The town's affairs are in a muddled condition and a probable deficit of $2,000 is expected.

Rendering Plant Permit Opposed

Mass Meeting Is Called to Plan for Seeking of Injunction.

Declaring that the citizens of Aurora Hills and Virginia Highlands are opposed to the establishment of a rendering plant at Washington-Richmond highway and Columbia Pike in Arlington County as provided by the permit granted by the Zoning Appeal Board at its meeting Tuesday night, Joseph C. McClellan, president of the Jefferson Civic League, issued a call yesterday for a mass meeting Monday night in the community house at Virginia Highlands.

McClellan stated that arrangements would be completed at the mass meeting to seek an injunction against the construction of the plant if it is found impossible to reopen the matter before the Zoning Appeal Board.

He further stated that the citizens were not given a fair opportunity to be heard by the board.

MORE SAFETY SEEN FOR COUNTY FUNDS

ARLINGTON COUNTY
BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

As a means of better protecting the public funds of both the State and county and also county treasurers it is learned that the acts of the General Assembly at its last session provided for the creation of finance boards.

This board shall consist of the chairman of the county board or board of supervisors, the county treasurer and a citizen. The first two named members shall be ex-officio members of the board and the third to be appointed by the circuit court. The first citizen shall be appointed for a term to expire December 31, 1933. Thereafter the term of such member shall be for four years, but the circuit court or judge in vacation, in his discretion, may remove for cause any such member and appoint another to fill out the unexpired term.

The chairman of the county board or board of supervisors shall be chairman of the finance board and the clerk to the county board becoming ex-officio clerk to the finance board.

The act provides that all deposits made by the county treasurer shall be made in the name of the treasurer's county.

It further provides that the depository or depositories for the money received by the county treasurer, shall be selected by the treasurer and approved by the board. The board shall have the authority to withdraw its approval of any depository if in its judgment the protection and safety of the money held by such depository requires such action; and if and when such action is taken with respect to any depository, the treasurer shall forthwith withdraw from such depository all money and deposit it with the board's approval.

The act further sets forth that no money received by a county treasurer shall be deposited with any depository of the treasurer's county selected and approved until such depository shall have given bond with the same condition as those required for bonds given by State depositories who elect to give bond to protect money deposited with them by the State treasurer pursuant to the provisions of section 2258, Code of Virginia.

Owing to the absence of Judge Walter T. McCarthy from the county, it could not be learned last night when the appointment of the third member of the board will be made. It is expected it will be made during the October term of the Circuit Court of Arlington County.

Father Is Granted Right to See Child

Veteran's Bureau Doctor Is Complainant in Action in Fairfax.

Judge Frederick Coleman, of Fredericksburg, presided yesterday in the Fairfax County Circuit Court at a habeas corpus proceeding, instituted by Dr. Paul Spangler, of the United States Veterans' Administration at Indianapolis, Ind., for the recovery of his 8-year-old daughter, Natlie. Judge Coleman was assigned to hear the case by Gov. Pollard at the request of Judge Walter T. McCarthy.

According to the testimony, Dr. Spangler was divorced from his wife, Ruth Spangler, at Dover, Del., in 1929, but the custody of the child was not passed on at that time. Mrs. Spangler, a beauty parlor operator in Washington, has been making her home with her parents near Vienna since that time, keeping the child with her. Recently she denied Dr. Spangler the right to have the custody or see the child at any time.

After hearing the testimony Judge Coleman decided not to take the child from its mother but entered an order allowing the father to see the child at all times and places and to have the custody of her for brief periods during the year. Crandall Mackay, of Arlington, appeared for Dr. Spangler, and Frank L. Ball for Mrs. Spangler.

Montgomery Schools Will Open Wednesday

Montgomery County school children will return to their studies Wednesday, Dr. Edwin W. Broome, county superintendent of schools announced yesterday. Approximately 11,500 children are expected to be enrolled this year, 500 more that attended last year. This includes about 1,800 colored children.

The county teaching force has been reduced by 13, but the increased enrollment will be adequately cared for because of consolidation of several schools, Mr. Broome said. School teachers will report Monday for the annual preschool conference and will pass Tuesday in preparing the classrooms for the pupils.

MAN HELD FOR JURY ON LIQUOR CHARGE

Wife of Accused Cherrydale Resident Is Cleared in Alexandria.

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

Floyd E. Walleker and his wife, of Cherrydale, Va., were arraigned yesterday before United States Commissioner John Barton Phillips, in Alexandria, on a warrant sworn out by Roy E. Blick, a member of the Metropolitan Police with Federal authority, charging them with the illegal sale, possession and transportation of alcohol. The charge against Mrs. Walleker was dropped, there being no evidence to connect her with the alleged offense, and Walleker was held for the Federal grand jury, which will meet in Alexandria in December. The warrant, it was stated, was issued under the instructions of the United States district attorney for the Eastern District of Virginia.

The alleged offense occurred July 21, but the warrant was not sworn out until August 29. Blick testified that he and John M. Henshaw, whom he believed to be an agent of the Department of Justice, went to the home of Officer Livingston, with whom Blick was working, and called a certain number on the telephone. They then drove to a point near the Virginia side of the Key Bridge, where they were met by Mr. and Mrs. Walleker, and the latter placed in Blick's car a package containing a 5-gallon tin of alcohol, for which Blick paid $16. Henshaw claimed that the alcohol had been transported by Walleker from Baltimore. The arrest was made in Washington later.

Attorney Charles Henry Smith appeared for Walleker.

Legion Auxiliary Chairmen Named

Alexandria Group Backs Military Training in Schools.

Mrs. Clyde B. Lanham, first vice president of the American Legion Auxiliary of Alexandria, presided at the meeting of that organization last night in Gadsby's Tavern. Mrs. Margaret F. Bailey, the president, left early this week for Portland, Oreg., to attend the national convention of the American Legion and Auxiliary.

Mrs. Lanham announced for the president the following chairmen of the regular standing committees: Rehabilitation, Mrs. Richard B. English; hospital, Mrs. George W. Roop; poppy, Mrs. Irene Richardson; national defense, Mrs. W. G. Kidd; emblem, Mrs. Herbert Cady; Fidac, Mrs. Roger C. Sullivan; constitution and by-laws, Mrs. Marie Inglin; Americanism, Mrs. W. Cameron Roberts; memorial, Mrs. E. Burnett Ale; legislative, Mrs. John H. Trimyer; finance, Miss Irma Coleman; sick, Mrs. George W. Roop; citations, Mrs. Margaret A. Scott; penal institutions, Mrs. Robert Insko; service sale, Mrs. James T. Preston, jr., and organist, Mrs. George C. Cole.

The auxiliary adopted a resolution favoring the action of all patriotic societies in the city in urging continuance of military training in schools and lending their support to this important part of the school training.

for Alfred E. Smith, jumped to the platform to withdraw the name of Daniel Leary, of Waterbury, whom his faction had indorsed for lieutenant governor.

After a speech in which he insisted that Leary, the nominee two years ago, was not the strongest available candidate, Wynne proposed the selection of Col. Thomas Hewes, member of the governor's staff.

Hewes, a Hartford attorney, was nominated in a riotous demonstration and from then on a slate was selected rapidly and without opposition.

This completed, Wynne again took the floor to present Gov. Cross' name for renomination. The delegates cheered wildly as they adopted the motion by a rising vote.

Dr. Cross, who entered politics two years ago after his retirement as dean of the Yale Graduate School, accepted in a speech reviewing his administration.

Lonergan was chosen over Ayres, indorsed by the faction led by National Committeeman Archibald McNeil by a vote of 481 to 372 in the only roll call of the session. Citron, also recommended by the McNeil group, was unopposed when Andrew N. Phillips, jr., of Stamford, candidate of the Spellacy faction, withdrew.

Mayor Francis T. Maloney, of Meriden, choice of the Spellacy group for the senatorial nomination, retired in Lonergan's favor. Lonergan, a Smith supporter in the preconvention campaign in the spring, was regarded as a member of the Spellacy faction.

Minister Claims Credit As Gaming House Closes

Voluntary closing of an alleged gambling establishment on Bladensburg road as the result of the activities of his organization was claimed yesterday by the Rev. B. P. Robertson, president of the Prince Georges County Ministers' Association.

Dr. Robertson led a delegation of ministers and civic leaders which appeared before the Prince Georges County commissioners Tuesday to protest against alleged conditions in the county. The group has started a law enforcement campaign in the county.

The minister said: "I really believe our protests caused the closing of the establishment. What's more, it's going to stay closed or the commissioners will hear from us again. I assisted in the clean-up of New Orleans and other cities and am in this fight to the finish."

Attendants of the establishment were posted at the doors yesterday to inform patrons that the place had suspended operations. No reason was given for the closing, however.

Members of the sporting fraternity in Washington say that the house ordinarily closes shortly before the Maryland racing season begins in Prince Georges County and also for the sessions of the county grand jury. Both of these begin within a short time.

The alleged gambling house closed Tuesday night after the group of citizens appeared before the commissioners as part of the county "righteousness campaign" and demanded that the county be purged of alleged gambling houses and other questionable establishments.

A. H. Seidenspinner, who was foreman of the former grand jury, asked that the chief of police be directed to present a written report of his investigation of the alleged gaming house.

The commissioners, intimated, however, that the verbal report of the chief had been satisfactory.

Fairfax Mass Meeting On Tuberculosis Today

Mrs. Ruth T. Watson, of Fairfax, chairman of the Fairfax County tuberculosis committee, has called a mass meeting for this afternoon at 3 o'clock in the county courthouse at Fairfax.

Plans will be made for an organization for a tuberculosis survey of the county. The campaign will be conducted through this month under the direction of Miss Sula Freeman, field worker for the Virginia Tuberculosis Association. Local physicians and the county health office will cooperate in this work.

$700,000 BOND SALE SET IN MONTGOMERY

Advertisement of Remainder of School and Road Issue Is Authorized.

Advertisement of the remaining $700,000 of the $1,000,000 Montgomery County school and road bond issue of 1932 was authorized yesterday by the Montgomery County commissioners at their meeting in Rockville, Md. A total of $300,000 of the issue has been sold by private sale to county banks at a price of 99. The commissioners had rejected the previous bid of 90 offered for half of the issue.

The commissioners will be able to complete the major county school and road program authorized by the State Legislature in 1931. The Montgomery County Civic Federation and the Montgomery County Government Club had approved the program prior to its submission to the Legislature and county officials had announced their support.

The issue will provide funds for a number of school building projects and also for the road construction program.

PARLEY MAY DECIDE STATUS OF WALKER

New York Party Chieftains on Way to Albany Due to Discuss His Fate.

New York, Sept. 8 (A.P.).—Possibility that the political fate of James J. Walker will be decided within the next 24 hours was seen tonight, as three of the five Democratic city organization leaders headed for Albany together.

The power of deciding whether Walker, who resigned as mayor last week, will be the organization candidate at the next election is in their hands.

The question is one of the most pressing the leaders face, and is the object of national political interest.

John F. Curry, Tammany leader, has indicated there will be no formal announcement of the decision for about a month.

The issue may be threshed out, however, as they journey northward, and after they get to Albany.

Private Parleys Likely.

The State committee meeting they are going to attend has been called merely to set a time and place for the State convention, but the tangled New York political situation may come up for discussion in private conferences.

The organization leaders, who have formally pledged their support to the Roosevelt-Garner ticket face the questions of how actively they will participate in the presidential campaign; whether they will support Lieut. Gov. Herbert H. Lehman, Gov. Roosevelt's choice for the gubernatorial candidate, and what stand they will take in the mayoralty situation.

John H. McCooey, Brooklyn leader, who is one of the three traveling together, yesterday visited national headquarters for the first time. After he left it was announced he had agreed to participate actively in the national campaign.

McKee Speeds Economy.

The other, David S. Rendt, Richmond leader, like Curry, has held no conferences with the Roosevelt-Garner forces.

When James A. Farley, national and State chairman, heard the organization group was traveling together, he changed his reservations so as to be on the same train. Curry, McCooey and Rendt had a private car.

Meantime, Joseph V. McKee, who succeeded Walker as mayor, and who is not a Tammany member like his predecessor, continued to attack the city's financial problems and to ignore politics.

The Sun said the drastic economy measures he has instituted in his few days as mayor "have become a matter of grave concern to Tammany Hall."

Farley's Post Seems Safe As State Leaders Gather

Albany Is Likely Choice of Committee for Democratic Convention on October 3 and 4; Factional Differences Are Apparently Settled.

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 8 (A.P.).—Factional differences that threatened to precipitate a fight to oust as State Democratic chairman, James A. Farley, who also is national chairman, apparently have been adjusted with the prospect of a peaceful State committee meeting here tomorrow.

Albany tonight seemed to have the call over Buffalo for the State convention. The convention dates will be October 3 and 4, the same days the Republicans selected for their Buffalo convention.

During the weeks after the Chicago convention there were persistent reports that Farley, Gov. Roosevelt's choice for the national chairmanship, would be shelved when the State committee met. The reports became more numerous as the Mayor Walker ouster hearing progressed.

A few days ago, however, Ed O'Connell, Albany County chairman, and head of the powerful Democratic organization in the capital, said no fight would be made on Farley. In return, it is believed, those who favored Buffalo for the convention city will not make a strenuous contest. This was the view of those preparing the program for tomorrow's meeting.

The O'Connell group, particularly interested in nominating Mayor John Boyd Thacher, of Albany, for governor, desires to bring the meeting here. Thacher and Lieut. Gov. Herbert H. Lehman are the only avowed candidates for the nomination. Mr. Lehman is the choice of Gov. Roosevelt.

Farley and Edward J. Flynn, secretary of state, and sponsor for the new mayor of New York, Joseph V. McKee, were expected tonight. Flynn is the Bronx County leader. The other four county chiefs, John F. Curry, Tammany leader; John J. McCooey, Brooklyn leader; John Theofel, the Queens leader, and David S. Rendt, the Richmond leader, traveling together, were to arrive later.

"Repeal Hoover" Drive Will Be Nation-Wide

Raleigh, N. C., Sept. 8 (U.P.).—The young Democrats, campaign to "Repeal Hoover" will be waged throughout the country, with the Young Democrat, a trim, red, white and blue monoplane, scheduled to tour the entire United States within the next six weeks, it was announced tonight from national headquarters of the Young Democratic Clubs of America here.

J. A. Bolich, jr., national manager, will leave tomorrow morning in the Young Democrat, which has "Repeal Hoover" painted on it sides. Piloting the Stinson monoplane will be John (Red) Harmon and H. B. Poindexter, Winston-Salem aviators. Taylor announced a schedule for the campaign covering thirteen States by the end of next week, after which a new schedule will be made.

Hoover's Official Aid In Mississippi Quits

Jackson, Miss., Sept. 8 (A.P.).—Lamont Rowlands, of Picayune, President Hoover's official representative in Mississippi and chairman of the administration's patronage committee in this State, has tendered his resignation to the President, his associates said today. The reason for his resignation was not made public.

Rowlands led an unsuccessful fight at Chicago for recognition of a "lily white" Republican delegation from Mississippi. Instead, a "black and tan" delegation, headed by Perry Howard, Negro national committeeman, was seated.

Socialists Map 60-Day Campaign for Thomas

New York, Sept. 8 (A.P.).—Socialist headquarters announced tonight plans for an intensive two-month campaign which will take their presidential nominee, Norman Thomas, into every State in which he has not already appeared.

This second phase of their ballot-drive will open with a rally in New York City Sunday, September 18, at which Thomas, back from a tour of the Middle West, will appear.

Triumph for Hoover In Maine Predicted

New York, Sept. 8 (A.P.).—A 20,000 majority for President Hoover in Maine was predicted tonight by former United States Representative James MacLafferty, of California, as he returned from a speaking tour of that State.

He also told leaders at Eastern Republican headquarters that all the party's candidates for Congress are certain of election next week. MacLafferty made sixteen speeches on his 1,600-mile tour of the Pine Tree State.

Borah Says West Uncertain.

Boise, Idaho, Sept. 8 (A.P.).—The West is "any man's fight" in the present presidential campaign, Senator Borah told newspapermen today. Asked for his opinion whether Gov. Roosevelt or President Hoover had the ascendency in the Western group of States, he said the issue would not take definite shape before October.

DEMOCRATIC RALLY HEARS W. B. OLIVER

Indictment of Administration by District Residents Is Discussed.

Washington residents are in the best position to "frame an indictment against the administration," Representative William B. Oliver, of Alabama, said last night when he addressed a Democratic rally at local Democratic headquarters, 1320 G street northwest.

Several hundred persons gathered at the meeting and heard several speakers praise Roosevelt and Garner. The rally was sponsored by the Roosevelt League of Clubs. John F. Costello, Democratic national chairman of the District, was chairman of the gathering.

Robert W. Wooley, director of the mint in Wilson's administration and publicity chairman in the presidential campaign of 1916, told of personal phases of his friendship and contacts with Gov Roosevelt.

Charles Castle, a World War veteran living at Soldiers' Home, said service men had confidence in the Democratic platform and the party's candidates.

Other speakers were Mrs. Etta Taggart, local attorny, who read an original poem; David D. Maine, a former prohibition agent, and Oscar Glick, a law student.

Mrs. Edward Hurley Is Buried in Chicago

Chicago, Sept. 8 (A.P.).—Wreaths from President and Mrs. Hoover and from Joseph Tumulty, secretary to the late President Woodrow Wilson, added their tributes and sympathies as Mrs. Edward N. Hurley was buried today.

The wife of the war-time chairman of the Shipping Board was killed in an automobile accident Tuesday. Leaders of Chicago Catholicism, society and commerce attended the funeral in Our Lady of Mt. Carmel Church.

Curtis and Mrs. Gann In Demand as Speakers

Chicago, Sept. 8 (A.P.).—Vice President Charles Curtis and his sister, Mrs. Dolly Gann, have become recognized as the most popular campaign speakers of the Republican party, C. William Ramseyer, director of the speakers' bureau at campaign headquarters, said tonight. He said they have been deluged with requests for the Vice President and his sister to fill speaking engagements.

It was announced Vice President Curtis will speak at Fogelsville, Pa., September 17, and make two addresses in Tennessee and Kentucky the week following. Mrs. Gann, meanwhile, will be at Superior, Wis., September 20; Minneapolis and St. Paul, September 21, and Benson and Willmar, Minn., September 23.

Byrd to Tour in Plane For Economy League

Boston, Sept. 8 (A.P.).—Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd, veteran of transatlantic and polar flights, will fly to many of the leading cities east of the Mississippi in the interests of the National Economy League, of which he is chairman, league officials announced today.

The announcement was made at a meeting of officers of the league and business and industrial leaders of Boston to make plans for a membership drive for the league to be opened in Boston on September 15. The flight will cover sections as far West as Chicago and as far South as Nashville, Tenn. The admiral will be accompanied by members of the league.

LONG LIFE

THE FIRST AND ONLY 5-STAR MOTOR OIL

LOW CARBON · LOW CONSUMPTION · KEEPS BODY · WINTER FLUIDITY

The perfect motor oil must excel in five essential qualities—low carbon content—long life—low consumption—winter fluidity—ability to keep its body.

The best Paraffinic oils rate well in three of these qualities. They lack two.

Naphthenic (Asphaltic) oils are excellent in two of these qualities. They lack three.

Hydrofining made this possible—for the first time.

Essolube is so superior to all other oils that it has replaced "Standard" Motor Oil. Yet hydrofined Essolube sells at no extra cost.

Essolube is sold at all stations and dealers of the following companies: Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, Standard Oil Company of Pennsylvania, Standard Oil Company of Louisiana, Standard Oil Company, Incorporated in Kentucky, Colonial Beacon Oil Company, Inc.

MAINE'S ELECTION.

Maine's election, coming two months ahead of the final showdown in the presidential contest, is always watched with keen interest. This year it takes on unusual significance because of the general assumption that the Republican party is at a disadvantage because of the depression. All political spectroscopes will be turned in the direction of the Pine Tree State when its voters go to the polls next Monday to choose a governor, a State auditor, three representatives to Congress and members of both branches of the State legislature.

As Maine goes, says political tradition, so goes the Nation. Statisticians have disproved that belief. Political observers have put it in the class of obsolete superstitions. Yet every politician carefully scans the returns from Maine's September election for an inkling of what may be expected from the whole country two months later.

One writer recently pointed out that there is no relation whatever between the Democratic vote in Maine and the success of Democratic candidates for the Presidency. That may be true, but when one turns to the Republican vote the significance of Maine as an indicator of national sentiment is more pronounced. Of course, much of the importance attached to the vote of the Pine Tree State is unwarranted. But the fact remains that Maine is normally Republican and the country is also. Hence, a Republican victory in Maine has been followed, as a rule, by the election of a Republican President.

This year is abnormal. Yet the Pine Tree State has suffered from the depression like every other section of the country. What effect will adverse economic conditions have upon its normally heavy Republican majority? The answer to that question will be regarded as significant even by those who put no credence in the tradition that Maine forecasts the outcome of the presidential contest.

Both parties have been carrying on vigorous campaigns in the Pine Tree State. Senator Moses, of New Hampshire, is making a tour to important centers, and Secretary of the Treasury Mills will close the campaign for the Republicans with an address at Portland on Saturday night. Gov. Ely of Massachusetts, former champion of Al Smith, will say the last word for the Democrats. It is admitted that the Democrats have built up a militant organization, and the Republicans expect their majorities will be smaller than usual. But on the eve of the election there is no indication of an upset in Maine.

MISREPRESENTING MANKIND.

Hendrick Willem van Loon in his new book entitled "Van Loon's Geography" takes an extremely pessimistic view of mankind. It is astonishing that a man who has probed so deeply into human affairs finds so much of savagery and hatred in the modern world and so little of the milk of human kindness. Where has he been seeking out his evidence and examples of human conduct?

Implying that only man among all living creatures is vicious and unmindful of the welfare of his fellows, Mr. van Loon writes:

> Dog does not eat dog—tiger does not eat tiger, yea, even the loathsome hyena lives at peace with the members of his own species. But man hates man, man kills man, and in the world of today the prime concern of every nation is to prepare itself for the coming slaughter of some of its own neighbors.

Cannibalism is very common among animals. Many species prey upon members of their own kind for food. In nature the survival of the fittest is actual and real. When Mr. van Loon attempts to make man a more ferocious creature than the beasts he misrepresents the truth.

Furthermore, in a state of nature the weak and the crippled are always left to die. Under modern civilization they are carefully nurtured and supported at great cost to society. Millions of dollars are spent to develop cures for disease, and hundreds of scientists risk their lives to improve the lot of those who suffer. If Mr. van Loon had spent as much time looking for the milk of human kindness in modern civilization as he has pondering over imaginary antipathy in the human heart, he would have a different viewpoint.

Any one who should say in specific language that it is the prime concern of the United States to prepare for the destruction of Canada, Argentina or Peru he would be considered deficient in mental equipment. It is true, of course, that warfare flares forth at intervals in various parts of the world. Mankind as a whole has not yet learned to live at peace. But to assume that the world is inhabited by creatures who deliberately seek the destruction of one another is absurd.

There are enough shortcomings in the human family to criticize without conjuring up imaginary taints of savagery. When a student of human nature departs from reality to make his indictment sound more terrible his observations automatically lose their effectiveness.

BUILDING WASHINGTON.

Washington is in the midst of a gigantic building program that will substantially change the appearance of the city. Within a few years Pennsylvania Avenue and the Mall will hardly be recognized by visitors who have not seen the city for a decade. A new Capital is in process of formation.

A great deal of thought and study has been given to the structures under construction in Washington or planned for construction in the future. A diligent effort is being made to harmonize the architecture, thus giving the city an atmosphere of order and dignity as well as of beauty. Large sums of money are being spent in this work under the assumption that the American people desire a National Capital of which they and their children may be proud.

All of this building program is influenced by the structure on Capitol Hill. It is quite proper that the Capitol should be the central point of interest in the Federal City and that all other structures should be in harmony with it. Yet the policy of subordinating everything to the Capitol can easily be carried too far. One suggestion is made, for example, that the new electric fountain in the Capitol Plaza might outshine the illuminated dome of the Capitol. There seems to be a confirmed opinion that all Government buildings must be low and squatty so that they will not overtop the famous dome. If this theory is carried to extremes it will result in the development of a Federal City that is not typically American and that will not represent the highest achievements of either modern or classical architecture.

The Capitol is unique by itself. Its charm does not lie in towering height. Suggestions that Washington must forever turn its back upon certain types of beautiful monuments and modern structures merely because the forefathers did not plan a skyscraper for the seat of Government are narrow indeed. The new Washington will be large enough to include the finest types of both modern and classical architecture. What the Capitol loses in comparative magnitude in the coming years it will gain in tradition and historic interest.

POLITICAL OSTRACISM.

Recent archaeological discoveries near Athens unearthed relics of the classical periods around 600 B. C. Among the finds were bits of pottery upon which were written the names of candidates voted upon for ostracism according to the custom of the day. No less celebrated victims of popular disfavor than Aristides and Themistocles were named on some of the ballots. History records these events, in which the early exercise of the referendum not only deposed officials, but banished them from the scene of their labors.

This may hearten modern politicians who, after 25 centuries, are still subject to the whims and changing fancies of the electorate. Though they may be allowed to live in oblivion upon the scene of former triumphs, it is questionable as to whether adding banishment to defeat is not the kindlier method. If modern republics are ungrateful it seems that citizens in flowing togas were no less merciful. While the classic lines of the Venus de Milo were being chiseled, competent officeholders were being chased into the wilderness by a relentless constituency.

And for what crimes? Aristides the Just, appears to have had some differences of political opinion with Themistocles, and in the end both were banished. The nearest to a reason for this action ever given was that of the Athenian citizen who opined that in the case of the famous lawgiver "they were tired of hearing him called 'the Just.'" Human nature has not greatly changed. Many a good man loses favor just when he has reached the peak of his knowledge and usefulness to his constituents.

The probability is that Aristides got to taking himself seriously. Called the Just, he began to believe he couldn't be wrong. Take the job as seriously as you like, but not yourself, must be the politician's motto. The populace lauds its hero to the skies, but the moment he admits by word or action that its praise is meet and just, he is cast out as an egotistical upstart. It is not enough for candidates and officeholders to be modest. They must deprecate their meagre offerings in behalf of the public and be careful to avoid the appearance of being satisfied with their superior talents.

Present-day recipients of political favor who fall from grace may take comfort from the record of the centuries, which so often shows in the classic language of the poets that the higher they rise the harder they fall. The public taste is fickle. It may decree a change for no cause at all, or, as was the case in ancient Athens, for the utterly illogical reason that an official is too good. The only certain sign that removal impends is an incumbent's conviction that he has become indispensable.

A YEAR OF GOOD HEALTH.

A remarkable record is being made in the matter of national health. The latest statistics compiled by the great life insurance companies show surprising figures in all walks of life and with regard to virtually all diseases, while mortality rates are well below the average. Insurance statistics are consistently in very close agreement with figures later compiled to cover the entire population.

Health conditions among the industrial policy holders of the Metropolitan company have never been so favorable during any previous July. The death rate for July was 7.55 per 1,000, which is slightly lower than the previous minimum in July, 1922, has never been approximated before, and is 4.3 per cent below that of July, 1931. The showing of improved health and lower death rate has been maintained for every month this year and is general throughout the United States and Canada, with every prospect that the entire year will establish a new record.

The cumulative death rate for this year in many of the more fatal diseases is remarkably low. In the case of pneumonia it is only 77.7 per 100,000, while a year ago at this time it was 95, a decrease of about 18 per cent. Tubercular deaths show a decline of nearly 8 per cent so far this year. The rates for the principal epidemic diseases of childhood are similarly at low figures and fatal accidents, even those caused by automobiles, indicate a decline of more than 10 per cent.

Only a widespread outbreak of influenza, or some other dangerous communicable disease, during the remaining months of the year can prevent 1932 from establishing new records for health in every department.

IN A SUBMARINE

By Lieut. JOHN EDWIN HOGG, U. S. N. R., in the Kansas City Star.

As these lines are written I am sitting before a portable typewriter in the officers' wardroom of the United States submarine Nautilus. Our great diving battle cruiser, with 120 men aboard, is cruising submerged through the blue-black depths of the Pacific Ocean. We are about 100 miles from San Diego, Calif., and our intricate mechanical whale is speeding along the coast of San Clemente Island some ten miles offshore.

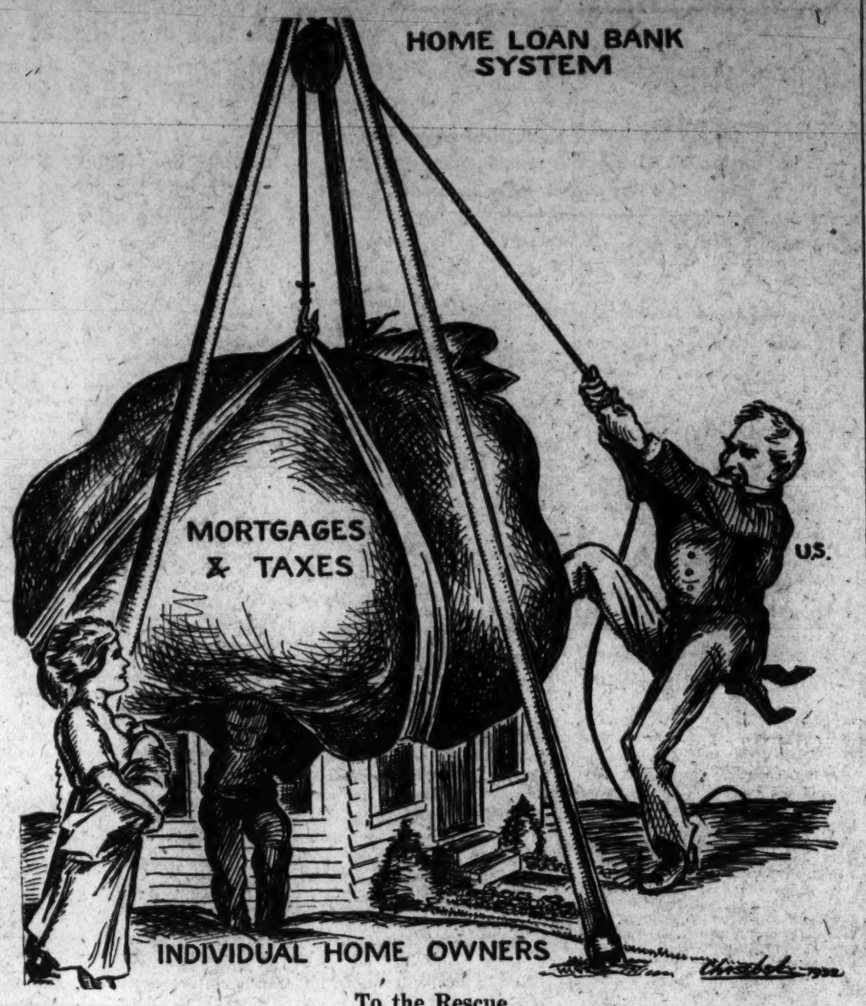
The ship is sinking! I can feel it going down under my feet. The waves, which, a minute ago were breaking against the hull sixteen feet below the level of the forward deck, are coming higher and higher. Down we go! A great, blue mountain of water crashes over the bow and the deck disappears in a a cloud of seething, swirling foam. Instinctively I feel that I'm aboard a sinking ship. The sea is already at my feet and about to close in around me.

There is an interval of about half an hour when the sea seems devoid of every living thing. Then all of a sudden I am conscious of the fact that the Nautilus is diving to a much greater depth. Down and down she goes. The depth gauge shows 150 feet. Our electric motors have been shut down. Merciful heavens! Is the Nautilus going down out of control? This thought puts cold chills down my spine, and only the fact that there is no rush of men to the rescue hatch assures me all is well. The light outside the eyeport is getting very dim, but as I peer out I see the huge forms of four bottlenosed whales go shooting across our deck from port to starboard. In a moment they are gone. The Nautilus levels off. The motors are started and we're soon up again to within 65 feet of the surface. The mystery of our sudden dive is explained. The officer on the lookout in the conning tower saw the whales on the surface through his periscope. The command was immediately given to take the ship down to 150 feet and lie motionless. The whales were heading across our course and a prudent submarine commander avoids such monsters as carefully as he would avoid collision with a surface ship.

Resuming our cruise at a depth of 65 feet we are soon running through another tremendous school of fish. This time they are mackerel, and I have the impression of being one of the dwellers of an enormous aquarium. But I'm not looking at a mere handful of fish in a tank. I'm in the tank myself looking out into the boundless natural aquarium of the sea. I'm looking not at a few fish, but upon innumerable thousands of them. They are tearing through the water in all directions in hot pursuit upon a school of millions of sardines.

We are no more than through the school of mackerel before we are into a herd of porpoises. There are few ocean travelers who have not seen schools of these strange marine mammals doing teamwork jumping out of the sea. Watch them from the eyeport of a submarine and a group of porpoises presents an entirely different kind of a picture. From below we see the porpoise come down out of the air into the water. He swims a hundred feet or more under water as the very personification of fish-like motion and aquatic grace. Then apparently without the slightest effort he shoots to the surface, passes through the bottom of a wave and disappears.

I have stood at the eyeport for three hours and it has seemed like ten minutes. Sounds that issue from the flood control room into the rescue hatch told me that the command had been given for the Nautilus to go to the surface. I go down the ladders, walk aft, climb to the conning tower and watch the master depth gauge drop from 65 feet to zero. The hatches are flung open and my ears crack with the sudden change of atmospheric pressure. I tumble out on deck upon the heels of the gun crews and reach the dripping bridge to be jolted all over by the concussion of two 6-inch guns going off simultaneously. With my binoculars I watch the flight of the shells. Some of the shells are tracers and their course to the target ship is easily followed. Our gun crews are doing marvelous work and at 4,000 yards shell after shell explodes in the center ring of the target. If the target were an enemy surface ship, it would be a bad day for those aboard her.



To the Rescue.

SELF-RELIANCE.

Boy, bend thy will
To gaining skill.
Get wisdom for the Troubled day.
For who has these
May be at ease.
No thief can take
His gifts away.

The skillful hand
Throughout the land
Is honored, trusted
And required.
Remember, lad,
Good times or bad,
Knowledge is Everywhere desired.

Stocks rise and fall,
Change comes to all.
But wisdom holds
Its value still;
And winds of care
And dark despair
Unwithered leave
The hand of skill.

You Can't Make an Offer for a "Right Smart" of Land Until You Know the Seller's Definition of a "Right Smart"

By ROBERT QUILLEN

LONG ago, in a land beyond the seas, there lived a strange race of people that possessed no measures of any kind.

When the farmer took his wheat to market he said: "How much will you give me for what's in this wagon?" Buyers guessed the worth of a sheep or a shote. The housewife pointed to show how much cloth she wanted and then argued about the price.

No man knew how much of anything he possessed. Nobody had ever heard of standard measures.

But when Bill the First took the throne, he established a new system. He required his craftsmen to fashion three metal measures, a bushel, a yard and a pound, and these were adopted as standards for the kingdom.

It was a great idea. Purchasers no longer bought corn by the pile. A man could make contracts. If one promised 40 yards or bushels, the other knew how much he would receive. Prices were standardized; values were fixed; and every man knew his worth.

It was a good system, but it had one fatal fault. The metal used in making the measures was a strange alloy that needed air. Unless it was kept in the open and moved from place to place it got tired of the monotony and stretched.

This peculiarity didn't matter at first, for the three measures were passed from hand to hand every day as different citizens had need of them. In fact, one trader had scarcely begun to use the measures until another appeared to demand them.

But one day a prominent citizen thought up a scheme. "If I could get those measures and keep them," said he, "I could charge a big price for their use and thus become the richest of men."

Get them he did. And he kept them. And you know what happened. Denied the privilege of travel, the metal began to stretch. The bar that measured a yard stretched to nine feet; the bushel expanded until it held twelve pecks and the pound swelled and tripled its weight.

The change occurred slowly and at first was little noticed, but eventually it busted the country.

Men who had contracted to deliver 40 bushels of corn at a certain price had to deliver three times as much. The farmer whose land once measured 1,200 yards on the highway now discovered that it had shrunk to 400 yards and lost two-thirds of its value. The woman who had borrowed a pound of sugar was asked to repay three times as much. And creditors couldn't collect because everybody's fortune had shrunk to a third of its former measurement.

The moral is that a measure will ruin business if it is subject to temperamental changes. And the moral holds true whether the measure is a bushel, a yard, a pound or the gold in a "gold standard."

Press Comment Upon Acts and Actors in the Great American Show, "Politics."

Tammany's Tomahawks.
Philadelphia Public Ledger.

The political implications of the Roosevelt-Walker imbroglio have their significance not only for the City and State of New York, but, in this presidential election year, for the whole country. For Gov. Roosevelt it may be said that he had affirmed his intention, and had evidently done his best to carry it out, to dissociate his handling of the Walker case from any political considerations. But Tammany, anti-Roosevelt from the start, now has its excuse for hurling its tomahawks in his direction. The bitter feud in the New York Democratic party may contribute to the carrying of the State by the Republican national ticket. Tammany's fight on Mr. Roosevelt will tend to strengthen him in the West, but he can ill afford to lose New York. Presidents have been elected without it, but by a margin decidedly too close for comfort.

Can't Speak English.
Brooklyn Eagle.

The presence in New York State of 230,380 foreign-born white persons unable to use the language of the country is shockingly great. It implies that our authorities have done far less than they should to convert these people into Americans in the practical sense.

The percentages of non-English-speaking among the white foreign-born confirm this. For New York State, rich and purportedly liberal in its educational policies, this percentage is 7 3-10; Connecticut has a percentage of 8 1-5; Pennsylvania, 8¼; Ohio, 8; New Jersey, 7 7-10.

Nice!
Chicago Tribune.

The Literary Digest is going to take a mail vote to find out who's going to be elected in November. Well, now, isn't that nice! Somebody is interested in who's going to be the next President.

Al Smith for Mayor.
Brooklyn Eagle.

The Eagle supported Mr. Smith during the years when he was doing his magnificent constructive work as governor. We urged his nomination as a presidential candidate in 1924. In 1928 the Eagle supported him in his courageous but vain fight against prejudice and organized hate. Again, this year, this newspaper urged his nomination at Chicago. We believe that Alfred E. Smith is big enough to be President of the United States. He is not too big to be mayor of New York.

There are many reasons why Mr. Smith should become mayor at this time.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Democratic Progressives Silent, and Gov. Roosevelt's Conservatism Emphasized in the East.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The profound silence of the Progressive element of the Democratic party since the Chicago convention is one of the curious anomalies of the campaign. Much as they enjoy publicity, nothing has been heard from them since the ticket was completed. Senators Wheeler, Dill and Long, vociferous as Roosevelt shouters during the last weeks of Congress and laboring earnestly for his nomination at Chicago, have been silent since Mr. Garner was selected for Vice President.

Possibly that is merely a coincidence. It was, of course, well-known that there were Progressives who could have been prevailed upon to run with Gov. Roosevelt. When the sudden McAdoo coup gave second place to Speaker Garner it seemed to put a sudden damper upon Progressive enthusiasm for the ticket.

That the national committee is now doing its utmost to picture Gov. Roosevelt as a conservative is evident from the speakers who are being drafted. Not a single Progressive name appears in the list, while the conservatives opposition are represented by such men as John W. Davis, Gov. Ritchie and Newton D. Baker. What has become of Senator Norris who announced that he would support Roosevelt? Like the rest of the Progressives, he has been silent since the Chicago convention.

Some political observers think that the muffler has been applied to the Progressives from Chairman Farley's headquarters in the belief that it is necessary to convince the industrial East that Gov. Roosevelt is not in any sense a radical. The Progressive silencer has for the present descended also upon Speaker Garner. In his case it may be felt that his record in connection with radical legislation in the House at the last session is ample in that direction.

That Gov. Roosevelt now finds it expedient to give assurance himself of conservatism is shown by his speech at Bridgeport, when he said a change of party control does not necessarily mean a change in fundamental principles. That is in somewhat startling contrast to the assertion in his speech in Atlanta last May, in which he said: "The country demands bold, persistent experimentation. It is common sense to take a method and try it; if it fails admit it frankly and try another." P. H. H.

Japanese Business Man Charges Chinese With Deception and Lawlessness.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Your readers may be interested in an extract from a letter to me, written by Mr. Hajime Kawasaki, a prominent business man of Tokyo. He presents the Japanese viewpoint on the Manchurian question, and adds the following:

"There are the following main reasons for the present trouble with China: Her repeated insults to Japan and the tyranny of the Changs in the three eastern provinces, where our rights and interests were violated. It is impossible to restore Manchuria to its former conditions, inasmuch as a drastic transformation has been brought about in the region in the wake of military despotism. Nor can this country put trust in the professed intentions of Chinese officials who have repeatedly deceived us. But the peoples of other nations can assist the solution of the present Sino-Japanese trouble by assuming a just and fair attitude towards the disputants. If these nations should sternly deal with China's acts of deception and lawlessness, instead of spoiling her by their ill-directed kindness, she will ultimately come to realize her grievous mistake of depending on the friendship of distant countries against her neighbors without any reason for so doing. China's change of attitude towards us is the only right beginning of peace between the two Far Eastern countries."

What This Country Needs Is Prohibition—of Firearms.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: What this country needs most is prohibition—yes—but not the kind they are raising such a hue and cry about. The crying need is to prohibit the sale and use of firearms, except for the duly authorized guardians of the peace.

The outlaw has all the advantage. The householder can not sit up all night "armed to the teeth." The storekeeper hears his door open, looks up for a customer and into the muzzle of a revolver. Now, where is the protection? If the lawless were deprived of their weapon the law-abiding citizen would not need it. Yes, what this country needs is prohibition of firearms and a few men with the sense and power to enforce it.

Close Election in Maine May Portend Democratic Victory in November.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: All eyes are turned in the direction of the vote of Maine on the twelfth of this month. In 1880, when the vote slumped, Garfield received only 7,016 plurality in the whole country. In 1884, when Cleveland was elected, the Democrats nearly carried Maine. Again, in 1892, another Democratic year, the State election was close. In 1912 the Republican plurality in September was only 3,285, and the November election gave the election to the Democratic party. Even the year 1916 was a good barometer, because the September vote showed the trend toward the Republican party.

If the vote in Maine on the twelfth of this month should give the Republican candidate for governor a plurality of over 40,000 you will see President Hoover reelected by a majority almost as large as that of 1928.

Miss Lueddemann to Wed In Portland, Oreg.

Mr. and Mrs. Hillman Lueddemann, of Portland, Oreg., have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Mary Lueddemann, to Mr. Taylor Eccles, also of Portland.

Miss Lueddemann is the niece of Senator and Mrs. William E. Borah, and visited here last spring for several weeks and was much entertained during her stay.

The marriage will take place on September 15, at the Lueddemann home, and will be attended by members of the families only. Miss Joan Lueddemann will be her sister's only attendant and Mr. Julian Eccles will be best man for his brother.

Mrs. Borah, who is at present in Boise, where she and the senator have taken a house for the remainder of the summer and early fall, will go to Portland for the wedding. Mrs. Borah has recently returned to Boise from the beautiful Rocky Mountain Club, a de luxe ranch frequently referred to as the "Ritz of the Rockies." With the senator she will return to their apartment at 2101 Connecticut avenue early next month.

Maj. and Mrs. William P. Upshur will entertain at dinner this evening on the Shoreham Terrace.

Capt. Samuel C. Cumming, U. S. M. C., and Mrs. Cumming are receiving congratulations on the birth of a son, Allen Gordon, on September 5, at Fort Leavenworth, Kans. Capt. Cumming is a nephew of the Surgeon General of the Public Health Service, Gen. Hugh S. Cumming, and Mrs. Cumming is a niece of Mrs. John B. Kendrick, having been Miss Ula Williams before her marriage.

Mrs. James C. Stone will join Mr. Stone, chairman of the Federal Farm Board, in their apartment at Wardman Park tomorrow, returning after several months' absence for the coming season.

Lieut. Reed Graves, U. S. A., who, with Mrs. Graves, has been visiting the latter's parents, Col. and Mrs. Alvin C. Voris, in their apartment at Wardman Park Hotel, has left for his post at Fort Benning, Ga. Mrs. Graves is remaining here for a short time, but will join him in a week or two.

Bridge Tea to Honor Prospective Bride.

Miss Eleanor Daniel, whose marriage to Mr. Baldwin Frederick Cook will take place September 14, will be the guest of honor at a bridge tea to be given this afternoon by Mrs. Theodore Uhler and Mrs. Walter Granger at Sherwood, the residence of their mother, Mrs. Leonard Percy Daniel, in Falls Church, Va. Mrs. Ernest Humphrey Daniel, mother of the bride-elect, and Mrs. C. Fred Cook, mother of the prospective bridegroom, will preside at the tea table. Mrs. John Weedon will entertain at luncheon tomorrow for Miss Daniel and in the evening Mr. and Mrs. Daniel, parents of the future bride, will entertain at dinner at the Congressional Country Club.

Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Craighill arrived in Washington yesterday morning from a vacation abroad. With Mr. and Mrs. Craighill in Europe was their son, Mr. G. B. Craighill, jr., who was graduated at the Cathedral School for Boys in June.

Miss Louise Breckinridge, daughter of Mrs. R. B. Breckinridge, will leave next week for Vassar College, in Poughkeepsie, N. Y., for the coming school year.

Miss Breckinridge prepared for college at Rosemary Hall, in Greenwich, Conn. While a student at Rosemary, Miss Breckinridge played on the hockey and basketball teams and was a member of the Current Events Club, the French Club and the Scouts.

Dr. and Mrs. Arthur Deerin Call and their daughter, Miss Margaret Farrar Call, returned from their summer camp on Blue Hill Bay, Me., yesterday. Dr. Call had two weeks with his family in Maine following his attendance upon the twenty-eighth conference of the Interparliamentary Union in Geneva, Switzerland.

Besides being permanent executive secretary of the American group of that body, he is secretary of the American Peace Society and editor of World Affairs. Miss Call left today for a two-week stay in Havana, Cuba.

Miss Sidney Thompson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. Percy Thompson, will entertain at dinner this evening on the Shoreham terrace for Miss Jean Woodson, whose marriage to Mr. Albert Conradis will take place tomorrow, and the members of the wedding party.

Mr. and Mrs. Reeve Hoover have returned to Washington after spending some time in Jasper Park, Alberta, where they passed their holiday fishing and shooting.

Mrs. Montgomery Blair is in New York from her summer home at Easthampton, L. I.

Mrs. William Justice Lee and her family have returned from Camden, Me., and are again at their home, Locust Hill Farm, on the Rockville Pike, for the winter. Lieut. Comdr. Lee is on duty at the Navy Department.

Roosevelt's Route May Be Expanded

Considers Jefferson City and Sacramento as Additional Stops.

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 8 (A.P.).—Gov. Roosevelt tonight was considering minor revision of the itinerary for his 8,000-mile Western campaign tour to include possible stops at Jefferson City, Mo., and Sacramento, Calif.

Mr. Roosevelt, it was learned, has had urgent invitations to visit the Missouri State Democratic convention at Jefferson City. The proposed change, which it was explained was "very indefinite," would put him in Jefferson City late Tuesday, September 13, possibly about 9 o'clock.

Mr. Roosevelt's stay here would be brief and he would make no speech, it was said. To make this additional stop he would have to leave Albany slightly earlier than midnight Monday, his scheduled time of departure. The addition of the Sacramento stop was said to be also a "very indefinite" matter. If the change is made Roosevelt will visit the California city probably in the early afternoon of the day he is scheduled to reach San Francisco.

American Consecrated Catholic Bishop in Italy

Vatican City, Sept. 8 (A.P.).—Mgr. Francis J. Spellman, of Whitman, Mass., was consecrated Auxiliary Bishop of Boston today. He was the first American ever accorded this honor in St. Peter's, mother cathedral of the Catholic world.

Later he was received by the Pope and tonight the new bishop gave his first reception in the famous Borgia apartment of the Vatican. The Pope imparted a special blessing to all American Catholics and the Boston archdiocese in particular, with all its clergy and people.

Curley Charges G. O. P. With Broken Promises

Billings, Mont., Sept. 8 (A.P.).—Opening the Democratic campaign in this section, Mayor James J. Curey of Boston today charged the Republican party with broken campaign promises and declared "nomination of Franklin D. Roosevelt and the certainty of his election" had swung the American people toward renewed confidence.

Hospital "Patient" Smashes Lottery

Agent Enters Tuberculosis Sanitarium to Bare Gambling Ring.

(United Press.)

The dramatic story of how a Federal agent went to a tuberculosis sanitarium as a "patient" in order to break up a lottery ring was told yesterday by J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Bureau of Investigation.

Authorities in a hospital at Oteen, N. C., Hoover said, complained to the Department of Justice that a lottery was so exciting patients that the lives of those in advanced stages of tuberculosis were being threatened.

An agent was sent to investigate. He entered as a patient and only the head of the hospital knew his identity. He rapidly made friends with patients and was invited to participate in the lottery. He learned an orderly and three patients sold the chances. The Federal agent went to the three patients and the orderly, presented his credentials and obtained confessions. Hospital authorities agreed to act against the offenders.

Abelli Goes to Bolivia Soon.

(Associated Press.)

Luis O. Abelli, former Bolivian Minister to the United States, yesterday told friends he planned to return to his homeland about October 1. He is waiting for Mrs. Abelli to return to this country from La Paz. She is now at sea on her way to New York.

Green Says Labor May Form Party

Opinion Cheered by Jersey Parley; Roosevelt's Record Indorsed.

Newark, N. J., Sept. 8 (A.P.).—William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, in an address today discussed the possibility that organized labor might some day depart from its traditional nonpartisan attitude and form an independent political party.

Speaking at the convention of the State Federation of Labor shortly after the convention adopted a resolution indorsing the labor record of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Democratic presidential candidate, Mr. Green declared the A. F. of L. always had been nonpartisan.

"I don't know if at any future date the American Federation of Labor will change that policy," he said. "I believe when the time comes, if it does come, when the men and women of the great working class believe their best interests will be served by the organization of an independent political party——"

Here he was interrupted by prolonged applause.

"——they will adopt that plan," he finished.

Two Methodist Bishops Hoover Luncheon Guests

(Associated Press.)

President Hoover yesterday entertained at luncheon two bishops of the Methodist Episcopal Church. The White House guests were Edwin H. Hughes, the Methodist Episcopal Bishop resident in Washington and President of the Methodist Episcopal Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals, and Bishop W. F. McDowell, the former bishop in Washington and also former president of the board.

McDowell said there was no discussion at the luncheon that would "make news."

Robinson Urges Federal Control of Utility Rates

Hot Springs, Ark., Sept. 8 (A.P.).—Senator Joseph T. Robinson today said overcapitalization of utilities through mergers and consolidations has led to evils that must be corrected and suggested a cure through the Democratic plan calling for Federal regulation of rates of utilities operation across State lines.

The Senate Democratic leader, speaking before his party's State convention, said he would vote to resubmit the question of repeal or modification of the eighteenth amendment, criticised Treasury officials budget "mistakes," and advocated divorce of commercial banking from investment banking.

Texas Is 17th to Ratify Lame Duck Amendment

(Associated Press.)

Ratification by Texas of the "lame duck" amendment to the Federal Constitution Wednesday brought the total of States which have approved the change to seventeen.

To make the amendment effective 36 States must ratify within seven years. Meeting of many State Legislatures in January of next year may result in sufficient ratifications to put the amendment in force in 1933.

Gov. Judd Will Invite Hoover to Visit Hawaii

Honolulu, Sept. 8 (A.P.).—Gov. Lawrence M. Judd, departing for Washington Wednesday on the Matsonia, said he would invite President Hoover to visit Hawaii after the November election. He expected to discuss territorial problems with Washington officials.

The Governor planned to ask the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to allocate $450,000 for unemployment relief in Hawaii.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

VACATION RECESSIONAL.

I.

THE tumult and the shouting dies—
The bathing beauties all depart—
The all-hot unattractive lies—
No speedboats through the waters dart;
The quartettes on the beach desist—
Gone are the fishing addicts grim—
From cove and inlet now is missed
The cry, "Look mommer! I can swim!"

II.

Far-called, canoeists melt away—
On dune and headland sink the cars
Of neckers through the summer day
And petters 'neath the summer stars;
The phut-phut-phut boats now are stilled—
Back home the yacht club stewards fly—
For August's rent I now am billed—
The summer's fled * * * and so have I.

III.

The corn-on-cob no longer comes
To butter up the ears and cheeks—
The lifeguard and his brawny chums
Return to work as city sheiks;
The picnic parties are no more—
The flivver tourists flee the scene—
At last the woodlands and the shore
Look natural and nearly clean!

IV.

The shore dinner gets the gate—
Gone is the solid-rubber clam—
The morning swim's no longer great—
Its lure seems now a silly sham;
The hurdy-gurdies fade away—
The boardwalks quite abandoned are—
At anchor white yachts swing and sway—
Closed is the yacht club's furtive bar!

V.

Gone is the girl who made me feel
I was her hero grand and brown—
The lonesome evenings now reveal
I got the well known run-aroun'—
Gone are the nights of August bliss—
Gone all those yacht trips on the blue—
But what most saddens me is this—
My hard-earned suntan is gone, too!

A TOUGH ASSIGNMENT.

THERE may be any number of men who can step into Jimmy Walker's shoes, but few would have the time or energy to step into his clothes.

STILL SWIM-SUIT CONSCIOUS.

The vacation season has ended, but business offices are reporting that it will probably take another ten days before the female help seem comfortable again with clothes on.

"Heigh ho!" sighed the Office Killjoy. "The summer is over and before I know it we'll be celebrating the anniversary of the big blizzard again!"

TOO LATE!

The roses they fade
And the violets die;
The depression is over—
And so am I.

W. ROSSI.

Club Hears Tales Of "Hoosier Poet"

Cosmopolitan Group Told of Riley's Adventures by Judge Elliott.

Boyhood adventures of James Whitcomb Riley, the "Hoosier Poet," were recounted by Judge Richard Nash Elliott, Assistant Comptroller General, at yesterday's meeting of the Cosmopolitan Club at the Carlton Hotel.

Judge Elliott knew Riley intimately and described the "ole swimmin' hole" immortalized by the poet in a poem by that name. Judge Elliott said the poem was an idealistic description of a small and exceedingly muddy spot on the banks of Brandywine Creek.

Gordon Bonnette, chairman of the committee in charge of next Thursday's stag party, announced that it will be held at the Washington Country Club. Attendance prizes were won by Harry Hobart and Anton A. Auth.

Dial Flashes

By ROBERT D. HEINL.

THE broadcasting companies expect the Eastern Collegiate Association to lift the ban on radio descriptions of football games this autumn which was announced in June by Maj. Philip B. Fleming, representative of the United States Military Academy and president of the association. A meeting of the association is scheduled to be held today or tomorrow, at which time the radio decision will be reconsidered.

Representatives of the Columbia Broadcasting System, the National Broadcasting Co., and other stations plan to hold a conference with several members of the intercollegiate association prior to the association's meeting. The radio men will endeavor to prove that broadcasting does not keep the public away from the stadiums.

The "March of Time" will return to WMAL's wave length at 7:30 o'clock tonight. Realistic dramatizations of the outstanding current events will be presented.

The Presidential campaign will hold the spotlight as far as domestic affairs are concerned and "ghost" candidates will engage in a relentless struggle. President Hoover will be portrayed by Ted di Corsia, veteran actor, while Franklin D. Roosevelt will be represented by William Adams, son of a one-time Democratic leader in Ohio.

The resignation of James J. Walker as Mayor of New York will be reenacted tonight. Gov. Roosevelt's recent meeting with Gov. Cross, of Connecticut also will be dramatized.

A RADIO adaptation by William Rainey of Robert Louis Stevenson's "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" will be the Radio Guild dramatization over WRC at 3:15 o'clock this afternoon. Richard Gordon, well known as Sherlock Holmes, will portray the prominent young Dr. Jekil as well as the hideous Mr. Hyde, as revealed through his scientific experiments.

Cornelia Otis Skinner, appearing for the second time as guest of the Kodak Week-end Hour, will offer one of her original monologues, "Homework," during the broadcast (WMAL, 8 o'clock) tonight.

Mario Chamlee, tenor of the Metropolitan Opera, will begin a series of guest appearances on the WJZ-WBAL network at 7 o'clock tonight. He will be accompanied by Leonard Joy's Orchestra.

Increasing its time from fifteen minutes to a half hour, "To the Ladies" will start its fall series over WMAL at 8:30 p. m. As before, Leon Belasco will sing and conduct his orchestra, and Janet Parker, beauty expert, will be heard. New features of the program will include songs by Evan Evans, barytone, and poetry readings by David Ross.

"CACHUKA," a Spanish dance for orchestra by Muriel Pollock, pianist-composer, will be played for the first time by the Cities Service Concert Orchestra, with Miss Pollock at the piano (WRC, 7 o'clock), tonight.

Jessica Dragonette, soprano, who recently returned from vacation, and the Cavaliers Quartet, will contribute the vocal highlights.

Arthur Tracy, Street Singer of the Air, will be heard again in a group of romantic melodies during the presentation of "Music That Satisfies" over WMAL at 9 p. m. He will open the program with "Where Are You, Girl of My Dreams?" and "As You Desire Me." Nat Shilkret and the orchestra will furnish the instrumental interlude, "Just a Little Bit of Sunshine." The second group will include "Beautiful Romance," sung by Tracy, and an orchestral version of "Blue Danube," and the barytone will conclude the period with "Clouds Will Soon Roll By."

DON VOORHEES, the athletic leader of the Maxwell House Orchestra, was an orchestra director at the age of twelve. His musical education began when he was five years old. The violin came first, then piano, pipe organ and theory. At twelve he was conducting his own orchestra in Allentown, Pa.

D. M. NESBIT, 90, UNION VETERAN, DIES

Was for Some Time Oldest Living Alumnus of Bucknell U.

David Montgomery Nesbit, a resident of Prince Georges County, Md., and of Washington since 1870, died late yesterday afternoon at his home at the Parnsboro Apartments, 2129 Florida avenue northwest. He was 90 years old.

Mr. Nesbit was a veteran of the Civil War, having enlisted in the 131st Pennsylvania Volunteers upon his graduation from Bucknell University in 1862. He served with that regiment for the remainder of the war. Mr. Nesbit was for some time oldest living alumnus of Bucknell University.

During his active years he was interested in the development of suburban districts for owners of small homes and was particularly engaged for some years in originating and developing the suburbs of Mount Rainier.

He is survived by his son, Fred Thorpe Nesbit, of 2800 Ontario road northwest, and by two daughters, Mrs. Willard D. Bigelow and Mrs. Jessie N. Diggett, both of 2129 Florida avenue northwest.

Private services will be held at the residence at 7:30 today. Interment will be at Lewisburg, Pa., tomorrow.

JULIUS EGLOFF IS DEAD.

Julius Egloff, a resident of "Capitol Hill" since his arrival in this country from his native Switzerland 48 years ago, died at his residence, 118 Tennessee avenue northeast, yesterday after an illness of six months. He was 68 years old.

He was a leader among the Swiss of Washington and at the time of his death was a member of the Swiss Benevolent Society, the Gruetli Verein, the Swiss Club of Washington, a director of the American Building Association, and a trustee of Die Stauffertin. He was a Mason and a member of Arminius Lodge, Orient Commandery, Kallipolis Grotto and Almas Temple. He was in the restaurant business.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Elizabeth Margot Egloff, two sons, Julius, jr., and Edward Egloff, and a daughter Elizabeth Egloff. Funeral service will be held tomorrow afternoon at his residence at 2 o'clock with burial in Cedar Hill Cemetery.

Slide on Panama Canal Involves Large Volume

(Associated Press.)

Gov. Burgess of the Panama Canal advised the War Department yesterday that a slide on the east bank 2,500 feet north of Gold Hill, "involves a large amount of material, but the motion is slow."

"Dredges are removing the material at a satisfactory rate," Burgess said. "There is no present indication that traffic through the canal will be interfered with in any way."

N. L. Burchell Dies While Playing Golf

Stricken suddenly with a heart attack while on the golf course at Blue Ridge Summit, Pa., yesterday afternoon, N. L. Burchell, 69, prominent Washington grocer, died before aid could reach him.

Mr. Burchell went to the Pennsylvania resort on a vacation with his wife and two daughters, Leslie and Charlotte. The latter was with him when he died.

The body will be brought to Washington, and funeral services held tomorrow in St. John's Episcopal Church, Sixteenth and H streets northwest, the Rev. L. A. Shearer officiating.

ADM. C. J. BADGER, U.S.N., RETIRED, DIES

Received His Appointment to Naval Academy Through President Grant.

Rear Admiral Charles J. Badger, U. S. N., retired, of 3506 Lowell street northwest, former head of the Navy General Board, died late Wednesday at Blue Ridge Summit, Pa., according to word received here yesterday.

Admiral Badger was born in Rockville, Md., August 6, 1853. He was the son of Commodore Oscar C. Badger, U. S. N., and was appointed to the Naval Academy by President Grant in 1869. While holding the rank of lieutenant, junior grade, Admiral Badger participated in the Greeley Relief Expedition in 1884. On July 1, 1907, he attained the rank of captain, and served as superintendent of the Naval Academy from 1907 to 1909, when he was ordered to command the U. S. S. Kansas, battleship. He was promoted to the rank of rear admiral in March, 1911, and was appointed commander, Second Division, Atlantic Fleet, hoisting his flag on the U. S. S. Louisiana.

From January, 1913, to September, 1914, Admiral Badger served as commander in chief, Atlantic fleet, flagship U. S. S. Wyoming. The members of his staff while he commanded the Atlantic fleet have annually given a dinner at the Army and Navy Club, Washington, D. C., in honor of Admiral Badger on his birthday.

In September, 1914, he was appointed a member of the general board, Navy Department, and reached the statutory retirement age of 64 years on August 5, 1915. Through special provision of the naval appropriation bill of August 29, 1916, Admiral Badger remained on active duty until he was relieved at his own request February 28, 1921.

He was awarded the Distinguished Service Medal for his service during the World War. Upon his detachment from active duty, Secretary of the Navy Daniels commended Admiral Badger for his exceptionally meritorious service as chairman of the general board.

He is survived by a son, Commander Oscar C. Badger, U. S. N., executive officer of the U. S. S. Melville, destroyer tender, battle force, now stationed at San Diego, and by a daughter, Mrs. Henry F. Bryan, wife of Rear Admiral Henry F. Bryan, U. S. N., retired.

Interpreting the Mode

By DARE

A most delightful sports ensemble of wool, with interesting cut. The jacket shows a two-color collar and tie, and the skirt repeats one of the colors, as does the crepe de chine blouse beneath. (Seen in a New York shop.)

THERE were the funniest little couturier details shown at the recent collections! Just about every member of the Haute Couture had some favorite little trick and introduced it charmingly in some of their afternoon and evening clothes.

The sleeves still show the greatest amount of thought. Width has left the elbow section and gone to the upper half of the sleeve. Louiseboulanger, for instance, shows a black marocain afternoon frock with sleeves so voluminous from shoulder to elbow that they don't even puff—a regular leg o' mutton of our grandmothers' day. Lanvin, on the other hand, uses a jaunty little peplum on her sleeves, midway between shoulder and elbow, and Patou keeps sleeves width above the elbow, but getting fuller and fuller as it approaches the elbow.

The shoulders themselves come in for plenty of attention. Mainbocher likes epaulettes on his street coats, and makes them stiff and outstanding, and of some distinctly contrasting material. Augustabernard uses these velvet epaulettes on her evening gowns, but stiffens them, stands them upright, and calls them "crests!"

Evening gowns may be as lovely and daring as ever, by the way, but the decolletages, especially the front decolletages, are distinctly modified. Many gowns have a scarf of self material to tie in front and fill up any vacancy left by a low-cut bodice, and moderately low decolletages have little simulated collars that give them a day-time air.

You can't imagine a more practical, yet a more chic fall outfit! Why, the coat dress part of it, in the first place, is stylish and new. Then the three-color combination is stylish, chic, new and becoming. And lastly, the way I have figured it out for you so that there are four different dresses in one—well, I don't mind telling you that it's good. Make it yourself from my design, or turn the design over to any good dressmaker. But first, do send a stamped self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for the leaflet which gives you the design.

And then feel, oh, so very gorilicious in the dress—and tell all your friends that it is an exclusive design—which it surely will be, and one that you would pay a handful of dollars for if I didn't just luv-v-v-ve my deah publik, and let 'em have a Dah-ray design for nothing more than a stamp. Hurry!

* * * *

A separate skirt in another color, and then the jacket, oddly collared in two colors—that's new and chic and practical, too.

The sports ensemble I sketched for you today shows you this—and do note the odd two-collar effect that slips under the belt. Maybe it's one of those American designs we hear so much about these days, yes?

Any ideas for leaflets you would like us to make? Send 'em on!

Au revoir.

How to Be Beautiful

By ELSIE PIERCE

PERHAPS you have envied the figures of many of the film favorites. Perhaps you have wondered how in the world they did it. Yesterday I told you how they exercise to keep in trim. Today let me divulge some of their diet secrets.

There's one thing I learned while in Hollywood, about diet, I mean, and about the stars. As in everything else, they are very sensible about their food. Very few starve themselves, particularly when working on a production. Food is fuel for strength and they need plenty of that to keep well while working, for motion picture work is far more strenuous than many of us imagine.

Most of the stars have studied themselves and their diets scientifically, and know just what foods to "taboo."

Virginia Bruce feels that potatoes and bread are the most fattening for her, so she eliminates these. She also subatitutes grape fruit for orange juice feeling that orange juice is one-quarter sugar.

Joan Crawford avoids potatoes, bread and candy. Can you imagine Joan anything but slim and gorgeous? If eliminating these foods is responsible for her beautiful figure, well, what do you say we do it, all of us?

Except, of course, those of us who actually need to gain weight (count me out, I'm not in your class), Claudette Colbert is. She tries to gain weight constantly. Yet her diet consists mainly of fruits and vegetables, and this should interest you, plenty of milk. Rich foods are avoided, however. Jeanette McDonald is very slim too. Her face, almost too thin for pictures. As a matter of fact, she doesn't need to diet, she drinks a great deal of milk in an effort to gain. She likes milk, fortunately for her, but doesn't like rich pastries or desserts. Wise, this lovely lady.

And Carole Lombard eliminates pastries and potatoes, never takes more than three courses at a single meal, and has spinach for lunch every day.

Lilyan Tashman, who is naturally slender and really has no diet problem, never mixes proteins and starches.

And Miriam Hopkins taboos all fried foods. Asked how she keeps slender she answered, "Live sensibly, never overeat, oversleep or oversit." That's about the best reducing advice anyone could give. Next to overeating, oversitting is just about the worst way to destroy a lovely figure. The fact is, I don't know which is worse, overeating or oversitting.

Want a general well-balanced diet? Send self-addressed, stamped envelope. Or, if you need to reduce of gain weight, a stamped, return envelope with your request will bring you the desired information.

Elsie Pierce, famous beauty lecturer, will answer any questions on beauty you wish to ask her. Address Miss Pierce, in care of The Washington Post, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Uncle Sam's Home Hints

JUST BREAD CRUMBS.

(Bureau of Home Economics.)

Bread has the same food value, whether you eat it in a sandwich, a stuffing, or a bread crumb dessert. Consequently bread crumbs are a valuable aid to an economical and attractive menu, and help relieve the monotony of many meals. Every housewife knows that stuffing a chicken or a boned shoulder of lamb makes the meat go farther. Many times an extra dish of bread stuffing is baked alongside of the roast and basted with drippings from it. A lamb shoulder or a roasting chicken will take from two to three cups of bread crumbs for the stuffing.

In general there are two kinds of bread crumbs—soft, fluffy ones from the center of a 2-day-old loaf, for stuffings and scalloped dishes, and fine dry crumbs from odds and ends of bread, even crusts if they are not too brown, which have been grated or put through the meat grinder and sifted. When a recipe calls for buttered crumbs of either kind, melt the butter in a small pan and stir the crumbs about in it until they are well coated. Soft crumbs are generally used up at once after they have been pulled apart with the tips of the fingers. Fine dry crumbs can be stored, but never in an air-tight container. Cover the jar or tin with a punctured lid or tie a piece of cheese-cloth over it, or keep the crumbs in a cheese-cloth bag.

Here are some ways of using bread crumbs, suggested by the Bureau of Home Economics of the United States Department of Agriculture:

Use soft crumbs for scalloped dishes calling for alternate layers of meat or fish or vegetables and buttered crumbs. In sweet scalloped dishes, such as apple, rhubarb or peach betty, quick blueberry pudding or bread pudding, use lightly buttered soft crumbs, with sugar and a little spice for seasoning. On top of the dish put a sprinkling of fine dry buttered crumbs. Soft crumbs are also used to mix with brown sugar and cider for coating a ham.

For coating croquettes, eggplant, chops and other foods cooked in deep fat, do not use crumbs made from crusts of bread. Use fine dry sifted crumbs from the center of the loaf. Finish foods with an egg-and-crumb coating some hours before the food is to be fried, to give the coating a chance to harden.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

TREATING THE "MONKEYS."

IN THE treatment of delirium tremens Dr. Donald Gregg, a physician of long experience, holds that it is wrong practice to give bromides, chloral, morphine or other sedatives. These old standbys do more harm than good except in a few cases, in his opinion. Strapping the alcoholic to his bed is another harmful procedure, except in rare instances. The man with delirium tremens has been running on his reserve for hours, or days, and he is about burned out when he comes in hand for treatment. If he is strapped down he pulls, tugs and fights back, and thus further depletes his savings bank store of vitality. In this opinion he is in accord with all those who have used sedatives for the purpose of control.

Dr. Gregg uses warm baths and sprays for the purpose of soothing and quieting, claiming these methods to be calming enough for the purpose. Probably physicians who are taking care of drunks in private practice and who have no hydrotherapy equipment available will have to content themselves with such aid as they can get from the use of the bathroom facilities of the home, and, if necessary, supplement it with sedatives.

It is all important, Dr. Gregg thinks, to get the patient to eat. He has his patients start with a lump of sugar. If the stomach retains this he tries some other sweet and probably a frozen ice. The average family practitioner agrees with that in principle, though he generally starts with a glass of milk, a cup of bouillion, or some clear soup. The soak might be glad to try a lump of sugar or a piece of candy as a starter. Most of them know very well that they will not sober up unless they can get their stomachs to retain food. Many of them realize it is eat or die.

The principal suggestion of Dr. Gregg is not in accord, in theory or in practice with the general belief. It is that the symptoms of alcoholism are principally those of acidosis. The breath is sweetish, the face is flushed and the restlessness and other nervous symptoms are those often noted in one kind of the group of symptoms that goes by the name of acidosis.

He thinks that what is called drug hunger—in this case, craving for alcohol—is really acidosis. Therefore he has his patients take some form of alkali—one that the stomach is apt to reject—and repeat it until the urine is strongly alkaline. Tempting the stomach with fruit juices belongs in the same plan of treatment.

In Massachusetts institutions, where drunks are treated in this way, there have been no D. T. deaths in several years. Not so in institutions where "monkey" patients are strapped and given sedatives to keep them quiet while the system throws off the poison.

Dr. Gregg holds the same view as to morphine hunger. It, too, is an acidosis rather than a true hunger. When the drug is being withdrawn from an addict Dr. Gregg uses hydrotherapy and violet light as sedatives. Meanwhile he gives alkalis to combat acidosis since, in both alcohol and morphine intoxication, the acidosis which develops is of the hunger acidosis type. Dieting the stomach to work and stimulating digestion and absorption of foods are important considerations.

STAND MORE ERECT.

N. T. writes: I am a male, 20 years old, 5 feet 8 inches, and weigh 165 pounds. I am thick-set. What particular set of exercises should I concentrate on to grow taller?

REPLY.

Nothing you can do will increase your natural height. By standing straight you will appear a little taller, in fact, will stand taller. Carrying a bucket of water on the head is the best exercise for the purpose.

TROUBLE WITH HEART.

Mrs. M. B. writes: What does the term hypertensive cardiac mean?

REPLY.

A combination of arteriosclerosis, commonly called high blood pressure, and organic heart disease.

BLOOD AND PARENTAGE.

M. B. C. writes: Do you believe that it is possible to establish the identity of a child by blood examination of child and parent?

REPLY.

No. It may be possible to establish that the two are in the same blood group, but that is a long way from establishing the relationship of father and child.

TRAINING IS NEEDED.

E. A. writes: I am 20 years old. During the last half year I have been extremely nervous. I argue awfully with my mother, but I know I should not. I say things and cry as though something really awful had happened, and it hurts me deeply after it is all over. I do not want to be this way and I certainly do not want to aggravate my mother. I know better, and yet I can not control myself.

REPLY.

Your emotions are untrained and you go on emotional drunks. You need training in emotional control. That is 90 per cent of your problem. Outside help may supply the remaining ten.

Culbertson on Bridge

WHEN NOT TO BID.

ALLOW me to touch on a subject which may, outwardly, seem a contradiction to most of my previous preachings. The Approach-Forcing System has always advocated considerable aggressiveness in bidding, whenever possible and whenever your hand merits it; but what I am anxious to bring up is the way in which this privilege is abused. I have found that 90 per cent of the time that any two fine players fail to reach a game or Slam that is in the hands for them, it is due to some doubtful bid that has been made by either one of them earlier in the contracting, which, because of the fact that it has been made, ties the hands of the offender and inhibits him from giving his partner any future chance on the hand.

I have remarked many times in the past, and not entirely facetiously, on the "never pass" principle; but this, of course, must be taken with a grain of salt. Many instances come to my mind. Suppose your partner has opened the bidding with one spade, the next hand bids two hearts, and you have in your hand:

Spades, Q 5 4 Hearts, 7 6
Diamonds, K J 9 2 Clubs, Q J 8 3

I have received dozens of letters asking what the proper bid is on this and similar hands. I answer, without hesitation, "Pass." Unless your partner can find a free Rebid, there is no game in the hand for you. If you should bid two notrump without a heart stop, and your partner bids three notrump, you will probably go down, whereas there may be a spade game for you, but you have tied your own hands. Should you force the bidding to three-odd by bidding one of your weak minor suits, your partner may either pass and leave you in a bad contract or raise your minor suit to four, again tying your hands, as four spades or three notrump may be the proper place to play the hand. If you bid two spades, partner may bid four, whereas, three notrump might be the proper spot. However, if you pass and your partner bids two spades, you can take him to game in spades; if he bids two notrump you can bid three notrump. If he, in turn, bids one of the minors, you can certainly support either one of them. Thus, by passing this doubtful holding the first time, despite the fact that you hold over 1½ honor-tricks, you are giving yourself full rein to make any further bids and help yourself and your partner reach the proper declaration.

There is another situation which I would touch upon briefly. East has opened the bidding with one spade; he is vulnerable. You, South, are second man, not vulnerable, and hold the following hand:

Spades, K Q 9 8 Hearts, A Q 2
Diamonds, A J 9 5 Clubs, K 7

Here is another time where a pass would be the best bid possible, but for a different reason. If you double for a Takeout, the chances are about 100 to 1 that your partner will not leave you in, which is as it should be; if you bid two diamonds, the enemy is automatically rescued from the self-laid trap. What have you to lose by passing? A set of 300 or more seems assured. Should your partner have sufficient strength to produce a game for you, the set might conceivably be as much as 500 or 700. In either event, the set would be greater than you could possibly score as a nonvulnerable Declarer. In addition, if you pass, the opponents may get even higher, and get into further trouble, but even in the worst possible case, if East's one spade bid should be passed all around, you will still probably get a better result than you would have, had you bid.

Tomorrow's Hand.

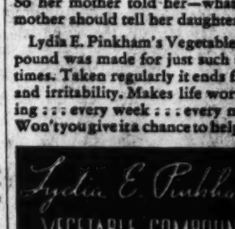
South—Dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.



Study the hand, decide how you would bid and play it, and then compare the results you obtain with those shown in tomorrow's article.

(Copyright, 1932.)

QUESTIONS ANSWERED.

Mr. Culbertson will be glad to answer questions on bidding and play of hands sent in by readers. Address him in care of The Washington Post, inclosing a 3-cent stamped, self-addressed envelope.

What Today Means to You

"VIRGO."

IF September 9 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 7:15 a. m. to 9:10 a. m., from 1 p. m. to 3 p. m. and from 8 p. m. to 10 p. m. The unfavorable hours are from 10 a. m. to 12:30 p. m. and from 5 p. m. to 7 p. m.

The stars fortell for September 9 a day full of little difficulties and worrying perplexities. It will be one of those trying days when nothing will seem to go right, and everything will be at sixes and sevens. Routine work only should be done and no effort made along new ideas, or changes of a drastic nature, effected. Above all, a due sense of values should be maintained.

Children born on this September 9 will be more studious than playful; more serious than childish. In their mature years they will be reserved, possess a stock of valuable information and yet be unable to capitalize it to their practical advantage. Long on theory, short on practice. Their dispositions will be rather morose.

Born on September 9, you are, if clever enough to restrain susceptibility and to curb infatuation, destined to be successful in life, gifted as you are with a keen intellect and an exceptionally retentive memory. The stars denote that you, however, are strongly attracted by the opposite sex, and this may be yours undoing, if you allow the appeal of your emotions and impulses to deaden the warnings of reason.

In all matters that are not related to love, you analyse things closely, question motives carefully, and weigh consequences judicially. Not only of yourself, but of others, you are unduly critical, and forget that an ounce of encouragement does more good in many instances than a pound of fault-finding.

If a woman, you always display excellent taste in dress and home. You have a place for everything, and like to see everything in its place. You, however, lack that confidence in others to do work efficiently, thereby forcing yourself to do more than your fair share. You have a tendency to "nag." If a man, you are not initiative and your success in business—if you achieve it—will be attributable to steady, industrious persistency. You are invariably self-possessed and self-reliant; adaptable to environment. An unsatisfactory husband, albeit a good father.

Successful people born on September 9:

Eleazar Lord, financier.
William Cranch Bond, astronomer.
Alfred Lee, first P. E. Bishop of Delaware.
Joseph Leidy, physician.
Elliot Coues, scientist.
Maurice Thompson, author.

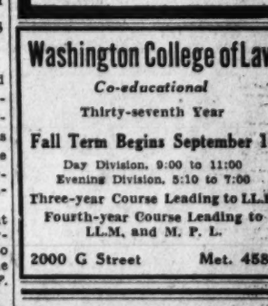
HER MOTHER TOLD HER



EVERY month it was the same story. Headaches and backaches. Jumpy nerves. Always tired out by mid-day.

She hated to talk about her trouble. She tried to hide it. But you can't hide things like that from a mother. So her mother told her—what every mother should tell her daughter.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was made for just such trying times. Taken regularly it ends fatigue and irritability. Makes life worth living . . . every week . . . every month. Won't you give it a chance to help you?

Persia Thanked for Aid To 3 Kidnaped Consuls

(Associated Press.)

The State Department instructed Charles C. Hart, its Minister at Teheran, yesterday to thank the Persian government for the promptness with which it sent soldiers to the rescue of the three kidnaped American consuls the night of September 1.

At the same time the department asked the minister to request Persian officials to make every effort to recover valuables stolen from the three, Robert B. Streeper, Cyril L. F. Thiel and Thomas A. Hickok.

TOM MIX WINS PART CUSTODY OF CHILD

Los Angeles, Sept. 8 (A.P.).—The troubles of Tom Mix, cowboy film star, and his former wife, over the custody of their 10-year-old daughter, Thomasina, were ironed out today by an unexpected agreement in the midst of court proceedings.

Shortly after Superior Judge Clement Shinn had taken the child into his chambers for a "private talk," attorneys for the couple said an agreement had been reached by which each would share custody of Thomasina.

The mother, now married to Manuel de Olazabal, Argentine Consul at San Francisco, and father agreed that Mix shall have custody of the child for two consecutive months each summer and on alternate holidays, the mother caring for her at other times and placing her in a day school for education.

The agreement was an amendment to the divorce decree under which the mother had been given custody. Mix asked for full custody, saying he believed he could provide better care for her.

Mrs. Olazabal denied the assertion.

13 German Reds Sentenced.

Beuthen, Germany, Sept. 8 (A.P.).—Thirteen Communists, the alleged ringleaders of recent clashes with police at Rokittnitz after the dole had been cut, were sentenced from 6 to 24 months in jail yesterday.

4 Youths Rescued From Chesapeake

Rudderless Craft Tosses About All Night in Rough Water.

Baltimore, Sept. 8 (A.P.).—Three 18-year-old Cleveland youths and their host, a Baltimore boy of 16, were rescued early today from the Chesapeake Bay after being tossed about all night in their rudderless craft. The boys were James Fisher, Woolford Beck and Antone Kinkopf, all of Cleveland, and Larry Van Dusen, of Baltimore.

They set out yesterday on a fishing expedition on a 45-foot cruiser belonging to Van Dusen's father, Charles A. Van Dusen. When the rudder became disabled in the rough water, they tried frantically to repair it without success.

Night fell and they anchored their boat, in the meantime starting a blinker light at the masthead. No vessels spied the light until early today when the steamer City of Norfolk came by and took them aboard.

Chronic Pain in Hand Inconveniences Gandhi

Bombay, Sept. 8 (U.P.).—The Mahatma Gandhi has had to change his writing and spinning habits because of a chronic pain in his right hand, it was learned today.

(Associated Press.)

Secretary Hurley, who expected to leave by airplane yesterday afternoon for Tulsa, Okla., on his way to the national convention of the American Legion at Portland, Oreg., postponed his departure until early today. He will return to Washington from Portland by airplane, making a stop at Huron, S. Dak., on September 15 to deliver a political address.

Colorado Appointment Postponed.

Denver, Colo., Sept. 8 (A.P.).—Appointment of a senator to fill the vacancy caused by the death of U. S. Senator Charles W. Waterman (Republican) probably will not be made until after the primary elections next Tuesday, Gov. W. H. Adams (Democrat) indicated today. Walter Walker, Democratic State chairman, and L. C. Paddock, Boulder, Colo., publisher, have been mentioned for the appointment.

PEACOCK WINS DISTRICT GOLF TITLE BY 10 STROKES

This Morning with Shirley L. Povich

A PEEK into history justifies the boosting of the odds on the Yankees to beat whomever they meet in the world series, now that Babe Ruth's illness has given the club a good start toward a casualty list.

This department remembers the eve of the world series in 1928 when the Yankees had more cripples than sound members. The Cardinals were top-heavy favorites to win the series what with Herb Pennock and Wilcey Moore definitely out of the Yankee line-up; Earl Combs a doubtful starter, Ruth limping on one leg, Joe Dugan favoring his knee and Mark Koenig and Tony Lazzeri nursing sore arms.

It seemed shameful to send such a crew against the Cardinals, but, myomy, what a lot of sympathy was wasted on those Yankees. Those cripples merely went out and cleaned up the Cards in four straight games, acting as crippled as the winner of the Olympic decathlon. If they had had their health, the Cards probably would not have come out of their corner for the fourth game.

Ruth Holds Injury Record

Along with his home run record, Ruth also holds the championship as the most injured man in baseball. Our friend, the Associated Press, has compiled the following chronological list of the ailments that has laid the Bambino low since he joined the Yankees. It reads like the hospital chart of an incurable who has dedicated his body for the advancement of medical science:

June 24, 1925—Again forced out of line-up from swollen legs and ankles due to overexertion.

Yankees Virtually Home.

The Yankees can play .222 baseball for the remainder of the season and win the American League pennant as a result of yesterday's developments which saw the Athletics lose while the New York club beat Detroit.

Only four more victories in their eighteen remaining games are required by the Yankees to make their conquest mathematically certain. To draw the picture finer, both the Athletics and the Nats will remove themselves definitely from the picture if they lose four more games, Philadelphia with fifteen to play and Washington with nineteen.

In the National League, the Cubs with a 5½ game margin over the

By GAYLE TALBOT.

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Sept. 8 (A. P.).—Ellsworth Vines, jr., Henri Cochet, Wilmer Allison and Clifford Sutter—three of the world's ranking players and a collegian—today battered their windy way into the semifinals of the national tennis championships.

Vines, 20-year-old defending champion from Pasadena, turned back the challenge of Lester Stoefen, towering Los Angeles star, 6—3, 7—5, 6—4, in a match that saw the champion play daring, almost reckless tennis, winning or losing points on a stroke and refusing to engage in tiring rallies.

Cochet, France's tennis master and the man Vines probably will have to beat if he retains his title, rode out a wind that at times reached gale proportions to whip big Frank Shields, of New York, 4—6, 6—3, 6—4, 6—0. Shields was no soft touch for the wily Cochet, winning the first set brilliantly and putting up a stiff fight in the next two, but he faltered and finally folded entirely in the last.

Allison Stops Wood.

Allison, of Austin, Tex., and near hero of the recent Davis Cup festivities at Paris, came from behind with a steady brand of tennis to cut short the comeback of Sidney Wood, jr., of New York, 5—7, 6—3, 6—2, 6—4.

Sutter, national intercollegiate champion from Tulane University, New Orleans, crushed the veteran George Lott, jr., of Chicago, 10—8, 6—0, 6—0, in a dazzling exhibition.

All of today's matches were marred by a cold wind that brought most of the 10,000-odd spectators out in overcoats and blankets and at times made a farce of the play. Freezing gusts whirled down from the big stadium, whipping the balls every which way and bringing in its wake straw hats, newspapers and anything not tied down.

Cochet broke down Shields' last resistance and made his easy victory possible in the final set when he won the crucial third. If Shields had won that, he might have gone on to take the match. It went to 4-all, with games following service, and Shields was playing the game of his life, but Henri applied the pressure at the right moment, broke the American's serve in the ninth game and it was over.

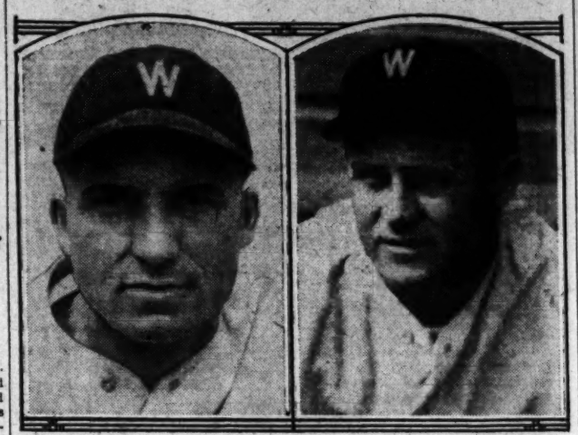
Weaver Beats Browns, 3-1, As Nats Cut Lead of Macks



Monte Weaver (left), first Washington rookie in history to win 20 games in his first year in the big leagues, and Carl Reynolds, whose four hits helped Weaver to gain a 3-1 decision yesterday.

Renynolds' 4 Hits Aid Rookie to Register 20th Victory.

Special to The Washington Post.

SPORTSMAN'S PARK, St. Louis, Sept. 8.—With Monte Weaver pitching four-hit ball while Carl Reynolds was going on a hitting spree at the expense of Lefty Walter Stewart, it was a very simple matter for the Nationals to defeat the St. Louis Browns here today, 3 to 1. It was the twentieth triumph of his first major league season for Weaver and, coupled with a Mackian loss to the Indians, enabled the Washington Club to cut down the Philadelphians' second-place margin to two games.

While Weaver has the reputation for being a lucky pitcher, he did not need any smiles from fickle Dame Fortune to win today, for he pitched one of his best games. But for an error by Johnny Kerr, the Browns would have been whitewashed and, except for this second frame, not a home player was able to reach third while only two others got as far as second. Weaver walked three and fanned six and no two of the hits he allowed came in the same round.

While Weaver was making all of the Browns except Goose Goslin look like the rookiest of rookies at bat, Carl Reynolds was doing his bit for the Washington cause. He cracked out four hits in as many times at

RUTH'S CASE REQUIRES REST

Need of Operation to Be Known After 24 Hours.

By EDWARD J. NEIL.

NEW YORK, Sept. 8 (A.P.).—Frightened and in considerable pain, Babe Ruth came hurrying home from the West today to find that there is something wrong with his appendix but probably nothing severe enough to require an immediate operation.

Visions of another trip to the hospitals he has tenanted frequently through the past half-dozen years, and the blasting of the goal of his baseball dreams, participation in his tenth world series, haunted baseball's greatest slugger as he groaned his way East on an express train today.

His fears were allayed, but not entirely dissipated by Dr. Edward A. King, Ruth's personal physician, as soon as the Yankee club doctor could make an examination of his famous patient at the Babe's home this afternoon.

Ruth has "slight symptoms of appendicitis," Dr. King said after a

CUBS DIVIDE BILL WITH BRAVES

Gain Half Game on Pirates; Win, 4-1, and Lose, 3-2.

BOSTON, Sept. 8 (A.P.).—The pace-making Chicago Cubs added a half game to their lead today by dividing a double-header with the Braves while Pittsburgh was losing to Brooklyn. Chicago won the first game, 4 to 1, behind Charley Root, and Bob Brown pitched the Braves to a 3-to-2 victory in the second.

One big inning decided the first game, and one swat, Wally Berger's sixteenth homer of the season, was almost enough to give the Braves the second decision.

The Cubs collected only three hits off Ed Brandt in the first seven innings of the opener, but they broke loose in the eighth with five blows and scored all their runs. Triples by Hartnett and Cuyler and singles by Jurges, Herman and English furnished the Chicago runs, Cuyler's three-bagger driving in the last two.

Chattanooga May Lose Pennant By a Point Due to League Vote

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Sept. 8.—A league vote denying Chattanooga permission to replay a game with Knoxville which was halted by darkness with the score tied may cost the Chattanooga club the Southern Association pennant by a single point.

League President John D. Martin ruled that the Chattanooga and Knoxville clubs could replay the game, but he was overruled by a vote of the league directors with Nashville, Atlanta, New Orleans, Memphis and Little Rock aligned against him. Chattanooga, Knoxville and Birmingham voted for the replay.

Chattanooga and Memphis both won today, the former still holding the lead by a few percentage points. Chattanooga has two games remaining on the schedule with three facing Memphis. If both clubs win their remaining games, Chattanooga will lose the pennant by a single point by virtue of having played one less game than Memphis.

Szabo Drops Romano to Defeat

Middlekauff Victim of Munn; Caddock Beats Nelson.

A SERIES of interesting bouts, featuring Sandor Szabo and Mike Romano in particular and several others with unpronouncable names in general, last night closed the weekly cauliflower exhibitions on the Bolling Field mat. Szabo, of course, was the winner, much to the delight of the capacity crowd who did not seem to take kindly to the wares shown by "Hot Cha" Romano.

For a while it looked as though the union rules would be waived and the cash customer kept until after 11 o'clock, for, after Szabo had won the first fall on a series of back drops in 19 minutes, it was then 8¼ minutes before the usual closing hour. Just as the clock struck, though, Szabo again won on another series of back drops, thus saving the promoters from having to pay for overtime work.

Referee Chollie Swan was a little quick on the trigger in ruling on the first fall of the feature, for Romano's shoulders barely touched the mat when he was declared the loser, but it was not necessary for the referee to help Szabo any in the second and decisive fall, his opponent laying on the mat fully two minutes after hostilities ended.

Middlekauff Victim of Munn.

All of the other bouts held the fans' interest, especially the semifinal which brought Bill Middlekauff against Glenn Munn. The former, one of the worst when he tried to be a boxer, rates little higher as a rassler, but he kept Munn quite busy before succumbing on a scissors hold after 13 minutes of scowling, grunting and some little work.

Old Tiger Nelson more than met his match in Babe Caddock. Showing his usual roughness, he was about holding his own when he was chased out of the ring. While standing outside the ropes making a speech, his opponent calmly grabbed him by the neck and brought him over the ropes and down and out with a flying mare. Time, 18 minutes.

In the other bouts, Luigi Bacigalupi downed Mihaly Orgavany with a flying tackle in 21 minutes, while Steve Znoski and Vanka Zelesniak drew after 30 minutes of more or less fast work.

While the mat curtain has been rung down at Bolling, Messrs. Bertalino and Ahearn announce that they plan to have weekly ear-scrambling fetes in a downtown site yet to be announced starting Tuesday, September 20.

As District Golf Crown Passed

Roger Peacock (left), 21-year-old winner of the District amateur golf title, being congratulated by Harry Pitt, who lost the championship he gained last year.

Youthful Star Holds Lead To Finish

Peacock Adds Rounds of 75 and 79; McCarthy Third.

By DAVE HERMAN.

ROGER PEACOCK'S dream of boyhood days—the days when as a kid of 9 he would dig into his father's golf bag and shoot at the greens of Indian Spring from his back yard, much in the same fashion as Bobby Jones when the Georgian first learned the game—became a reality yesterday at Chevy Chase.

The 21-year-old youngster from Indian Spring, who carefully studies every shot he makes, won his first major victory—the District championship.

Roger whipped through the 72-hole grind for a grand total of 299. At the conclusion of 36 holes Wednesday, he had outdistanced a field of 43 by seven strokes. Late yesterday afternoon he strode to the golf shop with his margin boosted to ten.

It was a glorious day for Roger Sylvester Peacock, who was born on April's Fool day. Not only had he defeated his foremost rival and snatched the crown from the head of Harry Pitt, of Manor—the man who had beaten him out for the title by two strokes in 1931 at Burning Tree—but had added luster to his shining achievement by turning in the best rounds since the reign of George Voigt. Voigt blazed home at Indian Spring in 1926 with a 291 to beat off the challenge of Miller Stevinson, and followed with a smashing 292 the following season at Burning Tree.

Peacock's four rounds showed 72—73—75—79. He was the only player to stay in the seventies throughout the two-day competition. The carefree Pitt, still wild as a March hare with his tee shots, came through with 80—74—78—77—309.

Beaver Dam's hope, Martin F. McCarthy, who packs a terrific wallop in his driver, injected a bit of drama into the proceedings when he sank an 8-foot putt on the eighteenth hole of the afternoon to nose out Johnny Shorey, of Manor, for third place by one stroke. Mac, clicking off the best total for the final 32 holes, 153, wound up with scores of 77—82—78—75—312.

Grove and Macks Beaten by Indians

Brown Outpitches Athletic Ace to Win Series Opener, 2-1.

Cleveland, Sept. 8 (A.P.).—Lefty Grove, seeking his twenty-third victory of the season, was outpitched by Clint Brown today and Cleveland won the series opener from Philadelphia, 2 to 1.

Grove scored the only run for the Athletics, who were held to four hits, in the sixth, when his single got away from Averill and he went to third. Bishop's fly brought him home.

Brooklyn, Sept. 8 (A.P.).—Earle Grace, Pittsburgh Pirates' catcher, made his first error of the season today after having accepted 444 chances without a misplay. The error stopped Grace after he had set a new major league record for catchers.

The old mark was established by Ray Hayworth, of Detroit, who handled 432 chances before he made his first error August 29.

HOT SHOT, 11 TO 1, LEADS FROM START AT LINCOLN FIELDS

Scream Beats Vishnu for Second

LINCOLN FIELDS, Race Track, Chicago, Ill., Sept. 8 (A.P.).—Vishnu from the Nevada Stock Farm and the public choice went down in defeat today in the Galewood Purse, the top race at Lincoln Fields. C. E. Davidson's Hot Shot scored in the feature and made every post a winner. Scream, a longshot, nosed out Vishnu for the place.

Jockey E. Arcaro rode Hot Shot. Vishnu, in close pursuit of the Crusader, could not get up and in the final jumps to the wire, weakened and lost the place by a narrow margin in the 6-furlong event. Vishnu went to the post 3 to 5.

Hot Shot paid $23.70 to win, $9.02 to place and $4.20 to show.

Pilots Bow, 13-3, To Black Yankees

The New York Black Yankees, with Rector hurling, played the Washington Pilots into submission, 13-3, last night at the Griffith Stadium in an East-West Colored League game, tieing the score, 2-all, in the fourth, taking the lead with 2 more in the sixth and 2 in the seventh, and then staging an eighth-inning rally with two down, to net an additional six runs.

The Yankees will meet the Pilots again tonight at the stadium at 8:30 o'clock.

JOE AND ASBESTOS (Watch Sunday's Post for New Secret Code) —By Ken Kling

Seths Ballot was scratched for the seventh time yesterday awaiting mud. Today, Asbestos plays one that has never won in its life and hopes it's not scratched. Joe's horse, On Trial, failed to place. Asbestos' roll is $26.68 and Joe's is $139.25.

AT THE POST

with Bill Bennings

DEAR AL: LINCOLN FIELDS, CHICAGO, SEPT. 8.

Coming in on the last special tonight I ran into "Kaintucky Joe," commonly called "Spade," because no deck ever held a spade half as black. Joe was a stable boy in the fall of '72 and can tell you how many oats there are in a peck—but he confessed he couldn't figure winners at Chicago. As he expressed it, "he had lost his reproach and couldn't get any purchase of himself."

When I went into the Sherman House barber shop for my nightly shave, Smitty did not even ask the winner of the last race. Inquiry developed the fact that he had tried four different systems in four days and had not located a winner and, too, had come near clipping a customer's ear off, when the "Sunshade System," which he had discarded, called for a play on Hot Shot. When the winner was announced the shock was too much for him as his last two kopecks were on Vishnu. Yours,

BILL.

FIRST RACE—Here we are with a bunch of maiden fillies, meaning trouble always. I would like to ask you to do your own guessing, but if you pass the buck, WEE B., ALMA S. and WILY GIRL may finish in the money.

SECOND RACE—ISLAM seems the best bet of the day. WEE DROP and JOHN MILL for rest of the purse.

THIRD RACE—BALLYHOO, with Wright up, may grab this at a long price. CURMUDGEON and LUCKY JACK for the balance.

FOURTH RACE—OLD HILLSIDE seems a standout. The rest do not amount to much. STINGER and SWEEPERMAN seem the best.

FIFTH RACE—HYGRO stands out like a sore thumb. SUPREME SWEET and SISKIN may get what's left.

SEVENTH RACE—If STAR LASSIE has her mind on her business, she may get home at a juicy price. TOTEM and COME ON figure to be in the money.

EIGHTH RACE—Any one of these "beetles" has a right to win. DON TASKER may go to the front and stay there. OUTCRY and PLUTARCH may get their numbers hung up. None of the bunch figure to go the mile and a quarter route.

Stocks Stage Swift Decline On Commodity Price Drop

Average 2.7-Point Loss Recorded in Sale of 5,392,040 Shares.

New York, Sept. 8 (A.P.).—A swift decline in cotton futures, representing net losses of about $5 a bale, brought heavy offerings into the stock market today and share values were pared down, in some instances rather generously.

Although selling was at a brisk pace at times during the afternoon, swelling the turnover to 5,392,040 shares, or the second largest volume this year, declines were insufficient to cancel yesterday's average gain. The net loss of 90 issues was 2.7 against Wednesday's rise of 3.2.

Until the Government's crop report, estimating a larger production than had been expected on the basis of private forecasts, set cotton futures tumbling, stocks had been able to work irregularly higher, thanks to bullish demonstrations in rails, foods and whatever other issues proved responsive. The opening was extremely active, blocks of 1,000 to 5,000 shares being plentiful—some were even larger—but the advance was moderate in proportion to the activity and it looked as though substantial selling orders were being executed.

The close relationship between cotton and share prices, recently so much in evidence, was clearly demonstrated when that staple began its slide after publication of the crop figures. Although bulls were still intent to fight the dip whenever they saw opportunity, their efforts were of little avail against the dominant downward trend. U. S. Steel lost more than 3 points, Bethlehem more than 4; Allied Chemical, American Telephone, Case, Du Pont, Union Carbide, Westinghouse, North American, Consolidated Gas, Western Union and United Aircraft 2 to 3, and a large number at least a point.

Stocks.

A swift decine of 2.7 points followed slumps in commodity prices. Sales mounted to 5,392,040 shares, the second heaviest turnover of the year.

Bonds.

Traders were inclined to mark time as other exchanges reported losses, but a gain of one-tenth finally resulted in sales of $11,386,000.

Curb.

Heavy profit taking slowed down bullish activities, leaving the curb with small losses in a 660,000-share sale.

Wheat.

Values dropped about 1 cent per bushel in wheat on other market losses and heavy rural deliveries in Canada. Corn and oats were down.

Cotton.

A break of more than $6 per bale followed the Government crop estimate of 11,310,000 bales, an excess of 4,000 above expectations. Losses ranged from 97 to 104 points. December closed at 8.05.

FOREIGN MARKETS.

(Associated Press.)

London—The stock exchange opened with a burst of strength following overnight advices from Wall street. An irregular tendency developed around midday on profit-taking. Later because of firm reports from the continental bourses gains were again renewed until a slackening tendency was apparent at the closing. Gilteedged securities were quiet and steady and Argentine rails were buoyant. Paris—Prices on the bourse completely recovered from its decline of yesterday on the better tone in Wall street, numerous groups recuperating yesterday's losses. Trading was active in rentes, bank stocks, chemical issues, metal and international shares. The closing was calmer, but well orientated.

Berlin—Traders were confident on the bourse and prices moved upward generally. The closing was firm.

CURB GAINS HALTED BY PROFIT SELLING

Final Losses Held to Point or Less in Turnover of 660,000 Shares.

New York, Sept. 8 (A.P.).—With trading volume reaching 660,000 shares, 10 per cent higher than yesterday, the curb market wavered today under steady profit taking, which developed into something of a rout for some of the more active issues as the session closed.

The extreme weakness of cotton, following publication of the latest Government crop report, and the reaction of stocks on the big board brought selling into the junior market. Losses in a majority of stocks were confined to a point or less, but some of the recent speculative favorites suffered breaks of as much as 7 points.

Aluminum Co., which recently touched a new 1932 high at 90, gave way 7¾ points to close at 77¼. The utility stocks as a rule, however, showed a firm undertone. Deere yielded a point and Newmont Mining was down 2. The Swift stocks were fractionally lower. Parker Rustproof was an exception to the main trend, running up more than 6 points on relatively small turnover.

Prices of 784 Commodities Climb Again During Week

(Associated Press.)

Wholesale prices of 784 commodities increased again in the week ended September 3.

The Bureau of Labor statistics, taking the average wholesale prices in 1926 as 100, found that for the week ended September 3 the index was 65.5. This was three-tenths of a point higher than the week before, and marked a continuation of a gradual increase that officials said began early in June.

The report showed that farm products increased nine-tenths of a point to 50.4. Foods remained steady at 61.6, fuel and lighting dropped five-tenths of a point to 72.2 and house furnishings one-tenth of a point to 74.8.

Western Auto Supply Sales Up 5.3 Per Cent

Kansas City, Sept. 8 (A.P.).—The Western Auto Suppy Co. today reported August sales totaling $1,336,800, an increase of nearly 7 per cent over July and 5.3 per cent over August, 1931.

Sales for the first eight months of the year were $7,391,000, a decrease of 10.9 per cent compared with the corresponding period of last year.

BONDS RECORD RISE OF ONE-TENTH POINT

Traders Inclined to Mark Time as Losses Hit Other Exchanges.

New York, Sept. 8 (A.P.).—The bond market was inclined to mark time today as it observed the uncertain movement of stocks and commodities.

While the majority of senior securities were fairly firm during the greater part of the session, they eased a bit in late trading and closed only slightly above their position of yesterday.

Except in the foreign department, the activity was rather restricted. Sales totaled $11,386,000, par value, and the average for 60 corporate loans advanced one-tenth of a point.

South American issues were in demand. The Argentines added from 1 to 3 points to their previous advances, and Buenos Aires loans jumped from 3 to 9 points. Substantial improvement was also shown by obligations of Brazil, Montevideo City, Peru and Santa Fe. The Germans were heavily traded, but closed barely steady after an early advance.

Sales of General Motors 37,230 Cars in August

New York, Sept. 8 (A.P.).—General Motors Corporation sold 37,230 cars and trucks to consumers in the United States during August. This compared with 32,849 in July and 69,876 in August, 1931.

Sales to American dealers last month totaled 24,151 units against 31,096 in July and 62,667 a year ago. Total sales to dealers, including Canadian and overseas business, amounted to 30,419 units compared with 36,872 in the previous month and 70,078 in August, 1931.

COTTON PRICES SINK $6 ON U. S. REPORT

11,310,000-Bale Estimate Sends Market Down 97 to 104 Points.

December contracts which had sold up to 9.30 during the earlier trading, broke to 8.00 under heavy general liquidation, or about 130 points from the high of the morning and 107 points below yesterday's closing quotations. They closed at 8.05, with the general market closing barely steady at net declines of 97 to 104 points.

The market showed considerable strength during the earlier trading in response to relatively steady Liverpool cables and a continuance of trade buying and covering. First prices were 12 to 18 points higher and while the market met considerable Southern selling and realizing, offerings were readily absorbed, with the active months selling 20 to 28 points net higher before the end of the morning.

Rush of Selling.

There was a rush of selling orders when trading was resumed after the report the first effects of which sent prices off 78 to 109 points from the best levels of the morning, and while this was followed by rallies of some 15 or 20 points, the market weakened again later under renewed liquidation.

March sold at 8.23 in the late trading when the general list showed declines of 120 to 130 points from the highs of the morning and losses of 99 to 107 points from yesterday's closing. Last prices were within 2 to 5 points of the lowest for the day.

The Government report placing the indicated yield at 11,310,000 bales, or about 4,000 bales above the August indications, was only 56,000 bales above the average of recent private reports, but over 500,000 bales over the average expectation of New York Cotton Exchange members, as indicated by the recent canvass. Exports today, 19,922, making 631,131 so far this season.

WHEAT VALUES DROP ON CANADA RECEIPTS

Other Market Declines Add to Difficulties; Corn and Oats Down.

Chicago, Sept. 8 (A.P.).—Jolted by cotton market tumbles and by enormous rural deliveries of wheat in Canada, grain values suffered material setbacks today.

Rallies in wheat because of evening up for the Government grain crop report due tomorrow failed to hold. The downturns carried wheat 3¼ cents a bushel under Tuesday's high point.

Wheat closed nervous, ¾ to 1 cent below yesterday's finish; corn, ⅜ to ½ off, and provisions varying from 12 cents decline to a rise of 12 cents.

Late weakness of securities contributed to unsettlement of wheat.

Canadian country marketings of wheat were more than triple those of a year ago. Domestic receipts of wheat Northwest were also large, 688 cars today against 337 the corresponding time last year.

Liberal receipts of corn had a bearish effect on corn and oats. Provisions averaged lower with grains and cotton.

TURNER NEW GRID COACH AT DEVITT

THE football star at Devitt Prep, in descendancy for some years, promises to rise this campaign. Yesterday school officials announced the appointment of Dick Turner, whose football was played at Tech, Devitt and Virginia, and at the same time issued a call for candidates, began assembling the season's schedule, and announced that Tech High would be one of the teams played.

Several well known scholastic gridmen may enroll at Devitt this season, including Carlton Edwards, quarter back with Tech last year; Archie Via, all-State guard with Washington-Lee High last year, and big Elwood Clements, center on the same team. Dye, all-high tackle at Tech last year, also is a possible Devitt student. All four of these youths will prep for either West Point or Navy.

No football was played at Devitt last year, but in 1930 a good big squad represented the school, and the year before that it had perhaps the best team in the city.

Turner was regarded as one of the best ends ever turned out by Virginia. He played in 1927, 1928 and 1929. He played at Tech in 1924, after playing a year at Devitt. Then he went back to Devitt, and played the 1925 season, after which he entered Virginia.

Walter Reed Appoints Ahearn Boxing Coach

the swinging block, one being a triple and another a double, while he scored one run himself and propelled home the other two credited to his team.

Reynolds was the only Nat to hit safely more than once, with Heinie Manush, who seems to be down from a blow by "Joe Stump," going hitless. Goslin was credited with half of the St. Louis bingles, getting a single which was used in the making of the first run of the game, and a two-bagger, which was put to no good use, in the fourth.

Oscar Melillo, Browns' second-sacker, was banished from the game by Umpire "Bull" Guthrie in the fourth stanza for too strongly objecting to a decision which gave Manush a stolen base as Cronin fanned, with the count three and two. Melillo threw the ball to the ground and immediately was chased to the locker room, all this adding considerably to the entertainment of the small crowd.

The Browns broke the ice in the second session, which Goslin opened with a single past Kuhel. After Ferrel flied out, Melillo rolled to Cronin, and both runners were safe when the Washington shortstop's throw to second for a force-play was late. Kerr followed through in the hope of nipping the hitter at first and pegged wildly, and Goslin carried on to third and Melillo to second. Scharein's infield out let the run trickle over, and the round ended on Levey's roller to Cronin. This was the beginning and the end for the Browns.

Stewart was not hit hard, but hard enough. The Nats tied the string in the fourth on Manush's walk and theft and Reynolds' double, and rang up what proved to be their winning margin in the sixth. Bluege's safe bunt and Reynolds' triple molded one run and West singled home the other.

PEACOCK ANNEXES DISTRICT GOLF TITLE

80—313. He was decidedly lacking in the form displayed the first half.

The junior champion, Maury Nee, of Manor, shot a 75 in the morning, but then cracked for an 82 to finish with 316. The rest of the field tagged on in higher figures, although young Billy Shannon, of Columbia, tackled the final eighteen in 79. Billy Detweiler, Manor's boy sensation, withdrew, while Franklin Parks, of Congressional, the sixth of the national amateur candidates, resigned from the task after an 86.

It was obvious that the wind, ripping at high speed over the rolling fairways, had played havoc with the golfers.

Peacock's golf was both good and bad yesterday, but he possessed such a commanding lead that he would have had to crack wide open to lose, since his companion in the three-some, Harry Pitts, was decidedly off his game. Roger's booming tee shots split the fairways, his approaches, save in a few instances, went true to their mark, but his putts either curled away, stopped dead by inches, or hung on the lip of the cup.

The first nine apparently was his jinx. In the morning he used up 40 strokes, while in the afternoon three sixes and two fives skyrocketed his total on that side to 44. On the second hole he hooked his second shot into a trap for a five, three-putted the third, the seventh and ninth. On the third nine he three-putted after being trapped on the fourth, saw his second on the fifth shoot over the green against the fence for an unplayable lie for a six, took a six on the seventh and topped his second for a six on the eighth.

His morning second nine was made in 35, as was the afternoon. He three-putted the tenth, took a four on the short thirteenth after being in a trap, sank a 15-footer for a birdie on the fourteenth, and almost holed out on the eighteenth for a birdie. On the last nine he was one over on only two holes, the fourteenth and seventeenth, three-putting the former and missing his putt after being trapped on the latter. On the 196-yard thirteenth, he rammed in a 40-footer for a deuce.

Charest Finalist In Veteran Tennis

Forest Hills, Long Island, Sept. 7. Clarence Charest, 49-year-old net wizard from Washington, D. C., reached the final round of the national veterans' tennis championship here today when he eliminated Henry Bassford, several times national veterans' doubles champion, in straight sets, 6—2, 8—4.

G. W. SQUADS TASTE REAL FOOTBALL

Special to The Washington Post.

CAMP LETTS, Md., Sept. 8.—A slice of real football was cut here today, when two burly George Washington University teams wrestled each other all over the lot in the most determined workout of the training season. One more regular proved a bit too brittle for the pace and was carried off the field—Zuzu Stewart, seasoned 1931 guard, who will be out several days with a twisted knee.

The Golds, a smooth collection of sophomores and 1931 varsity reserves, came off best in today's grid fireworks, pushing the Reds, the chosen people of Pixlee, 60 yards back down the field and ramming over a touchdown. The Reds, made up of last year's first flight team, was totally on the defensive.

An old face joined the camp today when Lax Somers, guard on the 1930 team, returned to the squad after a year's absence. Somers said he read where the team needed guards, and thought he'd go back to school.

SANDLOT DUST

Mount Rainier will entertain the Columbia Heights nine, champions of the Capital City League, in a game to be played Sunday at 3 p. m., at Mount Rainier. The two battled four scoreless innings last Sunday before rain halted the fray. Bill Hoffman or Francis McMahon will twirl for the Mounts, while Spigel will do mound duty for the champs.

The Mercury 135-pound football team will drill tonight at 7 o'clock on the field at Four-and-a-half street and Missouri avenue southwest. All candidates are requested to report.

Fairfax Farms Dairy nine will entertain the Buck Glass Co. team, of Baltimore, in a game today at 3 o'clock on the Washington Barracks field. The Dairymen, only recently organized, have made an impressive showing. They lost to the Police nine by a 3-0 score Wednesday.

The Maryland A. C. eleven, formerly the Dixie Pigs, will hold its initial drill Sunday at 10 a. m. at Seat Pleasant.

The Northeast Trojans Football Team will indulge in its first practice of the year Sunday morning at 10 o'clock on the Rosedale Playground field. Coach Al Miller wants all players and any new candidates to report promptly.

Fussell-Young nine will drill today and tomorrow at 5:30 o'clock on the Rosedale Playground field. All players are requested to report.

The Centennial Football Team will meet tonight at 8 o'clock at Manager Joe Khuen's home, 12 New York avenue northwest.

Dor-A will play the Anacostia Eagles tomorrow at 3 o'clock at Riverdale. Sunday Dor-A will meet Falls Church at 1 o'clock, and the Capital Traction nine at 3 o'clock. Both games to be played at Falls Church.

The Indianhead Seniors want a game for Sunday. Call Indianhead 77 after 4:30 o'clock.

The Phoenix A. C. will meet the Riggs A. C. Saturday and the Virginia White Sox Sunday. Both games will be played on their opponents' fields at 3 o'clock.

Majestic Radio will meet the Glenn Dale Firemen Sunday in a doubleheader at Seabrook, Md. First game will start at 1:30.

Times-Herald will clash with the Union Printers Sunday at 3 o'clock on the West Ellipse.

The District of Columbia Umpires Association Baseball Team, that venerable collection of athletes, will pit their wares against the Palais Royal nine Sunday at 11 a. m., on Diamond No. 4. Palais Royal won the Department Store League title.

Bob Pollen, Harding, Wiltshire and Bowman, members of the Columbia Heights Baseball Team, are requested to call Manager Charley Edwards today between 6 and 7 p. m., at Georgia 2761-J.

Indian Spring A. C. wants a game for Sunday. Call Silver Spring 63-R between 5 and 6 p. m.

Silva and Erana Play In Filipino Semifinal

Felix Silva and Mariano Erana, rated the two best Filipino tennis players in Washington, will meet today in the semifinal round of their annual tournament at 5 o'clock at Potomac Park. Zamora meets Tomelden in the other semifinal round match at the same time and place.

Yesterday, in mixed doubles, Mary K. Ricca and F. M. Silva defeated Ella Villalon and D. Yap, 6—1, 7—5. Peggy Keyser and M. A. Erana beat Bobsy Totten and Arturo Tomelden, 6—0, 11—9.

Wardman Park Tennis Event Opens Tomorrow

The annual Wardman Park Hotel invitation tennis tournament opens tomorrow afternoon on the hotel courts with the expectation of a brilliant field of netmen in the running for the Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson trophy.

Applicants for a place in the draw may call at the Tennis Shop, 1019 Fifteenth street, today, to William O. Shreve, secretary-treasurer of the Washington Tennis Association.

G. P. O. LOSES TO SLEUTHS, 13 TO 8

POUNDING a pair of Government Printing Office twirlers for eleven hits, Investigation defeated its opponent in the second game to even their series for the Departmental League crown before the faithful 500 at Griffith Stadium. The final score was 13 to 8, but it undoubtedly would have been much larger had not darkness halted the fray in the sixth inning.

The third and deciding game of the series will be played this afternoon at 4:30 o'clock at Griffith Stadium.

at 4 to 4 in the ninth inning. Then George Uhle, who had relieved Elon Hogsett in the seventh, pitched four scoreless innings, while George Pipgras also was holding the Tigers without a run.

In the fourteenth, Gehrig singled, Lazzeri sacrificed and Dickey singled, scoring Gehrig. Dickey advanced on a passed ball and scored on Crosetti's single.

Babe Ruth's illness brought Sam Byrd into the game and he proved a worthy substitute in that first game, hitting two home runs and three singles to drive in the first four Yankee runs.

5-CENT FARE PARLEY IS URGED BY P. U. C.

Traction Heads to Be Invited to Confer on Two-Zone Proposals.

Following a discussion of the proposal of People's Counsel Richmond B. Keech that the street railways institute a two-zone fare system, the Public Utilities Commission yesterday decided to invite the heads of the street car companies and the Washington Rapid Transit Co. to confer on the question of zone rates.

Earlier Maj. Gen. Mason M. Patrick, chairman of the commission, had stated that the commission's hands were tied by the appeal in the 10-cent fare case although it was favorable to any plan for zone fares. Since then Corporation Counsel William W. Bride is understood to have advised the commission to call a conference with the railway officials.

William F. Ham, president of the Washington Railway & Electric Co., and John H. Hanna, president of the Capital Traction Co., are understood to be more favorably inclined to Mr. Keech's propcsal than they were to previous commission suggestions as to experimental zone fares.

Mr. Keech contends that the hands of the commission are not tied by the 10-cent fare case and that this is the opportune time to experiment with a zone system. His plan calls for two zones with 5 and 10 cent rates, the former applying only to the downtown or congested section of the city.

Optimist Club's Picnic To Be Held Tomorrow

The Optimist Club will hold its annual family picnic at Arundel-on-the Bay tomorrow. Boy, 11, Hurt as Scooter Collides With Taxicab

The operator of the cab, Andrew R. Follin, 34, of 1205 Thirteenth street northwest, placed the boy in his cab and removed him to Georgetown Hospital, where physicians said his condition was undetermined.

FEDERAL EMPLOYES FLAY A. F. L. CHIEFS

Miss McNally and Steward Say Green Aims to "Rule or Ruin."

Stinging criticism of the ruling executives of the American Federation of Labor was voiced in a statement made public last night by Luther C. Steward, president, and Miss Gertrude McNally, secretary-treasurer, respectively, of the National Federation of Federal Employes.

The statement was published as the leading article in the latest issue of the Federal Employe, official organ of the federation of employes, and was in reply to the recent charges levelled at the employes by President William L. Green, of the A. F. of L.

"President Green has done almost everything possible in an effort to bring disunion and disharmony in the ranks of the National Federation of Federal Employes," the Steward-McNally statement said, after recounting the events which led up to the vote of the employes' union to withdraw from affiliation with the A. F. of L. because of the opposition of the latter to classification legislation desired by the government workers. Offers made by Mr. Green to settle the storm of controversy which arose after the A. F. of L. Vancouver convention were described as "spurious" and "large and high sounding." The course of the A. F. of L. leaders, Mr. Steward and Miss McNally said, has been to "rule or ruin" and the welfare of Federal employes has been "far removed from the mind of the so-called 'leadership' of the A. F. of L."

Described as Defiant.

The granting of a charter by the American Federation of Labor to a group which seceded from the Federation of Employes was described as in defiance of all the time-honored concepts of the labor movement.

"President Green has seen fit to honor this 'organization' by granting a charter of affiliation prior to its convention, prior to the development of effective local unions, prior to the setting up of anything except a shadow, a palpable and obvious straw man, a weak, inept counterfeit, useful only to save the face of the leadership of the American Federation of Labor.

"It is this attitude of selfishness, deliberate misunderstanding and of rank stupidity which has characterized the entire relationship of the officers of the American Federation of Labor to the National Federation since the Vancouver convention.

"Conceived in the injustice of that convention's back-stabbing action on classification, nurtured by downright misrepresentation following it, aided in its growth by an attempt at legal chicanery which attempted to set aside the will of the majority, and finally reaching full flower in the hasty, premature, unprecedented granting of a charter to the 'American Federation of Government Employes,' this attitude and this effort leave an odorous and a fetid trail.

"Complete Failure."

"It should be obvious to every intelligent person that the American Federatfon of Labor as at present officered has nothing whatsoever to offer to Federal employes. The regime of President Green has furnished an unbroken record of complete failure in organization attempts. Its legislative machinery is both inadequate and inept, and its steadily diminishing influence is becoming more widely known with the passage of time."

The Federation of Federal Employes, Mr. Steward and Miss McNally said, has found the American Federation of Labor an "actual liability" in the legislative fights which have been waged to better working conditions in the Government service.

Federal Workers' Unit Plans Meeting Tonight

The officers and delegates of the District Department of the American Federation of Government Employes will hold an organization meeting tonight in the American Federation of Labor Building, at Ninth street and Massachusetts avenue northwest, to plan activities for the autumn and winter months.

CAPITAL TO BE HOST TO 34 CONVENTIONS

$1,000,000 Additional Expected to Be Brought Here in Next Month.

The greatest period of national convention activity in the history of the Capital will begin the latter part of this month and continue through October, during which 34 national conventions will be held here. The visitors are expected to place $1,000,000 additional money into local trade channels.

Among the larger organizations which will convene here, and their estimated attendance are:

International Beauty and Barber Shop Supply Association, estimated attendance, 700; headquarters, Wardman Park Hotel; September 26 to 30.

The National Safety Congress and Exposition, estimated attendance, 5,000; headquarters, Wardman Park Hotel, October 3-7. American Bar Association, estimated attendance, 1,000; headquarters, Mayflower and Willard Hotels, October 10-14.

National League of District Postmasters, estimated attendance, 1,500; headquarters, Willard Hotel, October 18-23. American Public Health Association, estimated attendance, 1,000; headquarters, Willard and Washington Hotels, October 24-27. National Fox Hunters Association, estimated attendance, 1,000; headquarters, Wardman Park Hotel, week of October 31.

The Greater National Capital Committee of the Washington Board of Trade estimates these conventions alone will bring $700,000 into the Washington trade channels. The other 27 conventions are expected to increase the total to $1,000,000. The total amount of money normally brought into trade here by conventions, tourists and other visitors is $40,000,000 annually.

First Desks Arrive For Roosevelt School

The first of three carloads of chairs and desks for the new Roosevelt High School arrived here yesterday afternoon, it was learned from Jere Crane, assistant superintendent of schools.

A crew of men will immediately begin installation of the furniture. The other two cars are en route from the factory at Grand Rapids, Mr. Crane stated.

GROCERY MANAGER SLUGGED BY BANDIT

In Serious Condition as Result of Thief's Blow; Another Store Robbed.

Police last night threw out a widespread dragnet for a lone colored bandit and two white robbers who yesterday staged bold midday robberies of two chain stores. Arthur R. Fillmore, 27, of Lanham, Md., manager of an Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co. branch at 1247 Four-and-one-half street southwest, was in a serious condition at Emergency Hospital last night as the result of a blow struck him with a heavy iron pipe by the colored robber.

Fillmore was alone in the store when the man entered and slugged him. About $15 was filched from the cash drawer and $30 was taken from Fillmore's pocket. He was found unconscious by a clerk, Cletus Mohler, when the latter returned from his lunch hour. Fillmore was taken to the hospital and police notified.

Two white bandits held up the Sanitary Grocery at Kentucky avenue and E street southeast about an hour later. At gun point they forced Howard Updike, manager of the chain store branch, to hand over about $15 of the store cash and $25 of his own money.

Updike said the men entered when two customers were in the store and made small purchases. They loitered until the customers had departed and then produced their guns. Both were described as being in their twenties and were said to be neatly dressed. Escape was made in a large blue sedan. One man wore smoked goggles and both were hatless.

Police were spurred in their hunt for the bandits because of the fact that the robberies yesterday climaxed a series of hold-up sallies against chain stores over the last few months. Authorities did not believe there was any connection between yesterday's robberies.

At Emergency Hospital it was said Fillmore's skull had possibly been fractured and that his condition was serious, but not critical. He is expected to recover.

Rivers to Lead Colored Voters in G. O. P. Drive

Francis Ellis Rivers, of New York, son of the Rev. D. F. Rivers, 1718 Eight street northwest, it was announced yesterday, has been appointed to take charge of the eastern section of the colored voters' division of the Republican national campaign, with headquarters in the metropolis. Charles E. Mitchell, of West Virginia, now Minister to Liberia, but here on leave of absence, will assist Rivers as head of the speakers' bureau.

The question of a western, or national head of the colored voters' division, with headquarters in Chicago, had not been decided yesterday, colored politicians expressing the opinion that the decision would not be made until next week. Rivers has served as an assemblyman in New York and put through the assembly the bill by which two colored judges were secured in New York, being defeated in his candidacy for one of these positions by the Tammany orgaization.

First Arrest Made On New Arms Law

Fictitious Address Held Given by Prospective Gun Purchaser.

Detective Sergeant A. D. Manafield yesterday made the first arrest under the new law governing sales of firearms in the District. Thurman Montgomery, 23, colored, was the man arrested.

Under the law a purchaser must file his correct name, address and occupation with the firearms dealer 48 hours before the actual purchase, giving police time to investigate the prospective buyer. Montgomery, police say, gave a fictitious address and when the man called to buy the gun yesterday morning Detective Mansfield took him into custody.

Montgomery will be arraigned in Police Court this morning on the charge. The maximum penalty for violation of the statute is a year's imprisonment or a fine of $1,000, or both.

Police Clear Mystery Over Cross of Malta

The mystery of the Cross of Malta, which caused a furore in the War Department and the District Building Wednesday, was solved yesterday when officials learned from J. E. Bennett, commander of the Police Post of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, that the order is the insignia of the V. F. W., and may be worn by all of its members.

The data prepared by the police had stated erroneously that the cross was authorized by act of Congress and given to veterans for service under fire.

COMMON GAS STOCK IS SOLD AT AUCTION

Outside Owners of Capital Company Reorganize and Reduce Shares List.

The recent reorganization of the out-of-town owners of the Washington Gas Light Co. under which an effort is being made to invalidate the order of the Public Utilities Commission demanding compliance with the LaFollette antimerger act was revealed yesterday in a letter to William A. Roberts, special counsel of the commission, from Arthur Dean, counsel for the Chase, Harris, Forbes Corporation.

The letter reveals that the Westfield Trust and the Central Public Service Corporation have been eliminated from the set-up and that all of the common shares of beneficial interest in the Washington and suburban companies, which was the owner in record of the majority stock of the local gas companies, have been sold at auction for $6,000,000, plus 6 per cent interest. The stock now stands in the name of Chase National Bank of New York and its affiliates and the Chase, Harris, Forbes Corporation.

The stock of the Washington and suburban companies was pledged by a $6,000,000 note of the Westfield Trust, which in turn was guaranteed by the Central Public Service Corporation. When this note was sold at its face value, both of these organizations were eliminated.

The 172,938 common shares of the Washington and Suburban stock held by the Westfield Trust had been reduced by an amended declaration of trust to 6,000, each share now having 28 and a fraction votes for every one held by a preferred shareholder.

The 70,000 preferred shares are now held by the Consolidated Electric & Gas Co., but are pledged as collateral for the bank loans of Central Public Service Corporation, and the banks have an option on such shares.

"Everything has, therefore, been accomplished which I told you and the commission on May 17," the letter states, "and it therefore seems too ridiculous to compel us to try a long and expensive lawsuit when it is perfectly clear that the law is not being violated."

The commission discussed the letter at its regular meeting yesterday, but instructed Mr. Roberts to continue with his preparation of an answer to the bill of complaint filed last week by the foreign owners of the gas companies

This suit has been instituted by the majority stockholders of the local companies, which were the object of the commission's order to surrender the stock. While no legal steps have been taken by the minority stockholders, most of whom are Washingtonians, it is believed they may enter the litigation to protect their interests before the case comes to trial.

RKO-KEITH'S

"THE BIRD OF PARADISE." RKO-Radio picturization of the play by Richard Walton Tully, adapted to the screen by Wells Root, with additional dialogue by Leonard Praskins and Wanda Tuchock, starring Dolores Del Rio, with Joel McCrea, John Halliday, "Skeets" Gallagher and Wade Boteler. Directed by King Vidor. Previewed last Saturday midnight.

By NELSON B. BELL.

Wisely deleting from the original Richard Walton Tully play all of the philosophical discussions, the psychological analysis and the abstruse racial conflicts that added to its luster on the stage, the makers of this colorful exotic film have wisely reduced their narrative to the simple movements of plot than can be picturesquely, diversely and excitingly photographed. In other words, they have translated "The Bird of Paradise" from terms of the traditional theater, for which it was written, to the very essence of the successful motion picture—action. There may not be any too much of the original play left, but a very much better film play results for that precise reason.

The story, as reavealed upon the screen, concerns itself exclusively with the love of Luana, the native of the South Seas, and the white boy, happening upon her island home in course of a cruise through tropical oceans on a rich friend's yacht. Intrigued by the beauty and physical charm of a princess of an aboriginal race, Johnny remains on the island while his friends proceed on their way, to pick him up upon their return. During this interval, Luana is compelled to enter upon the prolonged wedding ceremonials of her race with a bridegroom to whom she is pledged merely by the custom of her people. From this predicament she is rescued by a daring bit of kidnaping and whisked away to a neighboring isle, where she and Johnny set up light housekeeping and she acquires English with amazing facility. The final sundering of these bonds and her sacrifice to Pele, god of the volcano, is in consonance with the tragic climax of the play as Tully wrote it and as it was seen upon the stage over a continuous period of a decade and a half.

The action now seems to have been placed among the islands more remote than Hawaii, where suggestions of cannibalism will not sound a jarring note and where fantastic tribal rites will permit the embellishment of the story with scenes of unexampled frenzy amid natural settings of rugged and impressive grandeur. The filming, however, actually was done in Hawaii.

The movement of events leads through jungles, over mountains and beneath the surface of the sea, where a battle with a shark affords an interval of thrilling suspense not unrelated to the principal development of the plot. It is in its diversity of scene and action that the picture finds one of its most valid claims to greatness. No other medium could match its versatility.

Dolores Del Rio and Joel McCrea were happy selections for the pivotal roles of the forbidden lovers. The effectiveness of their work is enhanced by an almost constant native background, in which no Occidental appears. In the white roles incidental to the play's thematic trend are John Halliday, "Skeets" Gallagher, Creighton Chaney, son of the late Lon Chaney, Wade Boteler, Bert Roach and numerous others.

The RKO-Pathe News, the radio audition contest and assorted short-reels supplement a feature that makes prime use of dramatic elements that are peculiarly and exclusively the property of the cinema.

PALACE

"LOVE ME TONIGHT." Paramount picturization of a play by Leopold Marchand and Paul Arment, adapted to the screen by Samuel Hoffenstein, Waldemar Young and George Marion, jr., with music by Richard Rodgers and Lorenz Hart, starring Maurice Chevalier, with Jeanette MacDonald, Charles Butterworth, C. Aubrey Smith, Myrna Loy, Charles Ruggles and Bert Roach. Directed by Rouben Mamoulian. Previewed a week ago Thursday.

Bright and full of life, fresh in viewpoint and treatment and revolutionary in its use of music, this effervescent and wholly inconsequential story of impetuous love and innocent deception should prove by far the most delightful musicalized romance that has been brought to the screen for discerning lovers of sophisticated and clever entertainment.

From the very moment when dawn breaks over Paris and the rhythmic falling of the pick of a single matutinal street laborer ushers in the growing clamor of an awakening city, to the last flickering fadeout of the lovers in each others' arms, "Love Me Tonight" is amusing, vivacious and so original in the method of its development as to provide a perpetual tang of novelty. There are moments, too, to be sure, when it dares to be discreetly risque, but never to the point of more than implied impropriety.

The story of the struggling young tailor who finds himself in the palace of the duke mistaken for a baron and in love with the beautiful Princess Jeanette, while intending only to run down the impecunious Vicompte Gilbert Vareze and collect his own and his neighboring shopmen's bills, is often feathery and never laibored, but it is so deftly directed, so flawlessly acted and so gorgeously staged that it deludes the senses into an impression of superlative artistry and a dramatic importance perhaps beyond its actual worth. It weaves a spell, in short, from which there is no escape.

For the first time in the history of the American cinema, to the best of my knowledge, music here has been made an indispensable aid to the movement of plot, the pointing of character and the acceleration of tempo. The Messrs. Rodgers and Hart have evolved a musical style that is as dramatically effective as it is adroit and new. For purposes of its successful exploitation, incidentally, they have contributed a group of songs that are uniformly excellent. "Mimi," "I'm an Apache" and "He's a Tailor" no doubt will prove to be those least easily forgotten.

In the role of the tailor, Maurice Chevalier has an assignment that entails more than drooping an under lip, wearing a straw sailor and singing his songs straight into the eye of a camera. There is characterization in the part that takes a bit of doing and he does it to the last ounce of its possibilities. In the opposite role, Jeannette McDonald is completely charming, whether as comedienne, prima donna or lovelorn coquette, and Myrna Loy quite outdoes herself as the Countess Valentine, one of the sprightliest figures in the play. Charlie Ruggles, as the indigent Vicompte, is a constant source of joy and Charles Butterworth pits his whimsical humor against the bluff austerity of C. Aubrey Smith, as the pompous Duke, who is not above expressing his ire now and again in song!

The customary short-reel auxiliaries augment a program that no discriminating amusement-seeker can in justice to himself afford to miss.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

WHEN "The Devil and the Deep" opens at the Earle Theater today, the Capital will have its first opportunity to catch a glimpse of Gary Cooper since his return from an extensive vacation devoted to globe trotting and the improvement of his health. That is, unless my memory is at it again!

According to all reports, he returns to the movie wars in finer fettle than he has ever been—a little more stalwart, handsomer and with an amplified flair for romance. If you are among those who have never cared for the tall Montanan—if any such group exists—you probably will not be enraptured now, for the difference is not so great as all that. For those whose blood pressure he has always sent roaring toward the danger zone and whose temperature he has whipped up to the boiling point, there is said to be a treat in store.

At any rate, opposite Miss Tallulah Bankhead in the most impressive role the cinema has so far afforded her, the revivified Mr. Cooper ought to find himself congenially cast—especially since he only comparatively recently returned from a jaunt about the continent of Africa, and "Devil and the Deep" has as its locale a naval base on the African coast.

At least, he ought not to be able to say that he didn't know what it was all about!

Wallace Munro, first of the new theatrical season's early harbingers, a welcome caller in the dramatic department these days, he being a month ahead, smoothing the path for Eva Le Gallienne and her Civic Repertory Company, and confiding interesting intelligence concerning the unique last-act treatment that thoroughly competent young actress is bestowing upon her production of Dumas' "Camille," which will divide the week of October 3, at the National, with Molnar's "Liliam." It seems that what the Lady of the Camellias really did was give young Armand the chill! So we are led to believe that Miss Le Gallienne freezes young Mr. Joseph Schildkraut solid—which is not like any Camille we are able to recall, or any Traviata, either.

The lowdown on Gotham, as brought back to the Capital in his new sedan by Phil Lampkin, musical director at Loew's Fox:

Broadway, as the "Gay White Way" and the world's most glamorous thoroughfare, has gone bye-bye . . . What once were "name" acts on the big time are doing their stuff in the subways for whatever the commuters will drop in the hat . . . Biggest novelty in town is the "Frankenstein adagio" being done by a team of sepia dancers at Connie's Inn up in Harlem . . . Biggest novelty, the semi-classical pipe organ interludes rendered between the dance numbers in the same place, supposed to be one of New York's hottest night spots . . . Don Bestor, well known in Washington as former conductor of the Benson Orchestra of Chicago, scoring a hit at the Hotel New Yorker with the best orchestra he has ever had . . . Looking younger than ever, which is probably just a lot of malarkey, he sent many insulting messages to your reporter . . . Nice boy, Don . . . And, I ask you, is that a swell job of heaping coals of fire . . . Earl Carroll declares he is going to make a world-beater out of that roguish young plagiarist, Milton Berle, the town's prevalent sensation, who steals everybody's stuff and tells them frankly he can do it better than they can . . . Rudy Vallee, gone philosophical, didn't know what the rumpus with Fay was all about and made up just like that . . . Sophie Tucker, part of the holdover, all-star stage bill at the Capitol, scoring the hit of her life with "Lord, You Made the Nights Too Long," counterpointed with an interpolated arrangement of "Eli-Eli" . . . Show is such a hit it is playing to lockout business by 1 p. m., daily . . . The new revue, "Ballyhoo," with the Howard Brothers and Jeanne Aubert, needs a trip to the cleaners . . . Two days before opening, the show didn't have a second act . . . Speakeasies cutting each others' throats, but not their liquor . . . Three can dine as cheaply as one, or something . . . What you say we dash up and drink a couple of good meals!

Incidentally, it comes to my knowledge, speaking of Mr. Lampkin and the Fox Orchestra, that the musical organization in their Washington ace house is the largest now maintained in any theater on the Loew circuit, and that the success of its overture numbers has so impressed the New York home office that they are advocating the addition of "b" numbers to the weekly orchestral programs.

Now, does the public like music, or does the public like music?

An item in the last issue of Variety announces that, hoping to uncover another Weissmuller, Paramount has joined in the search for athletes and is particularly anxious to find a strong man with S. A. and B. O. for "King of the Jungle," an adaptation of C. T. Stoneham's "Lion's Way."

I got the "S. A.," sex appeal business, all right, but having read those soap ads, I was a bit puzzled as to why they should want anybody with "B. O."—until I read down a little farther and discovered that it meant "box office!" Imagine my embarrassment!

Keech Tells Business Men Trolley Fare Plan

Raymond O. Keech, people's counsel of the District, outlined his plan for zone street car rates at yesterday's luncheon of the Central Business Men's Association at the Ann Clarendon Club.

President A. C. Smith appointed a committee composed of Leon Brill, Dr. Evans and E. Young to determine what stand the association will take on the proposition.

Transocean Flier Reported Better

Walter Hinton, Victim of Heart Attack, Was NC4 Pilot.

Emergency Hospital physicians yesterday announced that Walter Hinton, former noted naval aviator, had spent a "passable day and was recovering from a serious heart attack he suffered Tuesday at his home in the Westchester Apartments.

Hinton, as a naval lieutenant, was at the controls of the naval plane NC-4, part of the four-plane expedition which first crossed the Atlantic. On another occasion he was pilot for the Rice expedition up the Amazon. Hinton was once lost in the Canadian wilderness for a week after a balloon in which he was making an ascension caught in a gale.

The naval flier has been active in local aviation circles for several years and is chairman of the aviation committee of the Chamber of Commerce. He operates a flying school here.

Senate Unit Sets Rent Inquiry Hearing Today

The Senate subcommittee will hold a hearing in connection with the inquiry into rents at 2:30 p. m. today in the Senate District committee room at the Capitol, Oscar H. Brinkman, counsel to the subcommittee, announced yesterday.

A number of real estate men have been asked to attend. It has not been indicated what phase of the subcommittee's program will be taken up.

Alexandria Water Rate Case Delayed.

Announcement was made yesterday that the case of the Alexandria Water Co., for a further raise in rates will not be heard before the appeals court until February next.

PLUNGING 4 STORIES, MAN IS NEAR DEATH

Fall of Government Worker Believed Accident, but Probe to Continue.

Hurtling four stories to a cement court from the window of an apartment house at 1724 Seventeenth street northwest last night, Daniel Nicholson, 36-year-old employe of the Alien Property Custodian's Office and son of Frederick Nicholson, secretary to Senator H. D. Hatfield, of West Virginia, is in a critical condition in Emergency Hospital with injuries expected to prove fatal.

Nicholson, police said, plunged from a window of the fourth floor apartment of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis H. Barnes, whom he was visiting. Mrs. Barnes told police she was resident manager of the building.

Nicholson returned here yesterday from a vacation at his home in Huntington, W. Va., and went directly to the Barnes apartment after work. Although he registered at the Powhatan Hotel three days ago, officials there said the room had been given up.

Tired Out From Trip.

Mrs. Barnes told police Nicholson complained of being "tired out" from his trip and went to sleep in a bedroom. Some time later, she said, he was heard moving about and when she went to investigate, he was not in the room.

Running to an open window, Mrs. Barnes said she saw his prostrate form sprawled on the concrete court below. Nicholson is believed to have been attempting to lower an awning and lost his balance. He was taken to the hospital by Mr. Barnes.

Police investigating the case were puzzled by the absence of blood around the spot where the man's body fell. Although he lay in one position for several minutes, no evidence of blood were found, they said.

To Continue Investigation.

Nicholson's friends at the Alien Property office said he left work early, saying he was tired and going home.

Police said they were convinced the plunge was an accident, but would continue their investigation.

Nicholson is a former student at George Washington University and was planning to enter fall classes this year. One of his best friends was killed in a similar plunge from a window of the Park Central Apartments at Nineteenth and F streets northwest, about two years ago.

Comedy Reigns At Kiwanis Rite

Dr. H. S. Hoffman Undergoes Serious 'Operation' at Initiation.

Dr. Herman S. Hoffman, Washington physician and surgeon, became a member of the Washington Kiwanis Club yesterday, at unusual ceremonies at the Raleigh Hotel.

As an initiation, Dr. Hoffman was forced to undergo a serious "operation." He was placed on the operating table before the assembled Kiwanians, surgical instruments were produced and "doctors" Mark Lansburgh, Jack Boobar and Roe Fulkerson, performed the "operation." An imitation leg was held aloft by the "doctors" to show the results of their treatment.

Three delegates were elected to represent the local club at the Capital District Kiwanis convention here in October. They are Dewey Zirkin, James B. Edmunds and Lewis T. Breuninger.

Bad Health Blamed In Suicide Attempt

Employe of Street Cleaning Department Shoots Self; Condition Critical.

John H. Morris, 56, was in a critical condition at Casualty Hospital last night as the result of a pistol wound in his temple, self-inflicted, police said, because of extended ill health.

An employe of the street-cleaning department, for which he drives a truck, Morris is married and has four children. The family lives at 2508 Thirty-third street southeast. Mrs. Nannie E. Morris, the wounded man's wife, said she and her daughter, Lillian, 19, were in the kitchen yesterday morning when they heard a shot. R
